Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, Oct. 16.
The Governor, St. John's:
On the Somme front there was no general British attack during the week. Our line was advanced at various points, and more prisoners captured.
The French made an important advance on Tuesday between Berry and Chaules, taking 1,250 prisoners. The attack was renewed on Saturday, and further 1,100 prisoners were captured. Last night the French obtained footing at Sully-Sallies, where fighting is proceeding.
The Italians resumed the attack on Carso, making progress and capturing some 8,000 prisoners.
There is no change on the Russian front.
The Roumanians are retiring from Transylvania. BONAR LAW.

TEUTONS WITHDRAW LINES.
LONDON, Oct. 16.
A wireless message from Petrograd to-day says that the Teutonic lines in Dobruja have been withdrawn to the vicinity of Dobrich in the southern portion of the province. King Ferdinand of Roumania has been on a visit to Dobruja, where the situation, the message declares, is excellent.

GERMANY SPEEDING UP MUNITIONS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 16.
According to a News Agency dispatch from Essen, Germany published here to-day, twenty thousand new workers this week will join the force of seventy thousand already employed at the great Krupp gun works in the gigantic task of turning out shells and guns for the German armies. The addition of this force, is one step in the course of Germany's renewed efforts to win the war. Acting under the direction of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, the new Chief of the Staff, many skilled workmen are being recalled from the front to aid the speeding up of the production of war supplies. The barracks is being built at Essen to house them.

HEAVY BRITISH CASUALTIES.
LONDON, Oct. 16.
During last week 5,372 British soldiers and 313 British officers, totaling 5,685, were killed in fighting on all fronts where there are British troops. The war office announced the total wounded and missing last week was 24,894. Of this number 1,023 were officers.

RECOGNIZE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.
LONDON, Oct. 15.
The Entente Allies have formally recognized the provisional government of Greece, in the island of Crete, which has been set up by former Premier Venizelos.
The Entente Consuls at Cannes, capital of Crete, have been instructed to act in union with an official statement issued here to-day, which says that only Crete is the question of official recognition as yet. Official circles in London have received no word regarding recognition of the new government at Athens by the Entente.

GENERAL HAIG'S TROOPS.
LONDON, Oct. 15.
General Haig's troops have seen fresh successes in the Tertiary region of the Somme front, and are now confronted by two great obstacles to advance, the powerful fortified positions of Schwaben redoubts. After heavy artillery preparation the British swung forward in this sector on Sunday, and advanced on both positions. German trenches were cleared for a range of 200 yards north; west of Schwaben redoubt the enemy thrust back a distance.

SHORT OF COIN.
AMSTERDAM, Oct. 15.
The Norddetsche Allgemeine Zeitung, a semi-official newspaper, to-day published a full page plea in large type, signed anonymous by Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and Rudolph Havena, President of the German Imperial Bank on behalf of the Committee formed under the Presidency of Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm.

As the Mind is Set.

By RUTH CAMERON.

This fall I had every arrangement made (even to the buying of my tickets) to start on a vacation on a certain date.

Just two days before the day set I found I must postpone that vacation and go back to the routine of daily life. And never was anything so hard.

I had been doing double work to get ready for the vacation. Now I was only doing single work. And yet it seemed twice as hard.

Why? Because I had set my mind vacationward, and it's the way your mind is set which makes things hard or easy.

I have a neighbor who has a great dread of company. Unfortunately her husband's position makes it necessary for her to do more or less entertaining. She will come into my house on a beautiful morning looking so lugubrious that she casts a shadow over the sunshine.

"What's the matter?" I say.
"Oh, so-and-so are coming to spend the week end."
"Don't you like them?"
"Yes, but I'm so afraid everything won't be just right, and then it's so confusing to have the house full of people all the time."

Her mind is set against company. Now, if she were naturally unsociable or diffident, or inferior in education, if she didn't have proper facilities for entertaining, or couldn't afford it, one could understand.

But none of these obstacles exist, and from what I have seen of her when she forgets herself, I think she has simply permitted her mind to get set against company.

She dwells on the fear that everything won't be just right, she lets herself feel abused because her husband's position forces entertaining upon her, she steadfastly holds the picture of a very quiet life as her ideal.

A Stiff Neck In The Mind.
It's as hard to see enjoyment when your mind is dead set against it as it would be to admire something beautiful when you had to twist round a stiff neck to see it.

I know a woman who had her mind dead set against living in the house with a member of her husband's family. She made herself miserable over it until somehow she came to her senses. "I am letting this spoil my life," she said. "I won't think about it any more."

"No, I don't like her," she said when I asked her how it worked, "but I don't mind her any more."

That's a sample of what one can accomplish by setting one's mind the right way.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured it. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

A Famous Battleground

Picardy is Scene of British Victories of Agincourt and Crecy.

If historical associations inspire to brave deeds, the British forces in their offensive against the Germans along the Somme River should be heartened to extraordinary acts of valor by the thought that they are fighting in Picardy, says a war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society.

This ancient province of France, now divided into four departments—the Somme, Oise, Pas-de-Calais, and Aisne—has two battlefields whose very names quickened the pulse of Englishmen, for it was at Crecy that the Black Prince won his spurs, and Agincourt that Henry V., commanding his yeomen with their cloth-yard bows, utterly overthrew the flower of French chivalry.

Picardy is a treasured name in romantic literature and in French history. It had a literature of its own in the twelfth century and its soldiers were among the most valiant in France, being known as the Gascons of the North.

The province was a natural battleground for the French and English during the Hundred Years' War, for its shores extend along the North Sea and the English Channel, from the River Aa, above Valais, to a point below Dieppe. Fifteen miles north of Abbeville, one of the principal cities of Picardy, is Crecy, where, until late in the nineteenth century, there still stood the old windmill from which Edward III. of England in 1346 watched his beloved son, the first Prince of Wales, at that time only 16 years of age, triumph over Philip of Valois. On this occasion the English were outnumbered four to one, and they wrought terrible havoc among the enemy, the losses of the vanquished being variously estimated at from 10,000 to 30,000. One of those who fell in this fight was the chivalrous John, King of Bohemia, who, although blind, led a heroic charge for his French ally. Some historians trace the Prince of Wales' crest of three ostrich feathers and the motto "Ich dien" (I serve), to this battle, the Black Prince adopting them from the fallen John in memory of the event.

Less than 20 miles northeast of Crecy is Agincourt, where English archers, nearly 70 years later, after letting fly their clouds of arrows against the heavily armored nobles, attacked them with hatchets as they floundered helplessly in mud. Five thousand Frenchmen of noble birth, including their commander, d'Albret, constable of France, fell in this battle, while the estimate of English losses was astonishingly low, some chroniclers giving only 15 men at arms and 100 foot soldiers.

Several towns of Picardy—Amiens, Soissons, and Beauvais—owe their names to the ancient tribes which inhabited this section, known as Belgica Secunda, when the Romans maintained armed camps along the valley of the Somme. In the third century Christianity was introduced, and St. Quentin, from whom the important town 20 miles east of Peronne gets its name, was martyred at that time.

Picardy was the heart of Merovingian France in the fifth century, for Clovis named Soissons as his capital, while Charlemagne designated Noyon as his principal city, and the lesser Carolingians in turn similarly honored Laon.

By the treaty of Arras in 1435 the royal towns of the Somme Valley were ceded to Burgundy, but 42 years later, after the death of Charles the Bold, Louis XI. regained them. During its brief eras of peace the province thrived as a centre of the weaving industry, Flemish immigrants having introduced the art.

Shot Many Germans, Made 62 Surrender

Canadian Private's Feat Had Vital Results in Midst of Critical Assault.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 6.—The exploit of a wounded Canadian private who leaped from his trench, killed and wounded many Germans, and compelled sixty-two others to surrender, is described in a dispatch received to-day from Canadian Headquarters in France. The communication states that the bravery of the unnamed private made it possible for his battalion to capture 250 yards of trench at a critical moment in the general attack. Since their offensive began, the dispatch says, the Canadians have wrested nearly three square miles of territory from the Germans.

Describing the deeds of the private, the dispatch says: "The most aggressive gallantry was displayed by a private belonging to an Edmonton battalion. He was taking part in a bombing attack when the advance was arrested and the supply of bombs was exhausted. Although one of his fingers had been blown away at the second joint by a German bomb, he jumped out of the trench and ran along the outside, firing at point blank range at the enemy, killing and wounding many of them. The remainder, sixty-two in number, thinking themselves about to be cut off, thereupon surrendered."

"He with two other men, escorted the prisoners across open ground under heavy fire to a support trench and then returned and reported himself for duty to his company commander, before his wound had been dressed."

"This action undoubtedly made it possible for the battalion to capture and hold 250 yards of trench at a critical moment in the general attack."
