

are to be elected, then also the Candidate who shall have the next greatest number of votes : and that it was not the intent of the said enactment that it should be necessary that the Candidate or Candidates proclaimed as elected should have an absolute majority of the whole number of votes polled. 5