PROGRESS OF THE WAR

[June 21 to June 27]

DURING the week under review there were no sensational developments in hostilities, no military or naval events of a decisive character, though much activity prevailed on several fronts.

In the Western campaign the British made further gains to the southeast of Ypres, where the Germans have made a further slight voluntary retirement; and they also gained ground south of Lens, which was still strongly held by the Germans. The French were actively engaged on the north of the Aisne between Soissons and Reims, and further east in the Champagne district, and were the attacking party. They made some gains, of which the capture of the "Cavern of Dragons" was conspicuous.

From the extended Russian fronts no important activities were reported, though the Russian troops were said to be everywhere well-prepared for active work and eager to renew hostilities.

Some minor activities were reported on the Macedonian front; but the chief interest of the week in the Balkan campaign centred in the political changes consummated and in progress in Greece. Premier Zaimis tendered his resignation to King Alexander, who called on Venizelos, who had arrived in Athens, to form a new ministry, which was done. It was expected that the changed political conditions in Greece would result in greater harmony of the populace, and that the united Greek army would render its greatly belated aid in restoring Serbia to its banished people.

The week witnessed fierce fighting in the Austro-Italian campaign, especially in the Trentino, where the Austrians claimed a victory of some magnitude and the capture of 1800 Italian prisoners. The Italian accounts did not confirm this entirely.

The week was without news of the campaigns in Mesopotamia, Palestine, Egypt, and East Africa.

The enemy submarine campaign was continued with the usual ruthlessness, with results only slightly less disastrous than in the week preceding The casualties reported in the daily dispatches will be found under "News of the Sea."

The most cheering item of war news received during the week was that of the successful landing in France of a considerable contingent of American troops, said to be well-trained regulars, with more soon to follow.

THE JUBILEE OF CONFEDERATION

ON page 4 we print verbatim a summary of the development and progress of Canada in the first fifty years of the history of the Dominion, which we have taken from a pamphlet entitled "The Jubilee of Confederation," issued by the Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Commons appointed to consider and report on the matter of celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of Canadian Confederation.

We also reprint from The Canada Gazette the Proclamation of His Excellency the Governor-General, declaring that as Dominion Day falls on Sunday it is a suitable occasion for special religious observances and the inculcation of patriotism and loyalty.

Monday, July 2, has been fixed by Proclamation for the celebration of Dominion Day and for the general celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of the Dominion of Canada. The celebration of the day is likely to be quiet, because of the country being at war; but it should be impressive, nevertheless, and it is bound to be memorable. What Canadian is there who is not proud of his country's history and thankful for the great heritage which is his?

THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE

THE Provincial Legislature at Fredericton was prorogued on Friday last, after a session that will be memorable in several ways. The Government, composed as it is of novices, is to be congratulated on having got through so much business in so short a time, and in a manner so generally satisfactory. There will be great regret, however, on the part of all right-thinking and independent people that the Government has made a record in applying the political broom and wielding the political axe. Never in the history of the Province have more dismissals from office been made solely for partisan political reasons; and to this extent the new Government has stultified itself and ignored or repudiated its pre-election pledges. Those who hoped for a higher tone to be imparted to the conduct of political affairs in this Province have yet further to seek; and the prospect of the complete elimination of the practice of "grab" from any political party seems to be as remote as ever. It may come to pass in the millenium.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

CONSIDERABLE progress was made in the general business of Parliament at Ottawa during the past week, but the discussion which occupied most of the time in the House of Commons was on the second reading of the Bill, the Military Service Act, 1917. Many speeches have been made, most of them of an exceptionally high tone elevated above the petty bickerings of party politics, very few of them being exclusively of a purely partisan tenor. The discussion is likely to be prolonged well into next week; and if it is possible to forecast the vote from the trend of the debate the Bill is sure to pass both on the second and third reading. The final vote on the Bill is certain to result in some recasting of political parties. It may also result in stimulating voluntary enlistment to such a point that compulsory service may not be necessary.

We have no space to print in full or in part any of the speeches made in this debate, or to make any detailed comment thereon; but we feel confident that the speech of no member will give greater disappointment in his constituency than that of Mr. Pugsley, of St. John, N. B. It is a satisfactory reflection to those who claim St. John as their birthplace that the present parliamentary representative of the City was not born there; and it is earnestly to be hoped that he will never again be chosen to represent (or as he is doing in this crisis, misrepresent) the old Loyalist City in the Dominion Parliament. In all his political gyrations and contortions he has never given greater offence to his constituents than on the present occasion.

We have had to suspend, temporarily, the publication of further articles on St. Andrews Streets, but hope to resume them soon. As a gentle reminder of the subject we would just say a word or two to encourage the Streets Committee of the Town Council to greater activity. Probably at no time in the history of the Town have the streets been in such bad condition as at present, or more in need of repair. This is not due entirely to the unprecedented wet season, but rather to the neglect of the Town authorities to do the roadwork necessary. As there is now no longer even a pretence of lighting the streets, it is the more necessary that roadways and footpaths should be put in order.

Whatever views may be entertained in regard to many of the dismissals and appointments made recently by the Government at Fredericton, there can be but one opinion in regard to the appointment of T. Carleton Allen, K. C., to be Deputy Attorney-General of the Province. The appointment is non-political and is in no sense a reward for party services, for while Mr. Allen may have had and may still have sympathy with the Liberal party, he has never been an aggressive partisan. In point of ability, legal knowledge, sound judgement, and high character, no one in the legal profession in New Brunswick stands higher to-day, whether on the Bench or at the Bar. We agree with the Government in recognizing the necessity for a deputy to the Attorney-General, and we congratulate them on the manner in which they have chosen the first incumbent of the newly-created office.

It was definitely announced from Ottawa on Thursday that Lt.-Col. George W. Fowler, M. P. for Kings County, has been appointed to the Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. George T. Baird; and that Mr. Gilbert W. Ganong, of St. Stephen, formerly M. P. for the County of Charlotte, has been appointed to succeed Hon. Josiah Wood as Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick. Last week the BEACON announced, on what was considered the best authority, that Mr. Ganong had been appointed to the Senate. If this was true it is evident that the appointment was reconsidered. The BEACON extends to the new Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick heartiest congratulations on the honor worthily conferred on a worthy and distinguished recipient.

CHARLOTTE COUNTY FISHERIES IN PARLIAMENT

Mr. PUGSLEY: Would the minister kingly give me the regulations as to the minimum size of lobsters in the Maritime Provinces? I am anxious to have them placed on Hansard.

Mr. HAZEN: We shall allow one item to stand and I shall place on record the regulations showing the size limit, close seasons, etc.

Mr. PUGSLEY: Some time ago a dealer in St. John showed me samples of lobsters that were allowed to be caught in Nova Scotia. They were about three or four inches in length. It seemed a sin to destroy these very small lobsters, long before they were capable of reproduction. Several years ago I asked a question in regard to a condition which was being inserted in licenses for catching fish in the waters of Charlotte County. These regulations were inserted by the minister before the provincial election of 1912.

Mr. HAZEN: After that, I think.

Mr. PUGSLEY: The minister provided by regulation that fishermen should be obliged to give the Canadian canners the preference; even although an American buyer might be alongside his boat, if a Canadian canner made an equal offer to the fisherman he would be obliged to give the preference to the Canadian. There was quite a rumpus about it in Charlotte, and just before the provincial election my hon. friend suspended the order.

Mr. HAZEN: That clause was put in at the time on the recommendation of Mr. Calder, who for a good many years past had been inspector in the counties of Charlotte and St. John. A large sum was being invested in a sardine factory at St. Andrews it was Mr. Calder's view, which was confirmed by the department, that it was desirable with a view of getting fish from our waters manufactured in Canada, that some preference should be given in order that this factory might be able to get plenty of material to manufacture the sardines. Unfortunately, however, the factory did not prove a financial success. It hardly got under way before it got into difficulties, and the result was that, after reconsideration of the matter, that clause was taken out of the licenses.

Mr. PUGSLEY: Its operation was suspended before the factory ceased operations; it was suspended just prior to the Provincial elections of 1912.

Mr. HAZEN: I do not remember the date.

Mr. PUGSLEY: I wonder that it would not impress itself on the minister.

Mr. HAZEN: I do not think there was anything that, in the language of the Minister of Finance, would synchronize.

Mr. PUGSLEY: Oh, they synchronized, because there was a great deal of dissatisfaction among the men and an order went out from the department suspending the operation of this regulation until further orders. I was curious as to what happened afterwards.

Mr. HAZEN: It has never been restored.

Mr. PUGSLEY: I am sorry that the hon. member for Charlotte (Mr. Hartt) is not present, but he will have an opportunity of seeing my remarks in Hansard. My hon. friend will find among the correspondence in his department and in a return which he brought down upon my motion, a letter from the Deputy Minister asking Mr. Hartt's opinion upon this regulation, whether it would be advisable to put it into force, showing that the opinion of the member was being taken; and the minister will also find in that correspondence a letter of a very extraordinary character from Mr. Hartt, the member for Charlotte, in which the hon. member approves of its being done, but recommends that new licenses be issued and that this restriction be printed instead of being written in, so that it would not attract the special attention of the fisherman getting a license. That is a curious letter to come from an hon. member. I asked if my hon. friend's attention was ever called to it and if he ever took any steps with regard to the matter.

Mr. HAZEN: My attention was never called to it.

Mr. PUGSLEY: The hon. minister would not approve of that extraordinary position. I trust he will, at a later date, refer to the letter, and ask the hon. member from Charlotte to explain to the House, if he can, why he should have written such a letter. If it meant anything at all it was intended to deceive—perhaps not to deceive, but to shut the eyes of people—

Mr. HAZEN: When was it sent?

Mr. PUGSLEY: Either two or three sessions ago. That evidently was written with a knowledge on the part of the hon. gentleman that the regulation would be likely to provoke hostility among the fishermen, and the department was advised to have new licenses issued with this restriction in print, so that it would not attract the attention of the fishermen, as it would if it were written in the license. I intended last session to bring it to the attention of my hon. friend and the hon. gentleman from Charlotte.—Hansard, June 8, 1917.

NATIVE-BORN SOLDIERS ARE IN THE MINORITY

Ottawa, June 15.—British subjects born outside of Canada are more numerous in the Canadian expeditionary forces than the native born, and of the native born the French-speaking soldiers form almost exactly one-tenth.

A return presented in the House this afternoon shows that 14,100 French-speaking soldiers had been sent overseas from Canada up to April 30.

The Canadian expeditionary forces have included 125,245 English-speaking soldiers born in Canada, and 155,095 British subjects born outside of Canada.

French-Canadian soldiers commanded by officers speaking the French language serving with units organized in the Province of Quebec, number 5,443. Soldiers speaking the French language commanded by officers speaking the English language, belonging to units organized in Quebec, number 1,536. Soldiers speaking French serving with units organized elsewhere in Canada, number 5,904. To the above figures must be added 1,217 French-speaking soldiers in the First Contingent.

According to the census of 1911 nearly one-third of the Dominion's native born sons between the ages of 18 and 45 lived in Quebec, so that Quebec alone, if it had been doing its share, would have supplied one-third of the Canadian born in the expeditionary force.

A MONSTER HALIBUT

Mr. C. F. Batson, who was on his return to British Columbia, sent us a copy of the Boston Globe of June 12, from which we print the following description of a big halibut, which Mr. Batson says he saw weighed:—

The largest halibut ever caught by a fishing vessel of the Boston fleet was landed at the Fish Pier to-day by the Eva Avina, Capt. Antonio S. Ree, which caught the monster 50 miles east-northeast from Thatchers Island, which is far south of the position where halibut are usually caught.

Manuel Mitchell, one of the crew, who was making his first trip in five years, hooked the big fellow, and after a tussle got it alongside. Falls and tackle had to be used to lift it from the water to the vessel's deck. It weighed about 700 pounds when caught, and 615 pounds with the entrails removed. The halibut was sold for about $60 to one of the firms on the pier. It was viewed by hundreds of buyers, dealers and fishermen, and they all pronounced it the largest fish of the kind they had ever seen. Mitchell, the lucky fisherman, has only recently recovered from a long illness that has prevented him from following his calling as a fisherman.
