Heavy Penalty In Opium Case

Hum Suk Fined Thousand Dollars for Selling Drug—Liable to Another Fine.

An interesting case was taken up in the police court yesterday when a fine of $1,000 for selling opium was struck against Hum Suk, the proprietor of a Chinese laundry on Brussels street, who was remanded on a second charge that of having opium in his possession without a license, and for which he is liable to a fine of $1,000 or a year's imprisonment, or both. Hum Suk was fined $250 for having opium in his possession, both were remanded.

Purchased Five Pounds.

The first witness called in the case, stated that he had gone to the Chinaman's place on Brussels street in company with Harry P. Stone about two months ago where he was introduced to Hum Suk. Later he returned alone and asked the Chinaman for five pounds of opium. As he did not have the money Hum Suk refused to give it to him, but later consented on the agreement that he should be paid $65 a pound, or $325. The same day the opium was seized by a customs officer.

Customs Officer.

The customs officer testified to having seized the five pounds of opium from the previous witness in a downtown office. He said he sent a sample of it to the provincial analyst for examination.

Provincial Analyst.

M. V. Paddock, provincial analyst said he analyzed samples of opium submitted to him by the customs officer and also by Detective Donahue, both samples were found to be opium of the usual commercial grade such as was used for smoking.

Desired Maximum Penalty.

F. R. Taylor, K. C., who appeared for the Customs Department stated that the government desired the maximum penalty be imposed in the case of Hum Suk, who they believed was the St. John agent of the International Opium ring operating in Canada and the U. S. A. and of whom Stone was believed to be one of the head men. As to Hum Suk, he said they would be satisfied with a minimum penalty as they believed him to be but a minor accomplice. The two Mongolians were remanded.

Non-Support Case In Police Court

John Gardner Told He is Liable to Year's Imprisonment—Other Cases.

In the police court yesterday the case of John Gardner, charged with non-support, was resumed, and his wife the complainant was recalled. She stated that she and her two children had been obliged to live with her mother since last October, and that her husband refused to contribute to her support.

A Good Workman.

Ernest Maybes, foreman of the Pender Mill Works stated he knew the defendant who had been employed at the Pender Mill Works but left last fall because of illness. He had found him a most satisfactory workman, he said, and had received over a half a dozen applications for work from him since, but as work was slack had been unable to re-engage him. He would do so now he said if there was work for him to do, but there was not.

Defendant Testifies.

The defendant was called to the stand and said he had been living in St. John for the last ten years. He was formerly employed at the Mill Works but had strained himself while working there and had been obliged to go to the hospital for an operation, after that there was no employment for him at the works. He had tried to get work on the long shore getting up every morning at 4 o'clock for the purpose but had been unable to land a job, he had also tried to get work on the Shamrock Grounds and at construction work but had been unsuccessful. The only reason he did not support his wife was because he could not find work. Before he was married he had told his wife they would have to live with his mother as long as she lived, but his wife and mother did not get along together and the wife had left the place twice, the last time she did not come back. He denied a question put to him by the magistrate that he had said "My wife and I are not congenial, and I don't think we are mated for each other." A witness was called and swore he had heard the statement made.

Was Remanded.

The magistrate remanded the accused. He said there was a possibility of a year's imprisonment hanging over his head although he would be willing to let the man out if someone would give him work and he would agree to support his family. He had no intention of allowing his wife's liberty merely because the wife's relations supported the wife and their young ones. The husband must do that, as it was their duty. E. A. Wilson appeared for the defendant. F. J. Miller charged with creating a disturbance in the Old Burial Grounds, forfeited his deposit. Mrs. Rosa Zebrenson was charged with having liquor in her possession and the case was postponed to Friday. Two drunks were fined $8 each.

Melita Docks After Making Record Trip

Brought 1,919 Passengers and Made Trip in Seven Days and Seven Hours.

The C.P.O.S. liner Melita, after a record voyage from Liverpool, docked at Nos. 2 and 3 berths at 10 o'clock last night. The Melita not only established a record as regards speed, but also for the number of passengers carried for the year. The liner brought 1,919, and it is an interesting coincidence to note that she arrived on the 19th of April. The Melita made the trip across in seven days, seven hours and twenty-three minutes, and the record is only surpassed by that of the Empress of France, and that, according to statement of officers was only 19 minutes faster.

Naval Draft Aboard.

Aboard the Melita was a naval draft of six officers, twenty-eight petty officers and 205 ratings who are en route to Halifax to join H.M.S. Cambrian. There was also aboard the Melita a large number of English girls who are soon to become brides. They are going to various parts of Western Canada where their future husbands, met during the war, are awaiting them.

Except for one foggy day ideal weather conditions for this season of the year prevailed. The best run for any one day of the voyage was 420 knots.

Officers of Melita.

The officers of the liner are: Captain H. Parry, R.N.R.; Chief Officer, George Fishwick, R.N.R.; Chief Steward, R. Kirkpatrick. All other officers of the ship are the same as have been doing duty all season with the exception of the Chief Engineer E. McFadden, who was transferred to the Melita from the Metagama. The passengers remained aboard ship last night and will be disembarked at 8 o'clock this morning.

Judge Ritchie addressed the boys, giving them some valuable advice and help in their studies. Mrs. Hipwell spoke the pledge and against beer drinking and cigarette smoking. A. M. Belding made a few remarks speaking in a highly complimentary manner of the work done for the boys by Peter Murray who had instructed them in wrestling, etc. He also paid a tribute to A. G. Buying health is the best possible investment. For that reason it seems strange that many municipalities seem to scribble as much as possible on the health investment. The amount spent on Health Department work in the minds of many is unnecessary and should be saved.
