COMMANDER OF CONSTANCE TELLS OF SHIP'S WORK

Was Guest of Canadian Club at Luncheon Today

He Was in St. John on the Ariadne in 1904 — Speaks on Future of Canadian Navy — Praise for Navy League.

A graphic description of the work of his vessel and the cruiser squadron to which it is attached, pleasant reminis-cences of his former visit to St. John in 1904, and the possibilities of the Canadian Navy, were amongst the matters spoken of by Captain E. C. Kennedy, R. N., in a highly interesting address to the members of the Canadian Club at luncheon in Bond's today at noon. Horace A. Porter, vice president was in the chair in the absence of A.
M. Belding, the president. There was a good attendance.

Captain Kennedy said that he thought a few words on the work of the navy in peace times would not be amiss, particularly as there is shortly to come to Canada the nucleus of a Canadian fleet. Regarding the war work of the navy, the people read enough and knew enough so he would content himself with showing them a chart of the work of one ship in the grand fleet during the war. He passed around a chart literally covered with lines showing the various cruises made by the vessel.

Since the armistice the distribution of ships has included the placing of a light cruiser squadron in seven parts of the globe, the Constance being a member of one of these.

Was On Ariadne.

In 1904, he said, he served in the last flagship in this station—the Ariadne, and had pleasant recollections of his visit to St. John in 1904 during the tercentennary of the landing of Champlain. Eight-teen months ago he came back again in the Constance, the first ship to arrive in these waters after the redistribution.
Since coming the ship has been called upon to perform some extraordinary duties.

"We were cruising in Jamaican waters," he said, "and received a wireless call from Belize (British Honduras) saying that serious riots had broken out amongst the natives. We were there and stopped three months with troops ashore under arms to protect the 300 white inhabitants against the great hordes of blacks of every type. Shortly afterwards a call from Spanish Honduras saying that rebel troops were marching on British towns. Leaving 100 men under arms at Belize, the Constance proceeded to Spanish Honduras and the presence of the ship was sufficient to restore order."

"Our next duty was to escort the remains of the prince on board to Halifax. Returning shortly afterwards to the West Indies. On one island a section of the police had struck for no apparent reason and the natives had all struck in sympathy. The situation was tense but again the presence of the vessel prevented an outbreak. The ship was called upon to deal with a mutiny on board a British ship carrying a valuable cargo which was rapidly depreciating. We managed to get the ship to its destination without further trouble."

"An extraordinary case of a British ship with a remarkable record then presented itself. She was commanded by a bold buccanner of the Captain Kidd type who had taken his ship into a French port outside of British jurisdiction and there her there five months on various pretexts.
She had a £1,000,000 cargo which was in danger of becoming bad and we were asked to go and seize the master. With the permission of the French authorities, at the dead of night we succeeded in seizing the ship and towing her 500 or 600 miles to a British port. Some time afterwards we learned that, with a new captain and crew she had reached her destination, South Africa, and delivered her cargo to the South African government. These cases I cite to show that our work here has not been wasted."

"We have made other cruises to our very outlying possessions in that part of the world, where we have always received a warm reception from the inhabitants. Some of these places are completely isolated from the outside world with no means whatever of communication. Often times there is only one white man to show the local administration. In one place the local administrator was carrying out the duties of postmaster, chief of police, chief justice and in addition looked after the people's spiritual and corporal welfare. There was no doctor, but he had a medicine chest from which he administered. We asked the surgeon to come ashore to the ship. He did so, but before night the news had spread broadcast that there was a real doctor on the island and who was hardly an inhabitant who was not stricken with some ailment."

"It had been my wish to return and visit the Canadian ports where I was so well treated several years ago but have not been able to do so until now.
This is our first visit and I regret to say that it will be our last as we are soon to take over a new crew at Halifax and go home."

The Canadian Navy.
Speaking of the Canadian Navy and its possibilities, Capt. Kennedy referred to the recent West Indian conference and Canada. "Trade always follows the flag," he said, "and you will have no better ambassador than a warship. Being away from the main fleet, one naturally gets rusty in fleet work which is preparing for war. When the Canadian Navy comes and if they are used only in home ports, they cannot progress. If the policy will be to join up with the British cruiser squadrons, it will be of enormous benefit both to them and to us as fleet is needed on active service, they will be all one."

"While we are in port here we have been received with much hospitality and we appreciate it, but our ship has been at a standstill and if we remained here any length of time we would soon become rusty. The governor told me yesterday of the work going on here which is of great interest to us.
"I should suggest going further and erecting oil tanks, particularly as I hear that oil is obtainable in the province."

Austin-Scribner.

A wedding of much interest took place Tuesday afternoon, September 14, at half past two o'clock in the First Baptist church, Oswego, N. Y., when Rev. Thomas Hughes united in marriage Miss Bertha May Scribner, daughter of Mrs. and the late S. W. Scribner, of St. John, and Charles H. Austin, of Syracuse. The bride was attired in a navy blue broadcloth suit with hat to match, and wore a seal and ermine fur, with a corsage bouquet of cream roses and lily of the valley.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs.
Austin left on a motor trip to Rochester groom.

bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M.
Jenkins, 800 King street East, their daughter, Miss Mary Freda Jenkins, was united in marriage to Malcolm Mc-Donald Somerville, of St. John. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A.
Goodwin, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, in the presence of immediate friends and relatives and the party was appropriately decorated with cut flowers and ferns. The bride, who was given away by her father, was prettily attired in a travelling suit of nigger brown broadcloth with hat to match and wore a seal scarf, the gift of the groom.
She wore a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. After a dainty wedding luncheon served at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs.
Somerville left by motor for Millidge-ville where they left by motor boat for a honeymoon trip up the St. John river, and on their return will reside at 260 King street East. Many beautiful and costly presents, including cut glass and silver were received testifying to their popularity. Mr. and Mrs. Somerville are extended hearty congratulations and best wishes for much future happiness.

Malcolm-Myles.

At noon today in the Main street Bathing church Muriel Gertrude, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myles, of this city, was united in marriage to George Malcolm, son of the late George and Mrs.
Angeline Clarke, of Shannon, Quebec.
The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson becomingly attired in a travelling suit of navy blue with silver and silver of ermine, gift of the groom. Beautiful and costly gifts were received. There was a check from the firm and staff of W. F. Hatheway, of Shannon, Quebec, where the bride was formerly employed.

After the ceremony the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon trip to Fredericton and other points in the province, and on their return will reside in St.
John.

Armstrong-Barry.

Miss Jean S. Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Barry of 840 York street, Fredericton, and Charles F. Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Armstrong, of Sussex, were united in marriage this afternoon in St. Dunstan's Church, Fredericton, by Rev. F. L. Carney. The bridesmaid was Miss Marie Burden of Fredericton, and the groomsmen were W.
L. Bonnell, of St. Stephen. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, John A. Barry of Fredericton.

The bride was gown in Reindeer shade tricot with gold brocade trimming, black and silver hat and black seal scarf. She carried American Beauty Roses. The bridesmaid wore fawn velour and robin egg blue hat with grey squirrel scarf and carried sweet peas.
Music was played by Miss Dorothy Feeney, organist of St. Dunstan's. The bride was the recipient of a silver tea service from the staff of the Fredericton Hospitals D. S. C. R., having been a member of the staff for some time. Other gifts included silver, cut glass and china.
Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will leave Fredericton this evening on a honeymoon which will include Montreal, Toronto and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside at McAdam.

Oil is undoubtedly the fuel of the future and this will be a greater attraction to the port in many ways.
Captain Kennedy paid a high tribute to the work of the Navy League who, he said, are endeavoring in every way to promote interest in the navy and their enormous good work in the past all over the world is well known. He wished them every success.

"BE MODERN—LET POWER DO YOUR WORK"

Introducing the "1900" Agitator Water Power Washer.

Power—electric, steam or water, plays an increasing part in the home work these days, and it is therefore in line for Everett to procure for his patrons the exclusive local agency for the famous 1900 Agitator Washer—the washer that operates from water power that flows from the common everyday kitchen faucet.

The 1900 Agitator Washer will quickly pay for itself in the saving of money actually paid out, besides reducing the work three-fifths. This latter item is a powerful point because of the saving on clothes, etc., made possible by the ease of operation. In fact, it has been proved that clothes will last from twice to four times as long as when the clothes are washed under the old conditions and methods.

There's no scrubbing—the soap and water are forced through the meshes of the cloth, bringing forth the article washed sweet and clean and at an imperceptible amount of wear on the goods.

The 1900 Agitator will wash anything from a handkerchief to a lace curtain or a carpet—just a turn of the faucet and the water does the work.

Possibly we can show you in a more detailed way just the working of the machine?
