

JAMESON AVENUE.

An excellent detached residence with hot-water heating, two bathrooms, price $10,000. Could not be put up 10 days for less than $15,000.

H. H. WILLIAMS & CO.,
Realty Brokers, 26 Victoria St.

Senate Reading Room—
20 July 1908—27152

PROBS—Mostly fair and moderately warm.

FOURTEEN PAGES—SATURDAY MORNING JULY 18 1908—FOURTEEN PAGES

FOR RENT
Centrally located manufacturing flat, 5100 square feet, light on three sides, freight and passenger elevators, excellent shipping facilities.
H. H. WILLIAMS & CO.,
Realty Brokers, 26 Victoria St.

28TH YEAR

HAMILTON'S COACCATO GIVEN DUE WARNING OF APPEAL TO COURT

Ratepayer Will Seek to Quash
Catastrophe Agreement as Ultra
Vires—But Aldermen Keep on Rushing It Thru.

ONLY FIVE WOULD VOTE
FOR POWER AT $14

HAMILTON, July 17.—(Special.)—When the city council met this evening, the Catastrophe agreement was confronted with a notice served on City Clerk Kent, that if they give the by-law agreement with the company a third reading steps would be taken at once to quash it.

The notice was served by Lees, Hobson & Stephens, and read as follows: "We beg to advise you that we are instructed on behalf of a ratepayer to bring an action to set aside the power bylaw, which is now being considered by the city council in case the same passes its third reading, on the ground that it is ultra vires of the city council."

The council chamber was filled up by Catastrophe supporters. Many of them were mere leeches in the employ of the company, a leading part being taken by the son of a judge, who recently acted as an arbitrator in a dispute between the street railway and its men. When Aldermen Sweeney, Farrier and Allan, and other Catastrophe adherents came into the room the youths greeted them with great applause. After the meeting got under way the youngsters got so noisy that Ald. Crerar, who presided over the committee of the whole, had to threaten to clear the room. The chairman did not shut out applause by clapping, and when the Catastrophe adherents entered the room it was not the Catastrophe adherents who got the applause.

Notwithstanding the notice to quash the bylaw, the Catastrophe adherents carried it. Very few changes were made in the agreement.

Mayor Stewart moved that the price for power for city plants be cut down from $18 to $14. He was voted down on this, only five aldermen voting for $14 power. Those who voted with the mayor were Ald. J. J. Wright, Nicholson and Anderson. Those who voted for $18 power were Ald. Clark, Dickson, Lewis, Gardner, H. G. Wright, George, Sweeney, Guy, Allan, Farrier and Howard.

The contract as it stands now provides for $18 a horsepower for power for city plants. Incandescent lighting rates are to be 10 per cent. below the Toronto rates. There is no protection for private power-users, except that the company is bound not to raise its five years its rates to those who use ten horsepower or less.

A motion made by Ald. A. J. Wright and Nicholson, stipulating that the price for incandescent lighting shall not be more than six cents a kilowatt hour, received the support of only the mover and second and Mayor Stewart and Ald. Hennessy, Jutten, Farmer and Anderson.

Col. Gibson Orates.

It was midnight when the council, sitting in committee, passed the thirty-one clauses of the power agreement. At that hour the aldermen started on the street lighting agreement of 18 clauses.

The feature of the session was a lengthy, Ald. Lewis, one of the Catastrophe's warmest supporters, put forward an argument with Col. J. M. Gibson. Ald. Jutten moved that a clause be inserted in the contract stipulating that the company should not appeal from the award of Judge Snider on the present street lighting agreement, cutting the price now paid to the company from $8 to $6.50.

Col. Gibson should be heard on the subject, and he made a reply that threatened for a while to create a rupture between the company and its aldermanic friends. The aldermanic friends of the company would not discuss such a clause, as it was consenting to an agreement which was a concession to the city from beginning to end.

Ald. Lewis, while opposed to the insertion of the clause, said he would not stand for the aldermanic remarks, or let it go abroad that the aldermen had bought the company.

A Confession.

What the council had done was simply to base a contract on the offers of the company and any changes that were made had been made for the benefit of the company and not in the interests of the city.

HALTON NOMINATIONS.

J. D. McGregor of Trafalgar Township, Choice of Liberals.

MILTON, July 17.—(Special.)—Halton Liberals to-day nominated J. D. McGregor, farmer of Trafalgar Township, for the house of commons. Controller Harrison of Toronto had aspired to the nomination, but the convention chose a resident of the riding.

Addresses were made by Messrs. Robertson and Deacon of Milton, Messrs. Kelly and Reynolds of Oakville, Mr. Warren of Georgetown, Dr. Harrison, Toronto, and Major Beatty of Campbellville.

TORONTO GIRL DROWNS.

Grace Holland, Aged 14, Loses Her Life Near Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 17.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Kirk's Ferry, Grace Holland, a little girl 14 years of age, was in bathing with another companion, Dorothy Anderson, when she got beyond her depth.

She was a niece of Col. and Mrs. Anderson of Ottawa, and was there on a visit from Toronto, where her parents reside.

MR. SHAPIRO GOES SEVEN PRISONERS MAKE BOLD ESCAPE FROM ALTAIR TO JAIL WALL PICK LOCK, DIG HOLE THRU JAIL WALL

Biggest "Delivery" in Local Police Records Occurs Some Time During the Afternoon-Time and Method Chosen With Great Cleverness—Prisoners Awaiting Trial or Disposition and in Plain Clothes—Seven Others Stay Behind.

Torontonian Who Parts From Second Wife By Simple Process and Marries Young Charming, Arrested.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., July 17.—(Special.)—Married on Wednesday, in jail on Friday, was the experience of Jacob Shapiro of Toronto at this city.

In company with the handsome Miss Sarah Scheiber of Pittsburgh, aged 21, Mr. Shapiro, aged 33, walked into the office of the county clerk and demanded a license. Five minutes later they were joined together by the judge of probate, but almost simultaneously a telegram was despatched to Toronto addressed to Helen Gelber Shapiro, wife No. 1, as she claims, or more correctly, Mrs. Shapiro, who had known her, when he married her. She wasted no time, but hurried to Mount Clemens and this morning Shapiro was in jail on a charge of bigamy.

Mrs. Shapiro (No. 1) told her story to the authorities. Three years ago her husband died, leaving her with three children. Shapiro, who had known her, when he married her, told him that her love was buried with her husband, but that if he would be true to her she would make him a good wife.

"Helen," he said, according to Mrs. Gelber-Shapiro, "a woman of gold should tempt me, my love for you would be the same."

Then the pair went to Cleveland. Shapiro knew a rabbi whom he had met at Cambridge Springs and a ceremony was held in the synagogue. Rabbi Freedman, it is said, arranged the details and a trial marriage was arranged. An agreement was entered into by which the parties were to live together, but if they were dissatisfied upon the fulfilling of certain conditions the rabbi would grant what is called a "Getta." This occurred on Oct. 17, 1907.

There is some dispute as to how long they lived together, but they enjoyed a pleasant honeymoon, going to Pittsburgh and New York and returning to Toronto. There troubles came. Mr. Shapiro did not like children and Mrs. Shapiro set a "gentle table" so in Buffalo a sort of separation was agreed upon, by which Mr. Shapiro parted with $200 and some diamonds, according to his story. Mrs. Shapiro says it was less. Even after that Mrs. Shapiro says they lived together.

One day Miss Scheiber visited in Toronto and her youthful beauty attracted Shapiro, who is a well-to-do real estate man in his home city, and could have many wives as he pleased. They came to Mt. Clemens and stopped at Reh's Hotel and were married by the judge of probate. The wedding attracted attention and Jacob gave $500 to a public charity at the time (last Wednesday).

Mrs. Shapiro No. 1 was on the alert. A detective had followed Jacob and, it is said, is one of the witnesses to the second marriage certificate. Immediately Mrs. Gelber was notified she and her informants before the prosecuting authorities here. A warrant was issued and Shapiro was locked up. Late this afternoon he furnished bail and was released until next Wednesday afternoon, the date to which his examination was continued.

Shapiro is 58 years of age, short, with bushy black whiskers, streaked with grey, and is reputed to be worth $20,000. The first Mrs. Shapiro is 25, but does not look her age, and is a very attractive woman.

Miss Scheiber is also good-looking, but much younger. She left Mt. Clemens this morning with her sister.

THE SHAPIROS' TROUBLES.

Some Local "Color" to the Mount Clemens Incident.

Shapiro is well known in Toronto, and his marital disturbances were made public some weeks ago in a curious way, when a cheque for $200 was found on a street. Shapiro had owned it. Mr. Shapiro had taken it while he slept, and she had lost it when going to her lawyers.

Shapiro's lawyer, W. J. McWhinney, of the firm of McWhinney, Lennox, Woods and Brown, will go to Mt. Clemens, Mich., and endeavor to get Shapiro out of the trouble. There is some dispute as to whether Shapiro and Mrs. Gelber (nee Scheiber) are in the city.

Continued on Page 7.

REVOLT IN TURKEY.

Unrest and Mutiny in Some of the Army Corps.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 17.—The young Turkey propaganda in the Turkish army in favor of autonomy to Macedonia, appears to-day to be more widespread than here, for has been admitted, and some forebodings are being expressed in official circles of a general revolt of the officers of the second and third army corps at present stationed in the Monastir district. There already have been some mutinies in individual battalions.

OFF TO QUEBEC.

Medical Corps and Composite Regt. County Corps Left Last Night.

Two composite regiments left for Quebec last night. One was a medical corps made up of detachments from the medical corps in Toronto and Hamilton. The other was made up of detachments from the rural fire regiments from the rural fire regiments in Western Ontario and totaled 28 men. Lieut.-Col. W. P. Moore of West Toronto was in command and the corps presented a very smart appearance. Another special came thru Toronto from London, bringing a composite rural regiment from that locality.

Governor Tells How 'Twas Done

Guard Who Could Only Count Seven When Fourteen Should Have Been There Discovered the Escape.

Governor A. B. Chambers gave out the following statement:

"It was just because we did not suspect any such attempt at escape. A key or some instrument with which to pick the lock must have been smuggled in to these men. Churchill had meals sent in to him.

"There were fourteen men in corridor No. 3. That is the corridor on the first floor, up in the north side of the east wing.

"During the day these men are allowed the liberty of the corridor for exercise, but at night they are locked in their cells so that what work they arranged for on lock or wall must have been done in the daytime.

"The execution corridor opens off this and projects from the north wall. The door to it is made fast with a Yale lock. This was picked.

"A hole large enough to permit the passage of a body was made in the east side of this projection, and thru this to the ground, 15 feet below, the men let themselves to the ground by means of a sheet and a towel tied together.

"We cannot tell how long they were in making that hole in the bricks. It may have been hours or days. They did not work in that room all day, as noticed.

"This door leading to the execution chamber was a heavy iron one. It was locked with a key held by Guard Thos. Lorigan at noon when he went off duty on the landing at the west end of the corridor. Guard Stanton was on duty from 12 to 1, and noticed nothing wrong.

"Guard James Elliott went on at 1 o'clock. He asked Lorigan when he came off at 4 o'clock how many men should be in this corridor. He was told fourteen. He said he could only count seven, and upon investigation the delivery was discovered.

"The spot where the men reached the ground is 50 feet from a gate in the east surrounding or fence-wall. I think the men went out thru this. This gate opens on a lane road which runs to Broadway-avenue and to the grounds of the Isolation Hospital. From there they could get to Gerrard-street.

"The men were all on remand, or awaiting sentence. They had their ordinary clothes on, even their hats. I do not know whether they had money. They were not supposed to have, but they often manage to smuggle it in.

"I know that Churchill had money. His meals sent in to him. Others may have had theirs sent in. I do not remember. The meals, which they would buy in the ordinary course, came from a Mrs. Groves. I trust her implicitly. But anyone familiar with the jail routine would know that she serves these meals, and a key or other small instrument could easily be sent in to food if it could be once concealed in it."

were not in jail guard, the three have with deliberation worked out their escape. On the morning of the escape the guard on duty, the trio would take turns in picking at the lock—a common spring affair on the wooden door in the north wall of the corridor, where the trio were permitted to walk up and down, and which led into the death chamber. With the aid of a table fork and some pins this was accomplished without injury that would attract attention.

Once inside the chamber, the rest was easy, for somehow the prisoners had obtained some crude bits of iron with which they labored at their pleasure. With one or two at work inside, the other one would keep watch. Evidently the work took several days, before the outer portion of the stone wall was reached. The broken stone and plaster were carefully picked out of a hole about a foot and one-half square and laid aside.

Chose Time Well.

Again Rose's hand is seen in the affair. The escape was timed when the guards were changing off and until a mess was called the prisoners were not missed. The hole was discovered and an alarm sounded. Governor Chambers was in the jail at the time.

That the prisoners separated when the fence skirting Riverside Park was scaled is evinced from the fact that Rev. Frank Vivond, rector of Chester Church, saw three men in the woods near the C.N.O. tracks near the Necropolis.

Citizens in the neighborhood had not seen nor heard of the escape. It was raining hard at the time, and although several people on Broadway-avenue were out on errands, no one could be found who had noticed anything out of the ordinary.

Who the Men Are.

Alexander Rose was held for examination as to his sanity. Having pleaded guilty to two offences, the penalty for either of which is life imprisonment and proved in health and expects to return to Toronto in a week.

Continued on Page 7.

Governor Tells How 'Twas Done

Guard Who Could Only Count Seven When Fourteen Should Have Been There Discovered the Escape.

Governor A. B. Chambers gave out the following statement:

"It was just because we did not suspect any such attempt at escape. A key or some instrument with which to pick the lock must have been smuggled in to these men. Churchill had meals sent in to him.

"There were fourteen men in corridor No. 3. That is the corridor on the first floor, up in the north side of the east wing.

"During the day these men are allowed the liberty of the corridor for exercise, but at night they are locked in their cells so that what work they arranged for on lock or wall must have been done in the daytime.

"The execution corridor opens off this and projects from the north wall. The door to it is made fast with a Yale lock. This was picked.

"A hole large enough to permit the passage of a body was made in the east side of this projection, and thru this to the ground, 15 feet below, the men let themselves to the ground by means of a sheet and a towel tied together.

"We cannot tell how long they were in making that hole in the bricks. It may have been hours or days. They did not work in that room all day, as noticed.

"This door leading to the execution chamber was a heavy iron one. It was locked with a key held by Guard Thos. Lorigan at noon when he went off duty on the landing at the west end of the corridor. Guard Stanton was on duty from 12 to 1, and noticed nothing wrong.

"Guard James Elliott went on at 1 o'clock. He asked Lorigan when he came off at 4 o'clock how many men should be in this corridor. He was told fourteen. He said he could only count seven, and upon investigation the delivery was discovered.

"The spot where the men reached the ground is 50 feet from a gate in the east surrounding or fence-wall. I think the men went out thru this. This gate opens on a lane road which runs to Broadway-avenue and to the grounds of the Isolation Hospital. From there they could get to Gerrard-street.

"The men were all on remand, or awaiting sentence. They had their ordinary clothes on, even their hats. I do not know whether they had money. They were not supposed to have, but they often manage to smuggle it in.

"I know that Churchill had money. His meals sent in to him. Others may have had theirs sent in. I do not remember. The meals, which they would buy in the ordinary course, came from a Mrs. Groves. I trust her implicitly. But anyone familiar with the jail routine would know that she serves these meals, and a key or other small instrument could easily be sent in to food if it could be once concealed in it."

were not in jail guard, the three have with deliberation worked out their escape. On the morning of the escape the guard on duty, the trio would take turns in picking at the lock—a common spring affair on the wooden door in the north wall of the corridor, where the trio were permitted to walk up and down, and which led into the death chamber. With the aid of a table fork and some pins this was accomplished without injury that would attract attention.

Once inside the chamber, the rest was easy, for somehow the prisoners had obtained some crude bits of iron with which they labored at their pleasure. With one or two at work inside, the other one would keep watch. Evidently the work took several days, before the outer portion of the stone wall was reached. The broken stone and plaster were carefully picked out of a hole about a foot and one-half square and laid aside.

Chose Time Well.

Again Rose's hand is seen in the affair. The escape was timed when the guards were changing off and until a mess was called the prisoners were not missed. The hole was discovered and an alarm sounded. Governor Chambers was in the jail at the time.

That the prisoners separated when the fence skirting Riverside Park was scaled is evinced from the fact that Rev. Frank Vivond, rector of Chester Church, saw three men in the woods near the C.N.O. tracks near the Necropolis.

Citizens in the neighborhood had not seen nor heard of the escape. It was raining hard at the time, and although several people on Broadway-avenue were out on errands, no one could be found who had noticed anything out of the ordinary.

Who the Men Are.

Alexander Rose was held for examination as to his sanity. Having pleaded guilty to two offences, the penalty for either of which is life imprisonment and proved in health and expects to return to Toronto in a week.

Continued on Page 7.

Governor Tells How 'Twas Done

Guard Who Could Only Count Seven When Fourteen Should Have Been There Discovered the Escape.

Governor A. B. Chambers gave out the following statement:

"It was just because we did not suspect any such attempt at escape. A key or some instrument with which to pick the lock must have been smuggled in to these men. Churchill had meals sent in to him.

"There were fourteen men in corridor No. 3. That is the corridor on the first floor, up in the north side of the east wing.

"During the day these men are allowed the liberty of the corridor for exercise, but at night they are locked in their cells so that what work they arranged for on lock or wall must have been done in the daytime.

"The execution corridor opens off this and projects from the north wall. The door to it is made fast with a Yale lock. This was picked.

"A hole large enough to permit the passage of a body was made in the east side of this projection, and thru this to the ground, 15 feet below, the men let themselves to the ground by means of a sheet and a towel tied together.

"We cannot tell how long they were in making that hole in the bricks. It may have been hours or days. They did not work in that room all day, as noticed.

"This door leading to the execution chamber was a heavy iron one. It was locked with a key held by Guard Thos. Lorigan at noon when he went off duty on the landing at the west end of the corridor. Guard Stanton was on duty from 12 to 1, and noticed nothing wrong.

"Guard James Elliott went on at 1 o'clock. He asked Lorigan when he came off at 4 o'clock how many men should be in this corridor. He was told fourteen. He said he could only count seven, and upon investigation the delivery was discovered.

"The spot where the men reached the ground is 50 feet from a gate in the east surrounding or fence-wall. I think the men went out thru this. This gate opens on a lane road which runs to Broadway-avenue and to the grounds of the Isolation Hospital. From there they could get to Gerrard-street.

"The men were all on remand, or awaiting sentence. They had their ordinary clothes on, even their hats. I do not know whether they had money. They were not supposed to have, but they often manage to smuggle it in.

"I know that Churchill had money. His meals sent in to him. Others may have had theirs sent in. I do not remember. The meals, which they would buy in the ordinary course, came from a Mrs. Groves. I trust her implicitly. But anyone familiar with the jail routine would know that she serves these meals, and a key or other small instrument could easily be sent in to food if it could be once concealed in it."

were not in jail guard, the three have with deliberation worked out their escape. On the morning of the escape the guard on duty, the trio would take turns in picking at the lock—a common spring affair on the wooden door in the north wall of the corridor, where the trio were permitted to walk up and down, and which led into the death chamber. With the aid of a table fork and some pins this was accomplished without injury that would attract attention.

Once inside the chamber, the rest was easy, for somehow the prisoners had obtained some crude bits of iron with which they labored at their pleasure. With one or two at work inside, the other one would keep watch. Evidently the work took several days, before the outer portion of the stone wall was reached. The broken stone and plaster were carefully picked out of a hole about a foot and one-half square and laid aside.

Chose Time Well.

Again Rose's hand is seen in the affair. The escape was timed when the guards were changing off and until a mess was called the prisoners were not missed. The hole was discovered and an alarm sounded. Governor Chambers was in the jail at the time.

That the prisoners separated when the fence skirting Riverside Park was scaled is evinced from the fact that Rev. Frank Vivond, rector of Chester Church, saw three men in the woods near the C.N.O. tracks near the Necropolis.

Citizens in the neighborhood had not seen nor heard of the escape. It was raining hard at the time, and although several people on Broadway-avenue were out on errands, no one could be found who had noticed anything out of the ordinary.

Who the Men Are.

Alexander Rose was held for examination as to his sanity. Having pleaded guilty to two offences, the penalty for either of which is life imprisonment and proved in health and expects to return to Toronto in a week.

Continued on Page 7.

CHIEF INSPECTOR FOR ONTARIO SCHOOLS

Dr. Merchant of London Receives Appointment—John Houston Becomes H. S. Inspector—Other Appointments.

A number of important educational appointments were announced yesterday by the Provincial Government.

Principal Merchant of London has been created Chief Inspector of Public and Separate Schools and Inspector of Normal Schools and (after this year) of Model Schools. This is a new but not an additional office as it replaces the Inspectorship of Model Schools. Dr. Merchant's duties will include inspection of the seven Normal Schools, the new Model Schools, and as the Minister of Education has already reorganized the inspection of Districts and Separate Schools, it is expected that similar reforms will follow in connection with Public Schools. The new Chief Inspector is a successful teacher of twenty-five years' experience in different grades of schools and whose Principalship of the London Normal School during the last seven or eight years has been uniformly satisfactory. He is an M.A. of Victoria and D. Paed. of Toronto.

For the new High School Inspectorship, provision for which was made by the vote of last Session, the Minister of Education has selected Mr. John Houston, M.A., at present Registrar of the Department. The new colleague of Inspector Wetherill and Inspector Spotton is a graduate of Trinity, whose specialty is mathematics. His scholastic career was highly successful. He won the first Foundation Scholarship at Matriculation with First Class standing in the English, Mathematics, Science, and in 1875 the Burnside Scholarship. Mr. Houston was a successful High School Principal in Eastern Ontario for twenty years, and his work has received the highest grading for organization, discipline, and teaching.

New Registrars and Principals.

Inspector Houston's successor as Registrar and Chairman of the Board of Examiners is Robert W. Anglin, Principal of the Essex High School, who holds the rank of a Specialist in Mathematics, and is familiar with examination work.

The principal of the new Normal Schools which open in September, and the Principalship of the London School (vacant by Dr. Merchant's promotion), have been filled as follows:

Hamilton—S. A. Morgan, B.A., D. Paed., Stratford—W. H. Elliott, B.A., Peterborough—C. Walker, B.A., London—S. W. Radcliffe, B.A.

Dr. Morgan, who is a graduate of Toronto, holds the rank of Specialist in Classics and is also an English scholar. He was formerly a lecturer in the Ontario Normal College at Hamilton, and has been for the past year a Principal of the Ontario Normal School. Mr. Radcliffe, also a graduate of Toronto University, is a Specialist in Moderns and History, was formerly Principal of the Ontario Collegiate Institute and has lately been on the staff of the Normal School there. Mr. Elliott, a graduate of Queen's and a Specialist in English and History, has been for years Vice-Principal of the Toronto Normal School, and is widely known as a successful teacher. Mr. Walker is a Specialist in Mathematics and holds a good record as a teacher and Public School Inspector.

Normal School Masters.

The additional Normal School Masters appointed to the staff of the new schools are:

A. C. Caselman, of the Toronto Normal School.
J. S. Emery, B.A., of Guelph Collegiate Institute.
Geo. A. Cornish, B.A., of Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

T. W. Gibson, M.A., of Carleton Place Public School.
F. F. McPherson, B.A., of Hamilton Collegiate Institute.

S. J. Keyes, B.A., B. Paed., of Cornwall Model School.
J. M. McCutcheon, M.A., of St. Thomas Model School.

J. H. Putnam, B.A., Principal of the Ottawa Model School.
H. S. Robertson, M.A., of Stratford Collegiate Institute and Columbia University.

Wm. Prendergast, B.A., until recently Separate School Inspector.
E. T. Slemmon, B.A., of Oshawa High School.

H. G. Park, B.A., D. Paed., of Uxbridge High School.
A. Stevenson, B.A., of Kingston Collegiate Institute and Queen's Faculty of Education.

J. B. Hoag, B.A., Public School Inspector of Brantford.
Each of the foregoing appointments has had at least public school experience and honour university standing in one or more departments. As teachers the record of each has been a long successful one.

J. P. Power, B.A., who has been on the staff of the Ottawa Normal School for a year, has resigned that position and been re-appointed Separate School Inspector with headquarters in the Toronto District.

NAVY IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

Police Boat Gets Overturned in the Lake.

Toronto's police boat and its crew had an exciting experience yesterday afternoon.

A dinghy was upset just outside the eastern end of the police boat hurried to the rescue. The launch ran too closely to the shore, touched bottom and was overturned. P. C. Burney, P. C. Novat and the engineer waded ashore and pulled the boat over the side.

They pulled it over the bar and later in the day another boat was sent over to tow it back to its dock.