Once upon a time, many years ago, Tiny, the elephant, traveled with a circus. When he was with the circus, Tiny had to pull the big, heavy wagons out of the mud holes. They made him load the wagons with big poles, and the thick, heavy boards from which the seats were made. Tiny had to work very hard, and one day he became angry and ran away. After he left the circus, Tiny had many interesting experiences. One time he was locked up in jail, and many, many times he was hungry. Then after wandering about Tiny found Nicholas Nutt, and they became partners. Tiny lived in a crooked little barn back of Nicholas Nutt's twisty little house. Tiny would help Nicholas deliver ice and sell toy balloons. Nicholas would buy nice fresh hay for Tiny, and sometimes peanuts for dessert. One day Tiny told Nicholas about the circus. Nicholas asked Tiny if he could do any tricks, and Tiny told him that he could not do any tricks. Nicholas told Tiny that if he would learn to do tricks they could go with the circus, and not have to work so hard, and that they could make lots of money. This pleased Tiny, and they began to practice, and very soon Tiny could do many wonderful stunts.

Today Nicholas is having Tiny perform for the little Doo Dads right on the main street of Dooville. Tiny looks as if he was afraid of tumbling over backwards. The httle girly Doo Dad is wondering what would happen to her little brother if Tiny should lower himself. My, but she is scared, but the little brother just goes on licking his all-day sucker as though he were in no danger. Old Man Grouch is trying to have Flannelfeet arrest Nicholas for blocking the traffic. Flannelfeet acts as if he had not heard a word. He thinks it is a very fine performance that Nicholas is giving. When he starts to walk away, and Roly's tin can begins to rattle, something may happen. The poor little Doo Dad in front is almost heartbroken. He is asking Doc. Sawbones why his hobby horse can't do tricks like Tiny, and for once Old Doc. is at a loss. The pussy on the peak, the mouse in the chimney, the crow on the eave, the little Doo Dads on the balcony, and the ones in front of the hotel, are thoroughly enjoying themselves. Old Sleepy Sam snoozes away, and hasn't an idea of what a good time he is missing.
