thropic Workers at Topsy-Turvy Affair.

London, July 17.—Was ever such topy-turvy country fair seen in London as that which opened at the Botanical Gardens yesterday? It was a merry, mad affair, organized to aid that very deserving institution, the Dumb Friends' League. Money was wanted, and judging from the results of the first day of this unique fair, money they will get in plenty. In place of the pearl buttoned showmen and entertainers with threadbare hose, such as are usually seen at country fairs, were to be seen men and women of high rank in society, actors of repute and pretty actresses, all working with a will, directing the fun, which went fast and furious from start to finish. There was a certain marchioness, for instance, presiding over the punch and judy show; titled ladies ran a shooting saloon, while duchesses were among

Queen is Chief Patroness. And why all this interest in a philanthropic effort for the Dumb Friends League? One reason is that Queen Alexandra is chief patroness and is expected to pay a visit to the show this evening. Many typical features of a fair are reproduced. One stumbled across them in the prettiest spots of the Botanical Gardens.
