

MRS. MABEN WAS MADE WELL

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Wants Other Suffering Women To Know It.

Murfreesboro, Tenn. — "I have wanted to write to you for a long time to tell you what your wonderful remedies have done for me. I was a sufferer from female weakness and displacement and I would have such tired, worn out feelings, sick headaches and dizzy spells. Doctors did me no good so I tried the Lydia E. Pinkham Remedies—Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. I am now well and strong and can do all my own work. I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and want other suffering women to know about it."—Mrs. H. E. MABEN, 211 S. Spring, St. Murfreesboro, Tenn.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why Lose Hope.
No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

NOTE AND COMMENT

What dubs those astronomers are not to have discovered long ago that those so-called canals on Mars were Martian trenches.

On the firing line in France, there is many a soldier who would rather charge a battery of cannon, than live a day without a cigarette.

In carefully collecting all the metal from the battlefields, the thrifty Germans are only anticipating the souvenir thieves who will invade the country when peace shall have been declared.

General Botha has transferred his victorious march from the South African plains to South African polls. He is as triumphant in the battle of the ballots as in the battle of the bullets. His smashing victory in the elections is at once a tribute to his conquest of German South-west Africa and a sharp rebuke to a faction that has been lukewarm for the cause of the Allies. With Botha so strongly supported, it is likely that South Africa will now contribute heavily towards the campaign in Europe.

In the early pioneer days, it was a bitter fight against difficulty in Ontario, then Upper Canada. To men with little knowledge of woodcraft and with small worldly possessions, the task of subduing the forest and building homes to protect their families through the intense cold of winter must have seemed about as difficult as the task of subduing the German militarism seems to the Allies today. There was even a large share of cruelty to face. Wolves were plentiful and at times dangerous, while at times it required constant watchfulness to save their little crop on which their living depended from the wild hogs which roamed in the forest. Wild turkeys also destroyed the crops. At some seasons of the year it was almost impossible to get in provisions from outside points. Many times starvation was close by. Fever and ague were the portion of almost everybody. In face of all the difficulties that faced them, the valiant settlers put on a brave face and fought their fight as best they could, building up for their successors, comfortable homes and a pleasant land in which to dwell.

Amelia E. Barr, the veteran novelist at 85, sees war as the savior of the modern woman, whom idleness has made selfish. "Now, I am an old woman," she says, "and I may speak plainly about this. God made man to work, and told him to work. God made woman to have children, and told her to have children. He said, 'I write the name of every soul down in My Book.' And yet nowadays women wantonly destroy these souls, souls whose names are written in God's book! 'I have written sixty-six books, and if I were called on to die to-day, I would not cross out a line that I have written. And I have had fifteen children. And I believe that giving birth to these children and caring for them was just as important a work and a service as writing those sixty-six books.'"

Hindo Fable on Woman's Creation

Here is a Hindu fable of the creation of a woman. It's a fable far more poetical than our Christian belief, which tells us that woman was made out of a man's rib. Read on:

"Twashtri, at the beginning of time, created the universe and man; but when he came to create woman, he found he had exhausted his materials, and no solid element remained. "Twashtri mused a while. Then an idea came to him, and, in order to make the first woman, he took the moonlight and the undulations of the serpent, the slenderness of reeds and their soft movements in the wind, the tears of a raincloud, the velvet of flower petals, the grace of a roe, the tremor of grasses, the vanity of a peacock, the softness of the down on a dove's breast, the hardness of diamonds, and the sweetness of honey, the cruelty of a tiger and the warmth of fire, the cold of snow, the chattering of a jay, and the coo of a dove and out of these things 'Twashtri created woman."

Please Pay Promptly

It is a constant struggle with many country publishers to keep their paper going financially. The business is made up of such small accounts that people think that the trifling amount due from them does not matter much whether paid promptly or not, forgetting that there may be a thousand entertaining the same idea, and thus withholding from the publisher his hard-earned dollars, while not particularly meaning to work a hardship. The better plan is always to pay promptly in advance for a newspaper the moment the subscription expires. The paper will be all the better for promptness in this matter, for no man can get up a spicy, interesting journal if his mind is harassed by bills coming due, and which, from the negligence of patrons, he is unable to meet.

—Exchange.
The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.
Water, taken cold—a pint night and morning—is a cure for constipation.

Enlist
Your King and Country need you, So enlist.
Your wanted now, they tell you, To enlist.
Do not wait another day, Never mind what shirkers say, Show "the other chap" the way, And enlist.
The boys in France they call you To enlist.
To help them, they implore you To enlist.
Is it that you fear to go, And help our lads to fight the foe? As a man, you'll answer "No," And enlist.
The voice of conscience bids you To enlist.
To avenge the wrong of Belgium, Go, enlist.
Duty tells you what to do; Help a cause that's just and true, And the men who fight for you, And enlist.
Sing "The Maple Leaf Forever," And enlist.
Have no use for a white feather, But enlist.
Show your true Canadian grit, Get a rifle in your mitt, Be a man and "do your bit," And enlist.

A negro preacher addressed his flock with great earnestness on the subject of "Miracles" as follows:—"My beloved friends, the greatest of all miracles was 'bout de leaves and fishes." Dey was 5,000 leaves and 2,000 fishes, and de twelve apostles had to eat 'em all. De miracle is, dey didn't bust."

Young Bagley married the charming Olive, and after the wedding breakfast he chanced to notice one of the guests, a young man, who appeared to be extremely gloomy and was evidently not having a good time. He stepped up to the young fellow with the idea of cheering him up. "Er—have you kissed the bride?" he asked. "Not lately," replied the gloomy one with a far-away expression.

Her Other Half.
Society Dame—Oh, doctor, I'm so sorely troubled with ennui. Doctor—Er! Why don't you interest yourself in finding out how the other half lives? Society Dame—Gracious! Why, I'm not looking for a divorce.—Chicago News.

Time Something Started.
"Have you noticed the clock?" he asked at the hour of midnight.
"Yes, I have," she replied, with a yawn.
"It hasn't been going for three hours." "Neither have you."—Yonkers Statesman.

Deserved Tributes.
"You see, we have done everything possible to preserve Plymouth Rock."
"And I don't blame ye. New England owes a heap to that breed of hen."—Kansas City Journal.

What Was It, Then?
"I don't see why you call your place a bungalow," said Smith to his neighbor.
"Well, if it isn't a bungalow, what is it?" said the neighbor. "The job was a bungle and I still owe for it."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Crashy Music.
Nodd—How is the music in the Bing-bang restaurant? Tom—Wonderful! I was in there with my wife for an hour the other evening and couldn't hear a word she said.—Life.

An Exception.
"Happiness," declaimed the philosopher pompously, "is only the pursuit of something, not the catching of it."
"Oh, I don't know," answered the plain citizen. "Have you ever chased the last car on a rainy night?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Even.
"He lavished pearls upon her."
"Yes."
"Yet her affection was not genuine."
"Neither were the pearls."—Washington Star.

He Balked.
Skinn—I want to interest you in a mining proposition. It's a good thing. Fluddub—Perhaps it is, but I'm not a Judge.

Strawberry Long Cake.
Chubby cheek with health aglow, Bright eyes shining to and fro, Mother will a shortcake bake, Little lad and larger lass, All about the laughing lips Is as red as finger tips, Telling where the berries go— Into mouths like Cupid's bow!
