the colonel yesterday morning to receive their sentence. James Smith was up on a charge of stealing an overcoat from Joha Thompson. He pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried summarily. Thompson said the overcoat was stolen from a smoking car in the Union station on the 29th of January. Mr. Wolfenstein, a secondhand dealer, testified that he had bought the coat from the prisoner on the night of the 29th for $1.50. The prisoner was also charged with stealing an overcoat from Thes. Berney, having taken it from a van in the Union station one week ago Monday. Wolfenstein, being recalled, stated that he had bought as the other for 25 cents. The prisoner was accused of assaulting his mother by beating her in the face. The colonel gave him some good advice and let him out on his own bail. Jas. As there are many holders of tickets in Toronto and vicinity in the London masonic emple gift enterprise, which will be drawn the opera house in London to-day, the ollowing are a few extracts from a circular issued by Thos. H. Brunton, the manager "A committee of four gentlemen, consisting of two citizens not connected with the masonic order and two members of the the masonic order and two members of the craft, were appointed by the directors two weeks ago to count and verify the tickets and prizes. They have gone carefully over the 100,000 tickets and the 4239 prize, have noted any errors or omissions in the lists and caused the same to be rectified. These tickets and prizes were each night, after counting, deposited in a secure place, and affidavits as to their correctness in both wheels will be presented to ticket-holders before the drawing is commenced. The prizes have been enclosed in envelopes, which renders the reading of them impossible, previous to removal of covering by those

Three referees have been appointed, two of whom will receive the tickets from the boys at each wheel. One of these referees will call out the number and the other the prize drawn. Both number and prize will then be delivered to a third referee, who will see that the figures as announced are correct, and that the same are properly registered. He will then place them in an envelope and deposit it in a box in full view of the audience.

The boys selected for drawing the numbers and prizes are from 12 to 15 years of age. One youth will turn the wheel and the other will draw therefrom. The wheels will be turned once or oftener between each draw.

progress and patronage keep pace with its onward march elsewhere. During the year just closed its growth in premium income in Canada, over that of the year before, was greater than has ever before been made by greater than has ever before been made by any company, native or foreign. This speaks volumes for the position the E na holds in the hearts of the people, notwithstanding all sorts of attempts to injure its character, chiefly by anonymous circulars. Such attacks might crush a weak company, but only serve to bring the good qualities of the Ætna to the front, and the result is a larger natronage than everqualities of the Ætna to the front, and the result is a larger patronage than ever—a larger increase of business than was ever before offered to any company in the dominion. Its deposits of government bonds at Ottawa continue to be made with regularity, providing dollar for dollar of the net liability incurred in Canada under policies issued since March 31, 1878. No company affords better accurrity for its obligations, and the large surplus of nearly and the large surplus of nearly six millions of dollars, yielding over $300,000 of interest annually, enables it to furnish life insurance at lower net rates than it is possible for the majority of companies to do. The Century Dictionary. The Century Co. have undertaken revision of the "Imperial Dictionary," a new edition of which, containing 130,000 words, with extensive and important alterations, has just been issued in Great Britain, after a labor of ten years by English experts. The revision is under the charge of Professor William D. Whitney of Yale, as editor-in-chief, aided by a corps of assistants. It will be thorough in every respect, and, in fact, may almost be considered a new and original work, taking the "Imperial Dictionary" simply as a basis.
It will contain much new matter, and very considerable portions of the old matter will be displaced by text and illustrations of addressed to his father-in-law, the

This letter came by mail coach, of course or there were no railways in Canada then. It was a good while on the way, reaching Fredericton on the 15th, and Sussex nearly Fredericton on the 15th, and Sussex nearly a week later. The postage was three shillings and fourpence. A similar letter would now be carried from Toronto to Sussex for three cents by rail, in about two days time.

The correspondent, Mr. Snider, was a staunch liberal, or reformer. He mentions that he had just stopped taking the Guardian newspaper, after the editor, on his return from England, had "recommended to his readers that toryism was the most honorable." The editor seems to have been a "Rice Convert." This caused "the liberals, or reformers, as they are here called, to give up the paper and take another." Brief reference is made to civic matters in what has been, till nearly that time, Little York, now Toronto:

York, now Toronto:

"Our town is incorporated now into a city, and the name is altered to Toronto city.

We had an election for aldermen and councillors. William Lyon Mackenzie was elected, and afterward chosen lord. was elected, and atterward chosen ford mayor of Toronto—the man that our par-liament expelled five times and declared, not worthy to sit and vote in that house. This shows how reformers are getting along

The weather and the crops of course came in for mention when two farmers were in correspondence:

"We had a cold spring, but a very warm, open winter with very little sleighing. We have now fine growing weather. Wheat looks well." The markets also were noted:

"Our markets are not good. Wheat is 3s 9d per bushel; flour was last winter 5 dollars, it is now three and a half to four; cats 1 shilling per bushel; potatoes 1s-6d; pork has been five dollars and five and a half per hundred; hay 10 to 12 dollars per ton.

The Full Moon Carnival. The carnival in Adelaide street tink last night, though a success in point of numbers was otherwise a decided failure. It had been well advertised in all the papers, and on account of the special novel attraction of the Full Moon society the number of spectators present was very great, the galleries being filled and the crowd even extended over a portion of the ice. But the spectitors, all of whom seemed to have come with the anticipation of beholding a grand scenic display were greatly disap-pointed when they saw how things turned out. The carnival passed off very pleasantly both for skaters and spectators until 8:30. The number of skaters who were in costume, not being very large, gave them opportunity to display their powers of good skating to perfection. However, as 8:30 came round the skaters were ordered to give place to the members of the Full Moon society. This was the part of the performance which the spectators were greatly disappointed over and which annoyed beyond description those who were ir costume. The fully mooners entered on the scene with as much nonchalance as though they were a victorious army returning from a successful engagement. Their dress is the only thing that deserves favorable comment. They represent gentleman negroes, each having a black dress suit, "plug" hat and cane. A cream-colored apron, on which is painted a full moon, is the ensign of the order. Very few of the members were able to skate well; none of their turns were natural, some of them their turns were natural, some of them while turning resembled an old man feeling his way round a slippery corner. Falls were numerous all round, which threw the others ofttimes into confusion and made the affair look like a farce. It was fun to the affair look like s farce. It was fun to note their frantic efforts to please, amid the audible groans and sometimes hisses of the audience and the growls of the skaters. Their singing was something that passes description. After they had concluded their performance the whole crowd burst in upon the ice, and all the efforts of the police and rink authorities could not make them get off. The cernival was to all intents and nur. authorities could not make them get off. The carnival was to all intents and purposes spoiled. It was almost impossible for the skaters to get along on account of the throng, and consequently the costumes were shown off to a disadvantage. Some o' the costumes were very landsome and original. The finest male costumes were a Romeo, Don Cassar de B zan, Chiarles II. and Prince Leopold. The grotesque character as usual predominated, accompanied with rudeness and vulgarity. The music furnished by Toulmin's band was the best they have yet presented in the rink. Selecthey have yet presented in the rink. Selec-tions from the finest and most popular authors afforded inspiring music for skating. The carnival closed at 10.30.

Druggists. The Chic Club's Gathering Last night the friends and members o the well-known Chic club had a pleasant fancy dress gathering in their hall on Toronto street, at which upwards of fifty couples were present. Retreshments were served at 9 o'clcck, after which the party adjourned to the ball room where the light fantastic was tripped to the music of a string band, in a manner worthy of the high reputation of the club in the art terpsichorean. As enjoyable-time was spent by all the company, dispersing at an early hour this morning.
