

MISCELLANEOUS.

A little girl, when requested to recite her spelling lesson, lisped out, "Little folk, thoo'd be thoo, and not heard."

This ice and the confidence of childhood have given rise to a great many touching newspaper paragraphs this season.

A Guelph man has written a life the devil. The last three chapters comprise a ten years' biography of his mother-in-law.

The onion season having opened at Council Bluffs, the custom of talking at late hours over the front gate has been temporarily abandoned by the young men of that city.

Some of the Saginaw Indians are great wags in their way. One of them having given a trader some annoyance, was told that in case he was seen again with a bottle, it would be taken from him and thrown into the fire. A few days the Indian appeared with a plot-flask in his blanket, as usual; but the trader was as good as his word, and demanded the bottle, which the Indian gave up, and started for the door. The trader threw the flask into the stove, and out came the windows and the trader following close behind. The next time that man burns an Indian's whiskey-bottle he will examine it to see whether its contents are whiskey or gunpowder.

Either a man must be content with poverty and else be willing to deny himself some luxuries, and save, to lay the base of independence in the future. But if a man defies the future, and spends all he earns (whether his earnings be one dollar or ten dollars every day), let him look for lean and hungry want at some future time—for it will surely come, no matter what he thinks. To save is absolutely the only way to get a solid fortune; there is no other certain mood. Those who shut their eyes and ears to these plain facts will be forever poor, and for their obstinate rejection of the truth, mayhap will die in rags and filth. Let them so die and thank themselves. But, no! They take a sort of recompense in cursing fortune. Great waste of breath. They might as well curse mountains and eternal hills. For I can tell them fortune does not give away her real and substantial goods. She sells them to the highest bidder, to the hardest wisest worker for the loon. Men never make so fatal a mistake as when they think themselves creatures of fate; 'tis the sheerest folly in the world. Every man, may make or mar his life, whichever he may choose. Fortune is for those who, by diligence, honesty, frugality, place themselves in position to grasp hold of fortune when it appears in view. The best evidence of frugality is the $500 or more standing in your name at the savings bank. The best evidence of honesty is both diligence and frugality.

An Actor's Discomfiture.—One very sultry evening in the dog days Garrick performed the part of "Lear." In the first four acts he received the accustomed tribute of applause: at the conclusion of the fifth, when he wept over the body of Cordelia, every eye caught the soft infection.

At this interesting moment, to the astonishment of all present, his face assumed a new character, and his whole frame appeared agitated by a new passion. It was not tragic, it was evidently an endeavor to suppress a laugh.

In a few seconds the old attendant nobles appeared to be affected in the same manner, and the beautiful Cordelia, who was lying extended on a crimson couch, opening her eyes to see what occasioned the interruption, leaped from her sofa, and with the majesty of England, the gallant Albany, and tough old Kent, ran laughing off the stage.

The audience could not account for this strange termination of a tragedy in any other way than by supposing that the dramatic persons were seized with a sudden frenzy; but their risibility had a different source.

A fat Whitechapel butcher, seated in the centre of the front bench of the pit, was accompanied by his mastiff, who, being accustomed to sit on the same seat with his master at home, naturally supposed that he might here enjoy the same privilege. The butcher sat very far back, and the dog, finding a fair opening, got on the seat, and fixing his forepaws on the rail of the orchestra, peered at the performers with as upright a head and as grave an air as the most sagacious critic of the day.

Our corpulent slaughterman was made of melting stuff, and not being accustomed to the heat of a play-house, found himself oppressed by a large and well-powdered periwig, which for the gratification of cooling and wiping his head, he pulled off and placed on the head of the mastiff.

The dog, being in so conspicuous a situation, caught the eye of Mr. Garrick and the other performers. A mastiff in a church-warden's wig was too much; it would have provoked laughter in Lear himself, at the moment of his deepest distress. No wonder then that it had such an effect on his representative.

A FAMOUS MEDICAL INSTITUTION.

(From the Chicago Times.)

"The name of Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has become as familiar to the people all over the country as 'household words.' His wonderful remedies, his pamphlets and books, and his large medical experience, have brought him into prominence and given him a solid reputation. The Times, in the present issue, presents a whole-page communication from Dr. Pierce, and our readers may gain from it some idea of the vast proportions of his business and the merits of his medicines. He has at Buffalo a mammoth establishment, appropriately named 'The World's Dispensary,' where patients are treated, and the remedies compounded. Here nearly a hundred persons are employed in the several departments, and a corps of able and skilled physicians are ready to alleviate the sufferings of humanity by the most approved methods. These physicians are in frequent consultation with Dr. Pierce, and their combined experience is brought to bear on the successful treatment of obstinate cases. The Doctor is a man of a large medical experience, and his extensive knowledge of materia medica has been acknowledged by presentations of degrees from two of the first medical Colleges in the land."

If you would patronize Medicines, scientifically prepared by a skilled Physician and Chemist, use Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. Golden Medical Discovery is nutritious, tonic, alterative, and blood-cleansing, and an unequalled Cough Remedy. Pleasant Purgative Pellets, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, constitute an agreeable and reliable physic; Favorite Prescription, a remedy for debilitated females; Extract of Smart-Weed, a magical remedy for Pain, Bowel Complaints, and an unequalled remedy for both human and horse-heat; while his Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is known the world over as the greatest specific for Catarrh and "Cold in the Head" ever given to the public. They are sold by Druggists.

DR. EARLE'S TESTIMONIAL.

Mr. JAMES I. FARLOW, Manufacturing Chemist.—"Sir: For several months past, I have used your Compound Syrup in the treatment of incipient phthisis, chronic bronchitis, and other affections of the chest, and I have no hesitation in stating that it ranks foremost amongst the remedies used in those diseases. Being an excellent, nervous tonic, it exerts a direct influence on the nervous system, and through it it invigorates the body."

It affords me pleasure to recommend a remedy which is really good in cases for which it is intended, when so many advertised are worse than useless.

I am, Sir, yours truly,
