

Scottish Concert a Great Success

A great success in every way was the verdict passed on the Hallowe'en Scotch concert given by the Sons of Scotland Male Chorus on Saturday evening. The Auditorium was filled by an enthusiastic audience "maistly Scotch," which gave expression to its delight in the various numbers by unstinted applause, encores being the order of the evening. The programme opened with a selection on the pipes, stirring played by Mr. Eastwood. Of the choral singing, nothing but praise is due the members of the chorus, and Mr. J. Lamont Galbraith, its energetic conductor. Each part song was treated with taste and feeling, and the attacks, and balance of the voices left nothing to be desired. Particularly striking was the tender rendering of the beautiful Jacobite song, "Will Ye No Come Back Again," while the pawkie humor of the Scot was exemplified in several numbers, including "The Wee Couper o' Fife." The chorus had the assistance of Miss Jean Robb, and Mr. George Fax. Miss Robb is now an established favorite in London. Her hearers expect from her the very best in recitation and song, and on Saturday they were not disappointed. Her Scotch character sketches were inimitable, and her vocal numbers, including the patriotic "Auld Robin Gray," and the humorous "Barrin' a' the Door," were given with fine sentiment. Mr. George Fax in his humorous selections made a great "hit," and proved himself an excellent entertainer and a worthy member of a talented family. Pleasing variety was added to the evening's entertainment by the performances of the Riddle children, and the Excelsior Male Quartette. The accompaniments to the solos were most artistically played by Mr. Galbraith.

A ROCKING CHAIR PLACED ON HIGH

Pranks Played by Youth of Nation in the East End.

A small boy full of Hallowe'en pranks established a record in high chairs on Saturday night. Climbing a telephone pole near the corner of Lorne avenue and English street, the boy placed it on top, and this morning it caused a great deal of amusement. It was there on the Sabbath, but it did not awaken any great amusement on that account, but today people walked a mile to laugh at the high chair.

A HUSTLING FIRM OF REAL ESTATE MEN

Some Facts About Knott & Sangster, of the Masonic Temple.

No local real estate firm has shown itself more progressive than Knott & Sangster, room 101, Masonic Temple. This enterprising firm has been in business but a comparatively few years, but during that time it has set a pace for local real estate agents which, to say the least, was a warm one.

As an instance of how Knott & Sangster's business has increased, it need only be mentioned that in October, 1908, eight more sales were completed than in the same month a year ago, and the consideration was four times greater.

Knott & Sangster believe that South London is due for a real estate boom, and cite as proof that land which last February sold for $12 a foot, was sold in June for $15 a foot. This land is contained in the MacKenzie survey, for which Knott & Sangster are the selling agents.

Knott & Sangster are further instructed by the owners of the land that lots on south Ridout street will soon increase $1 a foot.

One hundred and eighty-nine houses have been erected in South London this year, and many more are under course of erection or being contemplated.

On the new Carfax Crescent survey, Knott & Sangster have disposed of almost twelve lots, and have probable purchasers for four more. This survey is equipped with water, gas and all other modern improvements, besides being convenient to street car service.

The survey is located just over the traction company's bridge. South London will be the place for builders if averages keep up like they have this fall. It is purely a residence district on account of the total lack of factories, and ideal residence sites, and inquiries for lots are being received daily by Knott & Sangster.

"We have a sale for a number of large lots in South London," said Mr. Knott today, "and we are quite busy looking after our interests in that part of the city."

FERDINAND FEARS ASSASSINS

Czar of Bulgaria, After Winning Coup, Lives in Constant Terror.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 31.—Czar Ferdinand, now that the first clear over his successful coup has passed, is becoming a prey to the terrors of assassination.

He has information of a plot against his life by disloyal Turkish subjects. His bedroom, which is guarded more elaborately than any prison, is a permanent armory of weapons and devices intended to frustrate his enemies, should they gain entrance to the apartments.

He examines three loaded revolvers before retiring, and sometimes tests them by firing shots into the air. Then he reloads them. He is a most courteous man in daylight, but darkness seems to have peculiar terrors for him.

He has organized a personal secret police consisting of 450 men and 50 women, who devote all their time hunting for possible conspirators.

Ferdinand has ordered an imperial diadem, patterned after the Russian Czar's, but advisers have dissuaded him from being crowned until he is more firmly settled in his new position.

ENGINE-ROOM HEROES

Worked Waist-Deep in Water After a Collision.

London, Oct. 31.—The heroism of an engine-room staff relieved the sad story of wrecks during last Thursday's gale.

The men were part of the crew of the Cramlington, a West Hartlepool steamer proceeding from Newcastle to Grimsby with coal. She came into collision just outside Grimsby, and another West Hartlepool steamer, whose name was not ascertained.

The unknown steamer went on her way, but an outbound steamer from Grimsby stood by during the night after taking fourteen of the crew off. The remaining twelve, including the captain, were taken off by the tug Kinsman and landed at Grimsby. When the Cramlington was rammed most of the crew were asleep in their berths, but in response to a summons from the captain all came on deck, with the exception of the engineer and three firemen, who determined to remain below in the hope of keeping up steam.

These men displayed much bravery, for despite the fact that the ship was sinking, they refused to leave their posts. For some time they worked with the water gradually rising in the engine-room and stokehold, and they only came up after the sea had extinguished the fires.

A lifeboat was smashed during the launching operations, but a jollyboat was swung clear, and into this the captain ordered the crew.

It all would hold. With admirable discipline the remainder of the crew patiently stood on deck awaiting the captain's orders. The boat was seen to be picked up by a passing steamer. Shortly afterwards the tug Kinsman of London, came up, and succeeded in towing the Cramlington upon Hales Sands, where she was beached. Four of the crew jumped into the tug's boat which was instantly swamped, but they got aboard again with the aid of ropes. Eventually the captain and the survivors of the Cramlington were rescued and sent to their respective homes.

TO PORTRAY AUTHORS

Effigies To Be Important Feature in Lord Mayor's Pageant.

London, Oct. 31.—This year literature with a big "L" is to be given a grand send-off by the new lord mayor. Distinguished men of letters are to be a feature of his annual circus, which goes in London under the name of the "lord mayor's show."

A notable portion of the pageant will be the great founders of early English letters as well as distinguished litterati of modern times. Of course, there will be Shakespeare and Bacon as well, despite the controversies. Dr. Johnson, Charles Lamb, Pope and Addison will also appear in the procession. It has been suggested by some that Charles Dickens should be borne in effigy through the streets of London; but, as many members of the Dickens family are still alive, others considered that his career is not sufficiently "antique" to figure in a show of this description.

Another point, still undecided, is whether wax figures typifying the authors, or actual living men, dressed up to look like them, will be employed. If the latter, there will probably be no difficulty in finding plenty of men to look like Shakespeare, Mil-

ROOSEVELT ASKS NO PRIVILEGE

Makes No Request for a Special Hunting License for East African Trip.

London, Oct. 28.—President Roosevelt not having signed his intention of asking special privileges for his hunting trip in British East Africa through diplomatic channels, it is supposed that he will take out an ordinary £50 license from the colonial office.

"As set forth, he has not yet been applied for, though it is always usual to demand such licenses several months in advance. Under them each hunter is limited to 60 animals, except lions, leopards and crocodiles, of which he may shoot as many as he wishes.

The President may kill "elephants, two rhinoceros, ten hippopotami, one antelope, two buffaloes, two earth hogs, two earth wolves, ten chevrolians, two monkeys, two marabou birds, two ostriches, two egrets, and one chimpanzee." Giraffes, wild asses, secretary birds and a number of other species are forbidden to any hunter not armed with special privileges.

May Be Given License.

President Roosevelt will be required to set forth in his own handwriting the animals he intends to kill, as well as the locality where he will hunt. Before leaving Africa he will be required to declare what animals and how many he shot.

One of the organizers of the trip, an American interested in the development of Nairobi, today said that he did not think the President would ask for diplomatic privileges, but he had an idea that he would be given a license would be presented to Roosevelt long before he put a rifle to his shoulder for the first time in East Africa.

"The President will be delighted," said a friend, "when he hears that he can shoot at any game he wants literally from the car windows. I have seen droves of buffaloes and dozens of lions and tigers wandering in the woods while the railway in Nairobi was being built. They would rush up to the car windows and look in. Now they would take to the hills. I think the President will have every bit of sport he expects."

STRATHROY COL. INST. LITERARY SOCIETY

Auspicious Opening Meeting — The Good Records Made by Students.

Strathroy, Oct. 31.—The annual meeting of the Literary Society of the lower school, which was held in the assembly hall last night, Mr. H. D. Johnson, inspector of public schools, and an ex-teacher, who was in attendance, made an excellent speech, recalling many reminiscences of the school, and the success of many ex-students, including the late Dr. McKellar, Peter McArthur and T. C. Robinette.

Mr. D. C. Ross, M. P. P., annually presents prizes in books to the members of the lower school who make the best records. These prizes are valued at $10, and last year were won by Wm. Ward, Wm. Staples, of form II, and Miss Muriel Kerr, and Norman Newton, of form I.

The principal of the Strathroy Collegiate Institute, Mr. C. S. Kerr, B. A., spoke of the remarkable records made by the school at the recent departmental examinations. Last year 67 per cent of those who wrote on the faculty of education examination were successful, and 100 per cent of those who were candidates for entrance to the Normal School.

Rev. Mr. Kannawin presented the certificates to the successful candidates, and then addressed the audience on the "Rights of Canadian to an Education," and in brief but excellent style spoke on the value of learning.

Mr. L. H. Dampier, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and a representative member of the high school board, was presented and presented the badges and medals won at the annual field day held a few weeks ago. The championships were won by L. S. Sifton, senior; G. Walker, junior; Miss Marjorie Thompson, girls.

The first "town" boy, named "school" boy in the hundred yards dash at the games, were won respectively by L. McKellar and C. Sifton.

Miss B. McKellar, E. Lawson, R. McE, P. Mihell and M. Mihell added to the pleasure of the evening by choice musical selections.

U. S. COMMERCE

More Activity Shown All Along the Line for Month of September.

Washington, Oct. 31.—A marked increase in activity in the principal manufacturing industries of the country is indicated for the month of September, according to the monthly statement of imports issued by the bureau of manufactures of the department of commerce and labor. A large decrease in the import prices of the principal manufacturing material, as compared with September, 1907, is shown. Hides and skins show an increase in quantity imported of 50 per cent in excess of the corresponding month of last year. Pig copper shows an increase of 25 per cent, crude India rubber 50 per cent, tobacco for manufacturing 50 per cent, and fibres 20 per cent. While more raw cotton was imported than in September, 1907, the value of raw cotton imports for September of this year shows a decrease of over 30 per cent. Similar decreases in the import prices per unit of quality are noted in nearly all articles of importance used in manufacturing.
