SHIRT TROUBLES Cured Here!

Shirts are the test of a man's temper. So easy to have a little thing go wrong and then so easy to use strong language. Ours are made so as to spread a Christian Spirit throughout the land. They will not rob the man, rattle the temper or rob the pocket. They are the

G. W. & R. Make.

The Negligee Shirts we are selling largely just now are the unusual smart styles that cannot be duplicated later on. Better get in on them while you can. New spring styles are for 75c, 99c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50.

Every Tenth Shirt Free.

Last fall we made this offer and many customers got a shirt for nothing. For one month we repeat this offer. It matters not what price the tenth purchaser pays, he gets another at same FREE.

Furniture of Quality

We Keep Pounding Away on Quality.

We don't want you to forget it. It is more important than price in the Furniture business. The long-wearing qualities of Newson's Furniture are known all over P. E. Island. Added to this important quality is the extreme lowness of price which prevails at this store. This combination of high quality and low price is what has made this store what it is—the place where people of means are sure of GOOD things—where those of slender purse are sure of full value for their money. Come here for your next furniture purchase.

For Business Women.

IT IS NOT THE CORRECT THING.

To prefer debt, difficulties, and starvation to work.
To imagine that all women of wealth and position have blue blood in their veins, and all women who work, but the ordinary field.

For a woman to enter the bread-winning arena unless poverty compels her to do so.
To get married solely to escape poverty and work.

To leave one's conscience at home when setting out for one's daily labor.
To imagine that God ever intended a woman to perform the same work as a man.

To dress in a manner incompatible with one's salary.
To be careless about one's personal appearance.

To imagine a costume can not be tasteful and becoming without being very expensive.
To prefer two shabby gowns to one good one.

To say that one works for a living because one prefers to do so, and not because there is any want of the money earned, for everybody knows that such a statement is a rank falsehood.

To imagine that it would be to one's credit if it were true, since some other woman who needs the money would be kept out of the position.

For women, who merely wish to make some pin money, to work for less than the regular rates, since by so doing they reduce the wages of those who must earn their daily bread.

For women in general to forget that man's inhumanity to man is sometimes but a shadow compared to woman's inhumanity to woman.

—The Correct Thing for Catholics.

Death of Bishop MacDonnell.

Right Rev. Alexander MacDonnell, Bishop of Alexandria (Ont.), died in a hospital in Montreal on May 29th. He had been under treatment in the hospital for a short time previous to his death. He was nearly 72 years of age. Deceased had been suffering from a complication of troubles for some time. Deceased was born in Glengary county (Ont.) and he lived and served his people, the Scotch Catholics of Eastern Ontario, all his life.

The late Bishop MacDonnell, who was seventy-one years of age last November, was educated in Kingston and there also he studied for the priesthood, being a student at Regiopolis College. He was ordained priest in Kingston in 1861. To Father MacDonnell was accorded the honor of being named first Bishop of Alexandria and was consecrated in October 1880.

His Lordship Bishop MacDonnell was a man of most affable manner. He was respected and esteemed by all who ever came in contact with him, and was beloved by everyone in his diocese. A man of keen judgment, his administration was a most wise one and his memory is one which will be long remembered in Alexandria.

Of deceased prelate the Canadian Freeman says:
It is indeed with feelings of profound sorrow that we to-day place our editorial columns in mourning out of respect to the memory of the late lamented Bishop MacDonnell, the first Bishop of the Diocese of Alexandria, whose death took place in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Montreal, on Monday after a long illness. Men die and are soon forgotten; dissolution is the common fate of all—but when God's messenger spreads his noiseless pinions over those whose worth has made them holy—whose good works have rendered them beloved—whose loftiness of soul has made their memories a glow forever—the sense of bereavement is so keen, that silence alone offers balm to our affliction. Bishop MacDonnell was not only a man of rare ability—but he was a courteous, genial and kindly gentleman, who indeed would be grieved to pain the most humble person. His sweet sincerity, the child-like simplicity, the engaging cheerfulness, the unflinching hope, which were the chief aims of his open manly nature, bind this saintly Bishop, who has stepped from the twilight of time into the effulgence of eternity. In spirit we will yet commune with him, and with the eye of Faith still scan his beloved features, who, while in life, was matchless as a man and peerless as a friend. Nor shall a silence pass between us—for memory shall be faithful of the sweet voice of past associations, which will beguile our unwearying—and may his pure soul be now rewarded with everlasting glory in the Kingdom of Catholic Bishop.

The other evening this lady entered a street-car, only, however, to find that it was crowded to its utmost limits, and that no one of the several male occupants seemed disposed to give way for her.

For a few moments the lady some what contemptuously surveyed these unwilling members of the opposite sex. Then an old workman rose, and as he was rising, the outspoken representative of the New Women loudly expressed the opinion that he was, without question, the only gentleman in the car.

"But stop a bit, m'am," interrupted the old fellow, as the assertive lady was about to drop into his place. "Be ye what they call a woman's righter?"

The lady readily acknowledged that it was her privilege to uphold in public the emancipation of women.

"Ah, yes, surely," said the old man, slowly. "You believe, I suppose, that a woman should always have the same rights and privileges as us?"

"I do, sir; decidedly I do," was the unhesitating reply.

"Then all I can say is, stand up an' enjoy 'em like a man," responded the old fellow, as he dropped back into his seat.—Exchange.

The death of the Dowager Lady Stanley, of Alderley, reminds one, says the Manchester (Eng.) "Guardian," of the curious variety of conviction that the last two generations of the house have exhibited in religious matters. Her husband was a Mahomedan, Lady Carlisle, her daughter, is a Unitarian, and Mgr. Algernon Stanley a Catholic Bishop.

Heaven—is the fervent prayer of the Catholic people throughout the land.

Returned to the Divine— Thy earthly trying of thy soul is past; Calm 'till one painful flutter at the last, And now—the battle is thine.

Clear Thinking and Speaking for Catholics.

It is related of Aubrey de Vere that he once went to hear John Henry Newman preach, and being a little late he took a remote seat and thought he should hear nothing. On the contrary, however, he heard every syllable! Newman's voice was musical, and though very low every word told. But De Vere said, afterwards, that Newman's thought was so clear that it was impossible not to perceive the impression of it; you seemed less to be hearing him speak than think. This incident contains a lesson for writers as well as for public speakers, for teachers and for talkers. People ought to learn to think clearly; and they ought to study "to give a free, happy and forcible expression to their thoughts." For us Catholics there is a special reason why we should have, and why we should strive to have, these intellectual gifts and graces, for we are in the one Church that combines logic and poetry, the ideal and the real, in an absolute degree. Of that champion of the Faith, Louis Venillot, we are told that he combined in his one person "such faultless precision of language and such utter devotion to Catholic ideals that Constant once said of him: 'Whatever may be alleged against Venillot, he always has on his side the Pope and the grammar.'" The well known Englishman, Charles Kegan Paul, who became a Catholic in 1890, making his submission Aug. 12, at Fulham, in the church of the Services, said, if we remember rightly: "If Anglican premises are true, Rome is the conclusion of them, and Susan da B— [who became a Catholic and a nun] was the one logical member of her family." But a strikingly similar remark was made by a well known professor of classics in a famous New Hampshire academy when one of his relatives embraced the Catholic faith. He did not pretend to be a "professor of religion," but he did see the "logic" of his cousin's action. Surely it ought to be the aim of the Catholic laity, men and women, and not of the clergy only, to show, aptly and clearly, to our non-Catholic brethren, the logic as well as the surpassing beauty of Catholic truth.

Precept and Practise.

A certain lady of exceedingly pronounced opinions and manners resides in a country town. For many and evident reasons both the lady and the town must be nameless. I must, however, be said that the lady is a very determined advocate of women's rights, and has never failed to embrace every possible chance of pouring undigested scorn on all who ventured to differ from her.

The other evening this lady entered a street-car, only, however, to find that it was crowded to its utmost limits, and that no one of the several male occupants seemed disposed to give way for her.

For a few moments the lady some what contemptuously surveyed these unwilling members of the opposite sex. Then an old workman rose, and as he was rising, the outspoken representative of the New Women loudly expressed the opinion that he was, without question, the only gentleman in the car.

"But stop a bit, m'am," interrupted the old fellow, as the assertive lady was about to drop into his place. "Be ye what they call a woman's righter?"

Mamma.—Now, Freddy, mind what I say. I don't want you to go into the next garden to play with that Binks boy; he's very rude. Freddy (heard a few moments afterwards calling over the wall).— I say, Binks, ma says I am not to go in your garden because you're rude; but you come into my garden, I ain't rude.

Distress After Eating. Mrs. P. Waters, Dirleton, Ont., writes: "I suffered for five years with pain in the stomach and distress after eating. Doctors failed to cure me so I tried Laxa Liver and three bottles of them made a complete cure."

Two neighbors were conversing the other day, when one said to the other:— "By the way, how is Mrs. Hogg, the invalid, going on?" "Oh," replied the other, "they do not call her Mrs. Hogg now." "Why, what do they call her?" "Oh, they call her Mrs. Beacon now; she's cured."

Mrs. Thos. Tracy, Byndale, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup and find it to be better than any other remedy. It is easy for the children to take and always effectual."

Minard's Liniment cures Burns, etc. Dolly was out for a walk, and met an old friend of her father's. "And how old are you, little one?" asked the old gentleman. "But Dolly was indignant. 'I'm hardly old at all; I'm nearly new,' she answered, tossing her head."

Don't suffer from Rheumatism this winter. Milburn's Rheumatism Pills eliminate every atom of the uric acid poison from the system and give complete relief from pain and suffering.

A small boy, writing a composition on Quakers, wound up by saying that the "Quakers never quarrel, never get into a fight, never chew each other, never jaw back." He added, "Pa is a Quaker, but I really don't think ma can be."

Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a healing soothing, balm preparation, that cures pain, allays inflammation and reduces swelling. A perfect medicine. Price 25c.

"I have always allowed my wife to wish something for herself for every birthday since we have been married."

"What does she wish generally?" "Well, the last fifteen times she has been wishing for a piano."

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mr. F. W. Myers, King St. E., Seattle, Ont., says: "I suffered for five years with palpitation, shortness of breath, sleeplessness and pain in the heart, but one box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills completely removed all these distressing symptoms. I have not suffered since taking them, and now sleep well and feel strong and vigorous."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure all diseases arising from weak heart, worn out nerve tissues, or watery blood.
