

Folio.

BY THE REV. J. H. CLINCH.

*On the sandy floor of Ocean,
And its beds of ancient stone,
Which neither sound nor motion
Since Creation's hour have known,
What heaps of countless treasures,
And what hosts of bottes sleep,
What gifts to Fame of Pleasure,
Lie a thousand fathoms deep.*

*There sit by side for ages—
Lie mammon and his slaves—
Lo! who keep open wares—
Which have fallen from the waves
There on one quiet pillow—
The home of forms rest,
Who sent above the bellow
Death to each other's breast.*

*There gems and jewels gleaming
In broad and peaceful height,
E'en in the darkness setting—
To flash with morn's light;
Yet who the tests beside them
The youthful and the fair,
Seeks not to twine and braid the m—
With her silvery streaming hair.*

*More rich thy caves than hallowed
Than the land, old Ocean wide,
More life, more depths, have swallows
Than breathes above the tide;
And in this dark depression,
Death's empire enjoys his state,
Than those that earth's possessions
Who are yet poor.*

Boston, 1840.

*THE BANNER OF ENGLAND.
Best England, old England, blest Isle of the free,
Whose banner so proudly flutters over the sea—
The gloom of whose arms, and the light of whose—
For ages have doated the empires of earth :—
What conquest and glories encircle thy name—
It's the water of valour, the windward of fame ;—
But better still, whereso'er I may be,
I know that thy banner waves over the free.*

*THE BANNER OF AMERICA.
United States ! your banner wears
Two colors, red and white :—
All of the others that boast—
Reminds us of your shame—
The white man's liberty is spied—
Stands blazon'd by your stars—
But what's the meaning of your stripes ?—
They mean our negro scabs ?*

*COUNTRY CAUSES AT THE EXHIBITION.—
The following extract from a letter of a Liverpool man, who is a daily visitor to the exhibition, & a close observer of the works, becomes of interest to friends anxious the safety of their great investments.—This has been upwards of 50,000 visitors daily.—There is a pretty fair sprinkling of York-shire people here this week.—Each company has small carpet bags or baskets with them, which indicate they are here for pleasure, & not to have regular public parties in the palaces, to which the manufacture of the Cockneys, do no nothing but stare at them through their opera glasses.*

An intimation has been received from the French authorities, that no copies of the French edition of "L'Homme à l'Asperge" will be permitted to export to America.—We are sorry to learn that the American magistrate having obtained a declaration, certifying that they do not contain articles which have been previously published in French journals.

*A PAUPER STANDING ON HIS DIGNITY.—
A pauper in the bandalik workhouse named Hugh Bailey, refused to accept the situation of a pauper, & to be called a pauper, because he said it would disgrace his family. This is what Captain John Bull would call " Irish pride." Mr. Bailey was very properly turned out of the workhouse, to cultivate his consequential notions at his own expense.—*Other Gazette.
