

ROBERT MARSHALL,

BOOKSELLER,

Begs to inform his numerous friends and the public, that he is making a Specialty this season of Juvenile Literature, and has a well-selected Stock of Holiday Presents for the Young Folks, also winter evening Games in great variety.

His set of Parlor Croquet is in great demand, having now established itself as the most popular of Evening Games, and he has much pleasure in referring to the following article which appeared in "The Mail" of the 2nd December:

"Few better Christmas Presents can be found than a good in-door edition of the Game of Croquet. We have been shown a box got up by Mr. MARSHALL, and can speak for its elegance and completeness as a Drawing-room or Nursery play-thing."
