

Studies.

The studies are divided into two Courses: the Commercial and the Classical. French and English are taught with equal care.

English speaking students enjoy exceptional facilities for acquiring a thoroughly practical knowledge of the French language. The instruction of the class-room is supplemented by unlimited opportunities for utilizing that instruction in conversation and general intercourse with fellow-students and teachers whose mother-tongue is French.

THE COMMERCIAL COURSE.

This Course is designed to fit young men for a business life. It comprises five classes: FIRST, SECOND, THIRD and FOURTH YEAR, and BUSINESS CLASS.

Book-Keeping is introduced in the Fourth Year, the author followed being Bryant & Stratton.

The special commercial text books used in Business Class are: Bryant & Stratton's Counting House Edition of Book-Keeping, Banking, etc.; Robinson's Arithmetic; Carhart's Commercial Law; Bridge's Algebra.

The programme of each class may ordinarily be completed in a year. Diplomas are awarded to those graduates of the Course who pass satisfactory examinations on practical commerce and the various branches pertaining thereto.

THE CLASSICAL—OR ARTS—COURSE.

The object of this Course is to enable young men profitably to pursue the special studies connected with any of the liberal professions. It comprises five classes: ELEMENTS AND SYNTAX, VERSIFICATION, BELLES LETTRES, RHETORIC, and PHILOSOPHY.

No student is admitted to the study of the Classics before he has completed his Commercial Course, exclusive of Business Class.

Graduates of the Course receive, according to the measure of their success in the different examinations, the Degree of Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Literature, or Bachelor of Arts.
