E. & D. BICYCLES

The great reason for the goodness of E. & D. bearings lies in their four-point design. The load passes directly through the balls, and there is no opportunity for the balls to jam. In E. & D. four-point bearings the weight on any one point is the weight of the wheel, and at the end, upon examination, the oil will be found clear.

E. & D. bearings are excellent. In all parts the four-point system is employed. In 1900 E. & D. models, even the head bearings are equipped with four-point bearings. The E. & D. models are found in Road Laid and Men's $90 Special, Ladies' and Men's with gear case $70. Racer, Men's only $70.

and the local guarantee privilege that goes with them is worth the cost of the wheel. And we will be very glad to show you the new E. & D. with its excellent equipments.

Catalogue sent free upon application. You run no risk in buying this wheel. The thirty-seventh wheel made by this firm four years ago is in daily use in this city. The owner would not exchange it for the best of any other make, as he says it is in perfect order up to date, and the easiest running wheel in the city. We cannot say anything that is a higher recommendation.

WIVES OF PRESIDENTS.

Personal Appearance of the Women Who Have Ruled the White House.

Of mistresses of the White House one of the most popular was Mrs. James K. Folk. Like Mrs. Cleveland, she was a brunette, and of fine presence. She was often remarked that not a crown head in Europe could queen it more royally than the wife of the republican President. Poets penned verses in her honor, and on the last Sunday of her stay in Washington a clergyman addressed her from the pulpit. She was treated with great distinction, and after leaving the White House was visited every New Year's by the Legislature in a body.

Mrs. George Washington also had dark hazel eyes and brown hair. She was not a beauty, but she had a good form, rather below middle weight, and her manners were frank and engaging. She dressed plainly and at a ball given in her honor she wore a simple russet gown and white handkerchief about her neck. One of her dresses which she herself manufactured was of cotton striped with silk, which she obtained from ravelings of brown silk stockings and old crimson chair covers.

Mrs. Monroe was considered a beauty. She was tall and gracefully formed, polished and attractive in society. Mrs. John Adams was never beautiful, but she was of imposing appearance and very intellectual.

Mrs. John Quincy Adams was famed for her charming manners, and Mrs. Andrew Jackson for her amiable temper and kind heart. Mrs. Martin Van Buren, who died before her husband became President, was a pretty woman with modest, unassuming manners and gentle disposition.

The first Mrs. Tyler was one of the belles of eastern Virginia, and was most attractive in her striking loveliness of person and character. The second Mrs. Tyler was the first woman to marry a President. Before her marriage she was, for the one season she spent there, the belle of Washington.

A sparkling brunette was Mrs. William Harrison. She was very handsome, with a face full of animation, and her health, which was robust, added a glow to her features, which increased her charms. "Upon her countenance," it is recorded, "nature had been profusely liberal."

Mrs. Thomas Jefferson was remarkable for her beauty. Her complexion was brilliant; her large, expressive eyes of "the richest tinge of auburn." A little above medium weight, she was slightly and delicately formed. She danced, sang, played the spinnet and harpsichord and rode with great skill.

Mrs. James Madison was a pretty, buxom woman, with a smile and a pleasant word for every one. She had regular features and sparkling eyes.

Mrs. Zachary Taylor was a quiet woman, but had great strength of character and the true spirit of the American. Her husband, enduring patiently privation incident to life on the frontier, where her husband, as Major Taylor, was stationed. She had no ambition beyond making her home happy.

A blonde of rare beauty was Mrs. Millard Fillmore, with a skin of dazzling whiteness and auburn hair. She was quite tall with a fine figure and of commanding presence. She is ranked with the wives of the two Adamses as a learned woman, and it was through her that her husband asked for and obtained an appropriation of Congress to buy books for the White House. Up to that time there had been a Bible there, and little more.

Another woman of rare beauty was Mrs. Franklin Pierce. She also had many accomplishments. She was very refined and quiet, charming society. Mrs. Abraham Lincoln as a girl was very attractive, and she had many suitors. When she became the mistress of the White House she was "fair and forty." That she was the successor of the popular and accomplished Miss Lane, was not a point in her favor. At the first levee she appeared in pink silk, décolleté, short-sleeved dress and a floral headpiece, which ran down to her waist, and destroyed what comeliness simplicity might have given her.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson possessed the beauty of face and form which rendered her mother one of the most beautiful of women. Mrs. Grant was a blonde, of delicate figure, rather below middle stature. Mrs. Hayes was of very attractive appearance. Mrs. Garfield was noted for her tact, and her husband one said that he never failed to explain away any words of his wife.

Mrs. Arthur, who died before her husband became President, was known as "the beautiful Miss Herndon" with the "marvelous voice" before her marriage.

Mrs. Harrison was fair as a girl and possessed a blonde style of beauty, which also belongs to Mrs. McKinley.

How Congress Spring Was Named.

When John Taylor Gilman, a member of Congress, visited the log houses which chiefly constituted Saratoga in its early history, he was accompanied one day on a hunting party by a young son of the woodman with whom he boarded. When they returned to the cabin the boy enthusiastically shouted, "Oh, ma, we've found a new spring!" "Who found it?" he was asked. Turning to the distinguished hunter, the little fellow admiringly exclaimed: "Why, the Congress!" And to this day the name has clung to one of the most celebrated of the springs which made the place a sanitary resort long before it became the seat of summer fashion.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Early Troubles.

"I'm going to be proud of that small boy of mine one of these days," he exclaimed, earnestly. "Is he talented?" "No. He's going to be a business man. I told him last week if he'd be a good boy I'd take him to the circus instead of taking me right up, he thought the proposition over for a minute, and then asked me if I thought it was a good circus."—Washington Star.

Cures Weak Men Free

A most successful remedy has been found for sexual weakness, such as impotency, varicocele, shrunken organs, nervous debility, lost manhood, night emissions, premature discharge and all other results of self-abuse or excesses. It cures any case of the difficulty, never fails to restore the original full natural strength and vigor. The Doctor who made this wonderful discovery wants to let every man know about it. He will therefore send the receipt giving the various ingredients to be used to that all men at a trifling expense can cure themselves. He sends the receipt free, and all the reader need do is to send his name and address to W. Knapp, M. D., 1710, Hull Bldg., Detroit, Mich., requesting the free receipt as reported in this paper. It is a generous offer and all men ought to be glad to have such an opportunity.

A philosopher says that every failure is a step toward success. This explains why some men become richer every time they fail.

"Have by some surgeon, Shylock, on thy charge to stop his wounds lest he do bleed to death." People can bleed to death. The loss of blood weakens the body. It must follow that gain of blood gives the body strength. The strengthening effect of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in large part due to its action on the blood-making glands and the increased supply of pure, rich blood it produces. It is only when the blood is impoverished and impure that disease finds a soil in which to root.

"Discolory" purifies the blood and makes it antagonistic to disease. When the body is emaciated, the lungs are weak, and there is obstinate lingering cough, "Golden Medical Discovery" puts the body on a fighting footing against disease, and so increases the vitality that disease is thrown off, and physical health is restored and permanently restored.

It has cured thousands who were hopeless and helpless, and who had tried all other means of cure without avail.

Thirty-one copies of the complete edition of mailing and customs will obtain a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, in Sape cover, send 50 stamps if cloth binding is preferred. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many men learn a good many things from their children until they get old enough to know as little as they do.

"Much learning maketh a man sad," says one proverb, and another says, "A little learning is a dangerous thing," so what are you going to do about it?

TORONTO'S ALL CANADA EXHIBITION.

"Educational and entertaining. Aggressive and progressive," are the very appropriate watch-words adopted by the Toronto Industrial Exhibition this year, which will be held from August 27th to September 8th. This is the twenty-second successive year of Canada's great Exposition at Toronto, and each year has not only seen an improvement in the arrangements as compared with the years that have gone, but the quality of
