Something in her manner, in fact that she will not look at him, maddens him.

"Do not waste time thus uselessly," he says coldly "God or one of the ser-vants may see you."

He turns away with a rather cen-tentious haste, and disappears once more into the morning air.

CHAPTER XXVI

Our Emperor is a tyrant, feared and hated.

"Anything else gone wrong?" de-mands Mr. Peyton going at Griselda's stricken countenance with a sure pre-sentiment of coming evil. He has wedged one foot into a friendly hole in the wall and thus supported is able to give her rather more of his attention than at their last meeting. "Everything" says Griselda sol-ely.

"Begin at the beginning, or we'll never get through" suggests he be-ing if anything an eminently practical young man. "Nothing fresh about me, at all events?"

"How old are you?" asks Griselda irrelevantly as it seems, regarding him with distinct pity.

"Twenty-eight last May."

"It is a long time to live in the world and be still so sanguine" says she contemptively. "I should rouse myself a bit if I were you. Let me tell you that I spent a lippy half hour with dear Uncle Gregory this morning discussing you and you only."

"The deuce" says Mr. Peyton, so completely taken aback as to for-get to be indignant at her scathing re-marks. "Why what have I men now?" As he speaks his foot misses its hold.

"Take care, you'll fall off" cries Griselda, catching him by the coat-sleeve. "I really wish you wouldn't slip about like that. Surely I'm un-happy enough without your com-pelling me to see you dashed to atoms before my eyes" the wall is exactly six feet in height and he now stands he has about two feet to fall.

"Never mind me. Tell me about your uncle. What did he say?"

"He was at no loss for words. I assure you. The original "old man eloquent" was a nod to him. Whether or he knew of your last visit—and I firmly believe he knows everything that happens under the sun, or could know if he chose—I can't say, but at all events he sent for me to his study and there wrote me in fresh not to leave the grounds and to hold no communication with you" of course I promised.

"Oh Griselda"

"Well what would you have done with his horrid eyes fixed on you? You'd have done just the same" says Griselda indignantly. "And you know I have told you not to call me by my Christian name, and when a person tells you she wishes to that sort of thing, I do that."

"Very good, I remember" says he impatiently "and now go on. Do you mean to tell me that you promised never to speak to me again?"

"Why I promised that last time, and you made me break my word" she says miserably. "But this time I am determined. I shall refuse to sit until you are sent for."

At this inanity they both laughed in a soft subdued way that lends the occasion a charm.

"That's number one grievance" says he "now for number two."

"The gardener's assistant; that's number two. And I believe I may thank him for the scolding I got this morning. He gave warning in fact, left on the spot, and Uncle Gregory has been in a godish temper ever since, specially quiet, you know, which always means mischief. If he would only rage and storm in a decent fashion, or box somebody's ears—so long as they weren't— I could endure it so much better."

"Why should he care so greatly for the loss of an assistant?"

"Because the assistant is in reality the gardener, and you know how he treasures his flowers. It seems absurd that so hated a being can feel love for anything so innocent, but then we know Robespierre loved a little dog. Besides there is another, a less poetical reason for his annoyance at Dur-dan's abrupt departure."

"Had him cheap?" suggests Peyton. Griselda regards him with a favor-able eye.

"You're as clever as you look," she says politely. "He had him for a song. Positively for nothing! He has lived here all his life, grew up here in fact, and to the boy's wages he first received nothing has ever been added. To this fact the excellent Durdan woke yesterday and left without further argument for which I honour him and Uncle Gregory is in despair."

"He'll recover" says Peyton un-feelingly.

"I fear so. But not even the knowl-edge that he has been able to keep

ACTORS' PAY FIFTY YEARS A.G.O.

Irving Gor $15 and Charles Wynd-ham $15 Per Week.

In view of the movement among the-atre employes in London for a mini-mum wage of $15 a week and pay for rehearsals some one has unearthed the pay roll of the Queen's Theatre of half a century ago and given it to the public for purpose of comparison. In it Sir Charles Wyndham is shown as receiving $15 a week, while Sir Henry Irving received less by about $2. Foot the leading star was paid $55 and Miss Ella Terry the lead-ing lady was put down to $25.

WEEPING ECZEMA SOON RELIEVED

A Perfect Treatment For This Distressing Complaint

WASBRO, Ont.

"I had an attack of Weeping Eczema; so bad that my clothes would be wet through at times. For four months, I suffered terribly. I could get no relief until I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and 'Sootha Salva' The first treatment gave me relief. Altogether, I have used three boxes of 'Sootha Salva' and two of 'Fruit-a-tives', and am entirely well!"

G. W. HALL.

Both these sterling remedies are sold by dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"Fruit-a-tives" is also put up in a trial size which sells for 25c.

WOMEN AS BRAVE AS THE MEN

Their Struggle Shows a Remark-able Spirit.

Talk of the bravery of men, but where can you find a finer spirit than among the half-sick women who are fighting and struggling to do their duty against the terrible odds of ill-health and who will not give up.

One woman in every three is struggling against weakness. Most of them are not exactly sick, but, oh, how miserable.

The burden and misery of it all has its foundation in the blood which is thin and watery. The red cells are too few. The very stream of life is reduced in vitality. Weakness and inevitable ill-health are the certain result.

Every ailing or weak woman can quickly regain her health in this very simple way. By filling the system with the nutrition that comes from rich red blood, a quick change for the better will result. To accomplish this, take two chocolate-coated Ferrozine Tablets after each meal. You'll feel better immediately for the simple reason that Ferrozine renews the blood. It gives you vim, vigor, en-durance, restores a tired, worn-out system very quickly.

You'll feel like new all over once you get Ferrozine working through your blood. It puts color into faded cheeks, brightens the eye, quickens the step, brings back that wonderful feeling of youth.

One of the finest things Ferrozine does is to make you eat lots and digest it as well. With keen appetite, sound sleep, strong nerves and lots of nourishing blood you're bound to regain robust health. Any sickly girl or ailing woman that Ferrozine won't make well must be incurable. There is a secret power in Ferrozine and it is worth a trial at all events. Fifty cents per box, six for $2.50. At all dealers in medicine or by mail from The C. L. Ferrozine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Comb Sage Tea in Faded or Gray Hair

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell

Grandmother kept her hair beau-tifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonder-ful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bot-tle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beau-ty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not in-tended for the cure, mitigation or pre-vention of disease.
