The promised statement that Mr. Rankin will make is intended to set right mistaken ideas that are current both in regard to these matters and as to the authorship of the much-talked-of show, "The Canuck."

"A Barrel of floney."

Herbert Hall Winslow's realistic comedy drama "A Barrel of Money," will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House Saturday, April 1, matines and night. The stage effects during the great iron mill scene, a feature of the play, are said to excite the utmost admiration, so realistically does the large engine work, the machinery move and the bands whir. The manner in which a young girl, tied to one of the revolving belts, is saved from almost certain death, is a new and striking department in stage mechanism. The company presenting "A Barrel of Money" comprises among others that bright corrections Gracie Emmett. The specialities and music will be new and appropriate. "A Barrel of Money."

Good Work Appreciated.

A pleasing incident occurred at the regular meeting of Fidelity Lodge, No. 5, A. O. U. W., held in the Albion block last evening. The routine business having been disposed of, the presiding officer, M. W. Bro. Geo. Taylor, on behalf of the members of the lodge, presented P. M. W. Bro. Percival with a handsome silver water pitcher and goblet, in token of their esteem for the brother, and their appreciation of his faithful services as a member and officer of the lodge. M. W. Bro. Taylor, in a few pithy sentences expressed the kindly sontiments which prompted the gift, and Bro. Percival made a happy response. The pieces of plate bore the following inscription: "Presented to Joseph Percival, P. M. W. of Fidelity Lodge, No. 5, A. O. U. W., by his brethren as a token of esteem, March 27, 1893." The incident was a pleasing sequel to the meeting, that was evidently much enjoyed by all concerned.

"Jane" at the Grand.

The Grand was filled last evening with a large and fashionable audience who had gathered to witness the performance of the latest comedy success "Jane," and they had every reason to congratulate themselves on being present. The play was preceded by a one-act comedietta entitled "Chums," which served to introduce the leading members in an effective style and completely captured the audience. The plot of "Jane" has already been sketched in these columns and the piece fully sustains its enviable reputation. It is presented by a company of clever performers, and is characterized by a rapid and continued change of incidents and situations, sustaining the interest of the audience throughout and winning generous and well-merited applause. "Jane" will be welcomed again. Following was the cast: Mr. Chas. Shakleton. Mr. Herbert Fortier Mr. Kershaw. Mr. Al. Harris William. Mr. Alf. Fisuer Claude. Mr. Arthur Boylan Pixton. Mrs. Chadwick. Miss Emily Dedd Jane. Miss Lena Merville Prang's Easter Publications.

L. Prang & Co., of Boston, have issued a fine catalogue of Easter cards, satin art prints, art novelties, books and booklets, and fine art pictures. A very dainty thing is "Budding Life," size 13x18\frac{3}{2}, in plain mat, by Ida Waugh. The pretty, openeyed child reaches up its little hands after the pair of young butterflies. Among the art books, what could be more coquettishly charming than "Violets," by Florence Wales—the leaves of the "book" tied by a bit of ribbon? Illuminated covers with violets, and within the covers a collection of verses on the violet, with illustrations in colors; size, about 6.9. Quite as delicious is a little art book of pictured "Alleluias," with its child-angel faces.

Regarding Prang's new line of Easter goods it may be safely asserted that the refined taste, chaste and delicate designs, and appropriate selections, which in the past have secured their productions such pre-eminent and popular lavor, will be found even in a greater degree in the line they are just presenting for the coming season. Artistic skill and inventivenessof the first quality have been employed in making these designs, and the result is almost bewildering in the variety and richness of the effects produced. A full variety of prices is presented from the comparatively inexpensive to the costlicat. The line is distinctively American. The original designs were executed by icremost American artists, and lithographed and printed
