

through the revolutionary stratagems of England, which are not denied, Naples and Rome had become the foci of rebellion and treason in the year 1846; and all Italy had been disorganised by an infidel confederacy. And while England thus drove the Peninsula to the very brink of insurrection, she flattered Sardinia with the hopes of assistance and national support to expel Austria from her Italian possessions, to seize all Italy, and to annex it to the ancient crown of Savoy. In this whole case there can be no doubt that Great Britain had perfidiously fomented the discontent on one side and encouraged the Sardinian armaments on the other. England had decidedly generated the treason, and had originated the Sardinian encroachment. England, therefore, and not Sardinia, is the guilty aggressor in planning invasion of a neighboring territory. And what renders this English perfidy doubly treacherous is, that when matters were ripe for national explosion she abandons on one hand the revolutionists of Italy, whom she had long encouraged; and then she leaves Sardinia, which she had so openly patronised, alone and abandoned to her fate in the presence of an overwhelming Austrian army of six hundred thousand men! The universal feeling at the present moment of all the parties concerned may be expressed towards England by saying that she is abhorred in Italy, despised in Sardinia, viewed by Austria as a traitor for her treasonable support of Victor Emmanuel, and marked out in the sworn anger of France for signal future revenge. There can be no doubt that in this affair of whole kingdoms and mighty armies England has lost the confidence of all Europe, and is at the present moment branded as a public disturber, and an unprincipled agent of political treachery through several of the neighboring states. This question of Italian revolution will, in all probability be soon discussed in our House of Commons, when the public will learn the rigid accuracy of whatever I have written on this subject; and will know, too, the prodigious escape which the Catholic Church has made from the deep plans and the crushing perils of her English sworn enemies in Great Britain.

How our Ancestors Bribed.—There is a variety, most creditable to English invention, in the way in which our ancestors bribed. At one place a mysterious person used to arrive with the cash, known as the "Man in the moon," who approached at nightfall, and was at once met with "What news from the moon?" This was a poetic form. Then there was a humorous form. "I'll lay you five guineas," said a celebrated canvasser in Fox's contest in 1784, "and stake the money in your own hands, that you will not vote for Mr. Fox." "Done!" said the free and independent, and wins his bet and bribe. Another playful plan was to buy the elector's canary at a price that would have been handsome for a bird of Paradise—a very pretty kind of bird-fancying! Sometimes men showed perfect genius in availing themselves of professional advantages. Thus a military gentleman employed in the recruiting service once stood for Great Grimsby, and enlisted a majority of the voters for soldiers with a liberal bounty! Such anecdotes as these constitute the literature of electioneering; and there is, probably, not a town or county in England where there is not an elderly gentleman with a batch of them. In a contest a good many years ago in North Britain, one of the parties had strong reason to suspect a particular voter of having taken a bribe—a considerable bribe, too, for votes were valuable. A sharp enemy resolved to make an attempt on him. Accordingly, as the man entered the poll he whispered in his ear rapidly, "They're making a fule of ye, Jock; they're a bad."

Lord John Russell.—The noble lord possesses the familiarity of long practice with the tactics by which governments are successfully overthrown when they have failed to secure the protection of his presiding genius. The constitutional doctrine of "Somers, of Fox, and of Grey," practically results in the proposition that the maintenance of the Whig leader in office is the indispensable condition of political tranquillity.

Dying Consolation.—An old unloved Deacon in his last hours was visited by a neighbour, who said: "Well Deacon I hope you feel resigned in going?" "Ye-es," said the Deacon, "I think I-I am resigned."

True Artists.—A French bonnet maker told a customer who complained of the price demanded for a new bonnet—"Consider, madam, it cost me three sleepless nights merely to imagine it."

JONAS WHITCOMB'S REMEDY FOR ASTHMA, CATARRH, ROSE COLD HAY FEVER, &c.

PREPARED from a German recipe, obtained by the late Jonas Whitcomb, in Europe. It is well known to have alleviated this disorder in his case, when all other appliances of medical skill had been abandoned by him in despair. In a case of purely Asthmatic character, he failed to give immediate relief, and it has effected many permanent cures. Within the past two years this remedy has been used in thousands of cases, with astonishing and uniform success. It contains no poisonous or injurious properties whatever, an infant may take it with perfect safety.

WATERBURY, Vt., May 12, 1857. Mr. BERNETT—I take great pleasure in briefly stating the wonderful effects of "Whitcomb's Remedy for the Asthma," on my wife. She had suffered for years more than my pen can describe with the Spasmodic form of that terrible disease. I consulted numerous physicians of the highest celebrity to very little or no purpose. As often as ten or twelve times in a year, she was brought to the very gates of death—requiring two or three watchers sometimes, for several days and nights in succession. At times, for hours, it would seem as if every breath must be the last. We were obliged to open doors and windows in mid-winter, and resort to every expedient that affection could devise to keep her alive. At one time she was so far gone, that her physician could not count the pulse. At length I heard of your "Remedy"—it acted like a charm; it enabled her to sleep quietly in a few minutes, and nearly broke up the disease. I keep it constantly on hand—and though it has not cured her, it has done wonders in the way of relief. I have never known it fail in more than one or two instances of affording immediate relief—I am a Methodist clergyman, stationed here. I shall be happy to answer any enquiries respecting her case, and you are at liberty to make any use of the foregoing facts that will benefit the afflicted.—Yours truly, KIMBALL HADLEY.

Jonas Whitcomb's Remedy is Prepared only by JOSEPH HURNETT & Co., 27 Central Street, Boston, and Sold by all Druggists. One Dollar per Bottle.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. DR. MORSE, the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital fluid.

When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out.

How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectant, that opens and unclogs the passages to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out boundedly by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way.—The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, but become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfectly healthy; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out; hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged, and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's PILLS have added to themselves victory upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked and tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames, have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought, as it were, within a step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore, it will be shown, especially by those who use these Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.
