GOLF A QUESTION OF NERVES

It's a Matter of Who's Right and Who's Off

By W. A. R. Summers
Golf is a game that probably is harder to "dope" out than any other athletic game. It depends entirely on your nerves, and should the best of players be a little nervous, or have an off day, some player far below in the ranking will put the better player out of the running. That is if the poorer player is "right." Golfers have their "right" days and their off days. This is one thing that makes the game so interesting. Even the best players are not sure when they are going to play a good game. One may go to the links feeling physically fit to play the game of his life and find his shots going this way and that, falling short, running over, everywhere but where they should. On the other hand players have been known to play the best games of their lives when they went on the links with a headache or feeling as if they would have to quit the game and go to bed. I played one of the best tournaments in my life I ever played when I was feeling so badly that I didn't care how soon the match was over, just so I could go to the clubhouse and lie down. But after I shot two holes, the ball going true and straight, I began to wonder why I could shoot so well, feeling as I did. I wasn't wondering whether I was going to slice or hook; I didn't care, I was just playing so that I wouldn't be branded a quitter. Golf is an uncertain game, and that is why you see a new champion nearly every year. Few can hold the first honors more than a year or two. Few have done it and few will ever be able to do it. And that's what makes the game so interesting. Everybody has a chance.

SEVEN GAMES FOR ST. LOUIS U.

St. Louis, June 22.—Father Hermans of St. Louis University has completed the football schedule for the university eleven for the coming season. The schedule is the lightest in years. The schedule follows:
Cape Girardeau Normal at St. Louis, October 7.
Southern Illinois College, at St. Louis, October 14.
Illinois College at St. Louis, October 21.
DePauw University at St. Louis, October 28.
Creighton University at Omaha, November 4.
Marquette University at Milwaukee, November 11.
Washington at St. Louis, November 20.

Sports are now at their height at Banff. A regatta will be held on July 1st on the Bow river in which canoes, row boats and launches will participate. An informal dance will be held in the ball room of the Banff Springs hotel on Wednesday and Saturday evenings during the season. A golf tournament has just been held for which a silver cup was presented by the Banff Springs hotel, prizes also included gold, silver and bronze medals. The competition was very keen, about seventy players taking part.

The man who is honest merely for policy is practically dishonest.

The liar who can repeat a story ten times without any alteration deserves more credit than he gets.

The New Aerolux Porch Shade

More Home to the House—
You can make your house more homey with Aerolux Splint Fabric shades on your porch. They entirely shut out the heat and glare of the sun without stopping ventilation. The openings in the fabric permit vision from within but not from without.

One of the exclusive features is the no-whip attachment which prevents the disagreeable flapping so common in other shades.

They come in plain brown, plain green, also brown and green.

ST. HILDA'S COLLEGE CLOSING
The closing exercises of St. Hilda's College took place on Monday. A play was presented by the pupils, called "Le Poitevin," prepared by Madame Lamb, a staff of Musicales, were given by the students. The attendance for the exercises was very good. The exercises were very well conducted and the school activities were much as usual.

While St. Hilda's has had those bravely fighting fire, she has, however, a number of graduates and ex-pupils, who are filling most of the positions in banks and offices by our gallant volunteers. Among those who were the recent music examination, in the Associated Board, in which St. Hilda's candidates passed with high honours. In the annual essay competition, in which the St. Hilda's who were both won prizes—North and Mary McGillivray. Owing to the contest this year to junior pupils the senior girls competed by the staff, and have creditable compositions. Essays are of almost all Women's Work in St. Marjorie's; "Shakespearean," by Marjorie "Canada After the War" by Riley.

A lawn social under the members of the St. Hilda's will be held at the 12th avenue and 14th street, Tuesday, June 27th, from 2 to 5 p.m. Refreshments, and numerous attractions.
