

The Market House Extension.

As we anticipated, the vote on the Market House extension by-law was very small. Very little interest was manifested either by its opponents or friends, and had it not been for the efforts of three or four on both sides, not half the vote would have been polled that was. Some may object on this account to the Council proceeding with the work, because there was not a sufficient expression of opinion on the part of the ratepayers. But then the ratepayers themselves are to blame. The by-law was duly advertised, along with the day on which the vote was to be taken, and if the matter was not of sufficient importance to call them out to vote either for or against it, then the fault is entirely their own.

We believe, however, that, generally, there is a feeling of satisfaction that the question has been at last settled, and settled too in that shape which commends itself to most of our citizens who are willing to take a fair and dispassionate view of the subject, who concede the necessity for, and are desirous of, our market and hall accommodation being extended, but at such a reasonable expenditure as will not bear too heavy on the ratepayers, but will yet be sufficient to accomplish the object sought for. It behoves the Council therefore to go prudently and carefully to work, to procure the opinion of thoroughly experienced and practical men on the best plan to be followed, and to carry it out with every regard to economy as well as efficiency. If this is done, we are confident that all the accommodation the town wants for twenty years to come can be secured at a reasonable cost without destroying the architectural proportions of the building. If the Council fail to do this, and without due consideration or enquiry rush into lavish expenditure, the ratepayers will hold them responsible for their reckless and unwise policy, and they will have to answer for it to their constituents.

Progress of the Reciprocity Treaty.

We are glad to learn from the Globe that the Reciprocity Treaty has passed through several important stages during the last few days. Our contemporary says:—"It has received the sanction of Her Majesty, of President Grant and his Cabinet, and of the Government of the Dominion. The President has now sent the Treaty to the Senate for advice. If that body accepts its provisions, the President will sign it, and it will go back to the Senate for ratification. We may add that it is not intended that the Treaty shall go into operation till July, 1875, and in the interim the legislation which it will render necessary must pass Congress and the Parliament of the Dominion."

NEW BRUNSWICK ELECTIONS.—The struggle in this Province over the school question may be said to be virtually over with the elections which came off on Thursday. It has been very intense, and fought out with great determination, and in many cases with considerable bitterness. In every County tickets were formed of those in favor of the Government and their non-sectarian School Act, the Opposition consisting of those in favor of separate schools, and those who advocate the repeal of the present Act. The religious element played a heavy part in the campaign. Appeals were made to Protestants and Catholics, as if the existence of religion was at stake. The elections so far gave twenty-four in favor of the School Act, and two against.

Advertisements will be at once issued by the Public Works Department, inviting tenders for the construction of a telegraph line across the continent. This announcement will be welcomed by both British Columbia and Canada.

A despatch from Fort Garry says that Lepine's trial is postponed for a special term of Court, there not being time to complete it this regular term. Chief Justice Wood is winning golden opinions in Manitoba.

THE ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE.—It will be seen by the report of the Agricultural and Arts Association, that the Hon. David Christie's resolution was carried for transferring to the Provincial Farm at Guelph the Ontario Veterinary College, and an appropriation was made for providing suitable accommodation for the same at the Farm.

ADULTERATION OF TEA.—English tea dealers are being summarily dealt with under the Adulteration Act. A grocer carrying on business at Birkenhead, who had been convicted of adulteration, his green tea having been faced with Prussian blue and gypsum, appealed to the Court of Queen's Bench in London. On his part it was shown that the tea as sold by him was in the same state as when it came from abroad; and it was stated that the "green" tea imported from China was invariably painted and faced in this manner. Mr. Justice Blackburn said a tradesman could only be protected by putting up in his shop, "I sell tea from China adulterated with Prussian blue and gypsum," or he should tell the purchaser that he was selling such. The conviction was affirmed.

The farmers in Illinois are importing Norman horses. The animals are heavily built, and are specially adapted for agricultural purposes.

Harper's Magazine, July, 1874.

Harper's Magazine for July contains over 100 illustrations, and a bewildering variety of the most interesting reading matter.

Harriet Prescott Stoddard opens the Number with an illustrated poem, "Left Ashore," one of her happiest efforts. It is a fit companion to John Chadwick's description of Marblehead.

Porte Crayon in the ninth instalment of his sketches of Western Virginian mountain character, is in one of his most characteristic moods—rollicking in almost extravagant humor.

William C. Wyckoff contributes, under the title of "The Net Result," a popular account of the work of the United States Fish Commission, illustrated by 25 engravings.

In "A Glimpse of Seventy-six," Chas. D. Dasher reproduces for us a vivid picture of the domestic life of the Revolutionary period.

Commander William Gibson's poem, "Persephone," is published in this number, with a beautiful illustration. Richd. Roaf contributes a poem of much force and beauty, entitled "My Slain."

James Parton, in a paper entitled "Falshood in the Daily Press," gives some interesting specimens of journalistic extravagance and inaccuracy.

Miss Mulock's serial, "My Mother and I," is concluded in this number. "The Living Link" will be concluded in the August number; and the commencement of a brilliant new serial, illustrated by Fredericks, is announced for September.

Two short stories, "John and I," and "My Wife's Editorial," with the five Editorial Departments, complete a number of unusual attractiveness and interest.

SIR CHARLES FOX.—This celebrated civil engineer died on Tuesday. He was originally trained for the medical profession, but his devotion to mechanical science led him to adopt engineering as a calling. His greatest triumph was the construction of the building, of iron and glass, in Hyde Park for the original Great Exhibition of 1851, for his services in connection with which he received the honour of knighthood. He afterwards superintended the construction of the Crystal Palace, at Sydenham, and has executed many other important works. He was senior partner of the firm of Sir Charles Fox & Sons, civil engineers.

CRICKET MATCH TO-DAY.—The Galt Club plays Guelph to-day on the grounds of the Guelph Cricket Club. The Galt players are Messrs. Young, Peck, Fitzsimmons, Crozier, Hague, Blain, Simons, Simpson, Kay, H. Jaffray and G. Jaffray. Guelph meets them with the following players—Messrs. Nichols, Mitchell, Macdock, Crombie, McConkey, Oliver, Palmer, Sharpe, Evatt, Grange and Chadwick. We will give the score to-morrow.

BERLIN AND WOODSTOCK RAILWAY.—Meetings have been held in various places, and the villagers and farmers generally are agitating a line from Berlin to Woodstock by way of Bright, on the Buffalo and Lake Huron Railway. To shippers it will be a great benefit, cutting off about forty miles to reach Buffalo from Waterloo County, besides passing through many villages that have no railway communication. Great complaints from the northern stock dealers are rife, as at present they have to go round by Stratford to Buffalo.

DEATHS.—BRENAN—In Toronto, on Saturday, the 13th of June, of small-pox, Joseph Brennan, aged 22 years.

LUCKITT—In Pilkington on the 16th inst. George Luckitt, formerly of Northamptonshire, England, aged 75 years.
