THE ORANGE PEEL DREDGE HAS ARRIVED TO WORK HERE

A Brief Description of the Machine Which Will Assist in Clearing the Sand Point Berths.

At the meeting of the board of works this afternoon plans will be made for putting the "Orange Peel" dredge to work at Sand Point.

J. S. Gibbon, owner of the dredge, was seen today. He was confident that the machine could do all the work required of her.

The "Orange Peel" dredge has lately been working at River Hebert and arrived here yesterday by rail. At this afternoon's meeting it will be decided when the dredge will be placed on the scow.

The "Orange Peel" is suited to every variety of dredging and excavating, grading, deepening canals and harbors and excavating rocks. She was built by the Hayward Co., of New York. The bucket is constructed of four curved triangular blades and when closed forms a tight semi-spherical bowl.

Horizontal arms are riveted to the blades and their inner ends are attached to a central block with suitable bolts, having special bronze bushings for reducing the wear. The outer ends are hinged to the upper central block.

The power wheel for closing the bucket is secured to the lower central casting. The dredge will probably be kept at work until the Sand Point job has been completed.
