

Rea and Dobie Up 40 Points Each—Vipond a Strong Sp

Market Shows More Substance And Undertone is More Cheerful

Porcupine Issues Generally in Stronger Demand and Advances Are Recorded—Cobalts Still Held Back.

World Office, Thursday Evening, May 11. The rank and file of traders on the mining exchanges were apparently more bullish inclined today, for the market brightened up considerably, the list of securities showing a more substantial undertone than for some time.

The Porcupine issues were in much stronger demand, and especially so in relation to some of the higher-priced stocks. Rea and Dobie were the favorites, and the security was in even better call today. The opening quotations were 10 points above the recent high level, and the stock gained an additional 40 cents in short order, selling as high as $7.40 before profit-taking influenced the price. The close was around $7.27, realizing bringing about the decline.

Rea shares have been passing into stronger hands, the action of the market today being very critical. The advance to seven dollars yesterday did not attract any material volume of selling, and the security was in even better call today. The opening quotations were 10 points above the recent high level, and the stock gained an additional 40 cents in short order, selling as high as $7.40 before profit-taking influenced the price. The close was around $7.27, realizing bringing about the decline.

Dobie has quieted down considerably of late, and the transactions in the stock have been very small. The turn in the tide came today, however, and the shares were up 10 points to $4.40 before the culmination of the movement. Foley-O'Brien was another strong point, advancing to $1.36. Hottinger was quiet, and 10 points off at the close.

Vipond was the only one of the cheaper Porcupines to show any material vivacity. This issue gained three points from the opening prices, and was bid for around the top figures at the close. The high price for the day was 61, Preston was off 2 points to 37.

Interest in the Cobalt stocks was chiefly concerned with Right of Way, which touched 184, a gain of over two cents from yesterday. The company has taken over several Porcupine claims, and it is reported that there is a good cash balance in the treasury, the buying being founded on these factors.

Small declines ruled throughout the general list of silver issues. Open, Round, and Little Nipissing and Beaver, all recording fractional recessions. Wetlaufer, on the contrary, was stronger, the shares moving up to par, and the market taken as a whole showed more substance, and, in so far as the Porcupine section was concerned, the tone was decidedly more cheerful.

TEA CHANGES COLOR

Time-Honored Secret of Eastern Tea Raisers Becomes Historical.

One curious result of the operations of the federal pure food law will be the disappearance from the American market of green tea and the substitution of yellow tea, a change which will afford material for the paragraph as well as for the sober contemplation of the anomalies of modern legislation.

The result is not to be accomplished by a prohibition of the green article of import, for it is not claimed that the coloring matter employed by the Chinese and Japanese growers is injurious to health, but that it has a perceptible effect upon the beverage made from the colored leaves. But the law requires that whenever an artificial coloring matter is added to any food product that fact must be stated on the labels.

The tea importers have decided that rather than deface their packages by a label which might breed distrust as to the quality and wholesomeness of the contents, they will advise the tea curers in the far east to conform to American legislative requirements and abandon a practice of unknown antiquity. The only difference will be that the leaves will be a pale yellow instead of green.

All the same, the passing of the act is added to the drink that cheers without inebriation will be able to adapt their favorite beverage, for the green used by the tea curers is a fast color of unknown composition, but of the material from which it is made.
