

with boxes and bottles of polish—he was putting up his shutters preparatory to going home for the night. He looked at his modest sign and evidently decided that it needed re-lettering, as it was only done in pencil and the rain had nearly washed it out. So to-morrow we will again see his quaint notice

“Réparation de Shossures”

an orthographical error—we will forgive him for the sake of his excellent cobbling.