TWO CUE PRODIGES, THE NEW AND THE OLD

WILLIE HOPPE

WELKER COCHRAN

For the first time since "Willie" Hoppe came his way to the premier position in the billiard world it seems the defence his masterful play has proved will be pierced. His crown is in jeopardy. When the storm cloud gathering on the horizon is minutely studied it assumes the form of Welker Cochran, the sixteen-year-old youth of Manson, Iowa, who in his practice matches has shown such impressive form that critics are agreed he will ere long climb to a position among the professional players where he will be hailed as champion or the next thing to it. A match between Hoppe and Cochran would afford the best billiards that could be seen. Both are masters. Cochran's stroke is similar to that of Frank Ives' in every detail, and every billiardist knows what that means. The prevailing opinion is that Cochran will strip Hoppe of his laurels when they do get together. Cochran, like the present champion, is a consistent player, fortified with an ideal temperament. As a match player he is second to none with the possible exception of the champion himself.

When a team wins the pennant, it is left in uncertain as to when the manager will retire. He had requested to be relieved next Tuesday, but it appears probable that he may stay out the season.

It is understood that Chance Braves today may stay out the summer, if the club declines to pay him full year's salary, and relieve out on September 15. He was signed a year ago last winter at a salary of up to upwards of $20,000 a year.

MACKEN FAVORITES.

No matter which team wins the national league pennant the Athletic will go into the world's series heavy favorites. Sporting men think that will offer odds 3 to 1 on Macken to beat the Glams or Braves.

GLENWOODS CHAMPIONS OF ST. JOHN

By defeating the Fairville Royals on Saturday afternoon, the Glenwoods of the East End League became champions of St. John. In their series with the South End Victorians, the Glenwoods took the first three, but in the series with the Royals for the best out of seven, the Glenwoods took three straight, but lost the next three. Saturday's game gave the honors to the Glenwoods. Although the score was 10-8, the game was anybody's up to the eighth when the snappy Glenwoods landed hit after hit of Pierie's delivery, netting six tallies. Harrington started for the Royals, but was soon replaced by Peris who was given very ragged support. Thompson for the Glenwoods pitched winning ball up to the fifth, when the Royals tallied four times making the score tie. In the following innings, Thompson worked better and allowed only three more, while the Glenwoods were still pounding the pill. In the seventh, with the score 8-8, Gibbons stole home. In the eighth the Glenwoods got to Peris for five hits combined with errors by the Royals and landed six tallies. The box score follows:

ENGLAND'S BILLIARD CHAMPION TO PLAY HOPPE FOR INTERNATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

MELBOURNE INMAN

Another international world's championship contest between Great Britain and the United States finally has been arranged, and Melbourne Inman, holder of the British billiard championship, is coming to America to play "Willie" Hoppe for the international billiard championship.

Years ago. On the training trip at Hot Springs the red-headed youth instantly won the honor of being the champion table finisher. Some time he ate so much that he was ashamed to ask his tired waiter to bring anything else in so he would beseech a teammate, who sought no gastronomical honors, to order for him and then slid it over to his plate. Probably Oldham took the advice of Pat Moran and others and put a bridle to his desire for eats, because he has developed into a fair looking flogger. His showing with Providence stood out so prominently that Jennings decided to give him a trial.

SOME EATER.

Oldham, the southpaw pitcher of the Tigers, was a member of the Phillies' staff in 1912. "If he has curbed his appetite for food he will make good," commented a shary. When asked to explain he declared that Oldham ate himself out of the league two of some practical way of getting rid of it? We are anxious to get it under control so as to prevent its spreading over the farm.

If your land is in pasture or meadow, allow the quack grass to grow until nearly ripe. Then cut it for hay and plow the land about three inches deep. Follow the plow with a sharp disc to cut the sod up. Disc and cross disc and harrow until the patch is quite mellow. Then go over it with a spring-tooth harrow or some other implement that will bring the quack roots to the surface. Fake the roots together with a horse rake, haul them off the ground, dry and burn them. Continue cultivating the field with a spring-tooth or a spike-tooth harrow once every week till late in the fall. Haul off as many of the roots as possible and destroy them. Late in the fall plow the field again and about a half inch deeper than the first time.

Early next spring again use the disc, spring-tooth harrow or other implement—anything to get more roots on top where they can be raked together and hauled away. Continue this cultivation at weekly intervals till the latter part of May. Then give the ground a good coating of well rotted barnyard manure and disc it in as well as possible and seed the land to millet, sorghum, or buckwheat—any good smothering crop that can be utilized to advantage for forage or grain and yet be gotten off the ground early in the fall. As soon as the crop is removed, plow again if necessary. Then start the disc and keep it going once a week till frost.

Early the second spring cultivate again and then plant to corn. If another coat of manure can be given, apply it. If you have a silo, put the corn into it so as to get it off the ground early in the season. If silage cannot be used, cut the corn as soon as it is well grazed and shock it. Then get busy with the disc and seed down to winter wheat. In the spring, sow clover and timothy. Leave the land in grass for two years, using it one year as meadow and the other as pasture. Plow the pasture in the fall and plant to corn. Cultivate the corn thoroughly during a growing season and Mr. Quack will be gone.
