THE PROTESTED MEN.

A meeting of the executive commit-ee of the Ontario Rugby Football Union was called for last night in Toronto, to consider the protest entered by the Peterboro club against Gilmour, Hennessy and Kerrigan, who played on the London team in the ampionship match. But the meeting was called off. During the day R. F. McWilliams, manager of the Peterboro club, sent the following "kind" message to Frank Hobbs, of the Lon-dons: "You need not come to executive meeting to night re protested men. I will not rush charges till after Saturday's match, as we want to play your full team." When the Peterboros come to London again on Saturday next they will find the home team greatly strengthened. Gilmour, Hennessy and Kerrigan will again be in the game, as all are eligible. The wings are having splendid practices daily. Frank Reid is playing in his old form, and is expected to be a tower of strength to the team. GMmour is also in splendid

CENTRAL ASSOCIATION LEAGUE. Chatham Planet: James W. Couse, captain of the London Association football club, was in the city the other day, and held an interview with F. D. Laurie, representative of the Chatham club, concerning the proposal to extend the district of the Central League to include Chatham. Mr. Couse is enthusiastically in favor of the project, and thinks it would be of mutual benefit to Chatham and the league to affiliate. The central district will include London, Listowel, Aylmer, Stratford, Chatham and probably St. Thomas and other towns, now making application for admission. Mr. Laurie will say nothing definitely upon the result of Mr. Couse's visit, but patrons here would certainly like to see Chathamites try conclusions with the eastern teams of the W. F. A.

SPORTING NOTES.

Tee skating begins in New York this week, but it will be on artificial fice. In an interview printed in a London paper Sir Thomas Lipton is quoted as saving that Mr. John Jameson would be in chief command of Shamrock II. and that he would be assisted by Capt. Sycamore.

The story telegraphed from New York that a syndicate of six members of the New York Yacht Club had been organized to build an America cup defender, to be managed by E. Willard, is denied by all the gentlemen men-

George F. Considine, until recently Corbett's manager, has issued a state-ment that the Corbett-McCoy battle was an affair in which it was aranged Corbett should win-which is something everybody knows-but that Considine was ignorant of the arrangement-which nobody believes.

STORM ON LAKE ONTARIO.

Oswego, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The schooner Fred J. Wells, of Sackett's Harbor, went ashore on Four Mile Point, east of here last night, during a storm. The crew was rescued by the life-saving crew of the Oswego station. The boat a total loss. The storm broke over Lake Ontario at 6 o'clock, and con-tinued until early this morning.

Attached to No. 36, M. C. R. express on Monday, were three cars loaded with raw silk, the value of which was

From Near-By Places.

The theft of a horse and buggy was reported to the St. Thomas police on Monday by Alex. McRae, hotel-keeper, of Glencoe. The theft was committed after midnight on Sunday, the supposed culprit being a young man, 26 years of age, name unknown, who had been stopping at the hotel for a week. Horse, rig and man were missing early in the morning, and an examination of the premises showed that the boarder had reached the ground from his bedroom window by means of a rope, and taken the horse and buggy from the stable. The alleged thief is 5 feet 11 inches in height, medium build, and wore eyeglasses and very light colored trousers. The horse is a chestnut, 15 hands high, and the buggy is an old-fashioned open affair.

DORCHESTER STATIO.N

Dorchester Station, Dec. 6.-Mr. Samuel Wilson sustained a stroke of livering a lot of hogs, and is in a serious condition. Dr. Creighton, of Mount Elgin, has arrived here to practice his profession, and will occupy the premises vacated by Mrs. Lester. Reeve Neely shipped a lot of 200 hogs yesterday for the London Packing Company. Price, $4 25, live weight.

GLANWORTH

Glanworth, Nov. 6.-An "at home" was given on Friday evening in the basement of St. Andrew's Church. The attendance was good, and the programme excellent. Rev. John Currie, of Belmont, presided. The choirs of the North and South Westminster congregations, about 30 in number, with Miss Mary Nichol as organist, opened the programme with an anthem, which elicited hearty applause. Solos were sung with good effect by C. Nichol, Misses Maggie Murray, H. B. McColl and Irene McKellar, of St. Thomas, with Miss Mary C. Nichol, of Hubrey, as accompanist; quartet by Messrs. Duncan McColl, Daniel Mc-Pherson, Miss H. B. McColl and Miss Flora McInnis. Miss Mildred Godwin, of Alma College, St. Thomas, a clever elocutionist, gave six recitations. Rev. Dr. McCrae and Rev. Mr. Moffat made stirring addresses.

McPherson Bros. and Dougald Mc-Pherson shipped three carloads of prim steers on Saturday for the Glas-gow market. Messrs, Daniel McPher-First race, 51/2 furlongs-Maribert 1, son and John J. Taylor accompanied the consignment to Montreal.

THAMESFORD

Thamesford, Nov. 7.-Mr. A. F. Bain has completed the foundation for his new house, and expects the bricklayers to begin work at an early date. Mrs. (Dr.) Kester and son, of Ingersoll, are the guests of Mrs. W. Kester. Miss Jessie Alexander, the talented reader, will give a recital in St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Proceeds in aid of the pub-lic library. This is Miss Alexander's second appearance here, and it is altogether likely she will have a large audience. Those who fail to her the lady miss a great treat.

IN PEKIN IN 1860

At the present moment it is interesting to recall the circumstances and some of the incidents of the entry of an allied force into Pekin 40 years ago. After a long period of friction between Great Britain and China Mr. Edward Bruce was, early in 1859, appointed special envoy to Pekin to formally ratify the treaty of Tien Tsin. Admiral Hope, in charge of the China Schudron made special arrangements. squadron, made special arrangements with a view to protecting the envoy, having been warned of a threatened anti-foreign demonstration—and not without reason. Mr. Bruce was stopped on his way to Pekin, near Tien Tsin, and the admiral attempted to force a passage up the river past the Taku forts to provide him with an escort, but met with stronger opposition than he expected, and was repulsed with a loss of 81 killed and 390 wounded.

Stronger measures were necessary British troops, 13,000 in all, drawn Wolseley, now Lord Wolseley, as deinsisted that it could only be done after they had reached Tung Chow. Consul Parkes, accompanied by Hen-ry Loch, Mr. de Normann and Mr. Anderson, started ahead of the army to Tung Chow to make arrangements for a meeting. These arrangements allied forces, found themselves hem-med in by the Chinese, and were eventually taken as prisoners to Pekin, and Capt. Brabazon, who had just joined the party from the British column, was beheaded.

The allied generals ordered their batteries to attack the Chinese, and a hot engagement ensued, in which the Sikhs especially distinguished them-selves, and both parties held their Attempts at negotiations were followed by other engagements. and the British and French gained the outskirts of Pekin and captured the emperor's summer palace, from which an enormous amount of prize prop-the troops. Again the Chinese professed themselves willing to treat, and as a pre-liminary Mr. Parkes and Mr. Loch were released, after having suffered many indignities; Lieut. Anderson barously treated for residence. The treaty was signed on October 24, and on November 9 the last of the allied forces marched out

How Li Hung Chang Disposed of the Procious Gift of a Wealthy Friend.

[Cleaveland Plaindealer.]

The reappearance of Li Hung Chang in the field of international politics recalls vividly the last time that he figured prominently when some of his peculiarities and the circumstances which surrounded his visit to England came near injuring the prospects of his country.

When Li was in London four years ago he occupied Holford House, one of the most palatial residences in the British metropolis. The Oriental Bismarck's retinue, however, did not admire the English style of architecture and decorations, and showed their contempt for all this magnificance in various ways. For instance, they cooked their indescribable eatables on the drawing room floor and cast the fragments where they pleased. They played Chinese leap-frog with the priceless Chippendale furniture. They decorated the walls with designs of their own. They rearranged the hangings and upholstery. In fact, they enjoyed themselves so much that when they departed the owner of the house put in a bill flor $50,000 to the British government for repairs and fumiga-

Among Li's most frequent visitors was Mr. Panmure Gordon, of Panmure Gordon, Hill & Co., one of the most prominent London brokerage houses. The cause of the intimacy was that the Chinese diplomat was endeavoring to float a Chinese loan for $80,000,000, and the broker was assisting him. Panmure Gordon, Hill & Co. were acting as brokers for the Hong Kong & Shanghai banking corporation, which institution was primarily interested in the proposed loan.

In the matter of magnificance Mr. Gordon is only to be surpassed by Earl Li himself. He had the distinction at the time of being the only man in England who owned a private railroad car with a kitchen attached, in which he rode every day from his home-50 miles away—to the city. Mr. Gordon had one great hobby—collie dogs. He was president of the Collie Club, and would have been ready to sacrifice the well being of all his wife's relations to further the interests of these sagacious animals. After various conferences Mr. Gordon had undertaken to seek public subscriptions for the loan and nothing further was necessary than the signature of a few documents. Both the broker and the statesman were well satisfied with themselves and other, and as is customary when dealing with Orientals, a number of valuable gifts were interchanged. To show especial honor to the distinguished Chinaman, Mr. Gordon determined to present him with an offering which which would eclipse all others. most precious collie, valued at $15,000, which had taken several prizes, was set aside for the purpose. Li Hung Chang duly received the quadruped, for which he returned thanks in the wing terms in his letter: "Li Hung Chang presents his com and France agreed to join Great Britain in a military expedition. The mainly from India, were commanded by Gen. Sir Hope Grant (with Col. puty assistant quartermaster-general), and the French by Gen. Montauban. On Aug. 21, 1860, the British and French forces captured the Taku forts, losing 500 killed and wounded, and then marched toward the capital. The emperor seeing that the allies were in great force, as well as in earnest, declared that he was ready to conclude the treaty, but the generals Bowlby, the Times correspondent, and and escort of 26 sabres under Lieut. having apparently been success-fully concluded, Mr. Parkes and his party, on their return to meet the

It had been outside the summer palace where the British prisoners had edification of the emperor, who watch- covery for Consumption and never ed the proceedings from his window. Negotiations then followed, and on October 12, the allies, without firing a shot, occupied Pekin, the palace of Prince Tsal, who had instigated the anti-foreign movement, being appropriated by Lord Elgin as his official
