intelligence that Portugal is likely to follow the example set by Brazil. The Government here share sthe uneasiness felt in every chancelery in Europe. If Portugal takes fire temovement of the Portuguese Republicans will, it is believed, be the signal for a rising in Spain and this will be followed by agitations in Italy and by a general upheavil of the social forces throughout Europe.

The militant attitude of the Portuguese Government towards England over the Zambesi dispute is recognized here as necessary to strengthen the position of the King of Portugal at home, where any accidental failure of trength at this moment would be made much of in the interest of the Radical party. Prince Bismarck, it is reported, has written to the Marquis of Salisbury expressing the hope that nothing will be done to humiliate the Portuguese Ministry in view of the Imperial catastrophe in Brazil and the position of the monarchy in Portugal face to face with similar forces to those that cast down Dom Pedro.

An article in The National Zeitung appeals to the forbearance of the English Government. The article indicates that Bismarck favors the English claims in this difference between the powers. This attitude is due partly to the attempts of the French press to foment an irritation in Portugal against England.

"The jury are of opinion that the prisoner is guilty, with the plea of insanity."

"Gentlemen, I heartily concur in the verdict," said Judge King.

While this verdict was being put in legal form and recorded C. A. Stockton approached the prisoner and whispered to him the meaning of the verdict, but McDonald showed no anxiety in the matter, and simply stared Stockton in the face for half a minute and then looked down at his boots.

He then in as unconcerned a manner as at any day since his arrest stooped down, put on his rubbers without displaying nervousness and quietly stood up and put on his overcoat. In fact, he displayed no apparent interest in the proceedings whatever, and did not in the least seem to realize his position.

He was remanded to jail to be kept under close confinement, and to morrow or Tuesday the Solicitor - General will move for his committeent to the Insane Asylum during the pleasure of the Crown. It is units probable he will be sent to the Criminal Insane Asylum at Kingston. The verdict is no which gives general satisfaction.

The WAR OF THE RACES,

A Missistippi Town Under Arms—Half-a-bozen Men Wounded.

St. Louis, Dec. 22.—Meagre reports came there last night that a riot was in progress at the Potts' Camp, Miss., 65 miles from Memphis. The trouble was precipitated by a fight between a white man and a negro, in which the latter was worsted. He went out from town, collected a party of friends and returned to colain out the victor. The whites a rallied and fighting ensued all around. Half-a-dozen were wounded but none were killed. The latest advices were that exverybody was in arms and further trouble was expected. The negroes were jailed.
