

- Lightwood, J. M., Possession of Land, London, 1894.
 Mather, F. E., Sheriff Law, London, 1894.
 Murray, J. A. H., New English Dictionary, vol. 2, C., Oxford, 1893.
 Parker, A. J., Constitution of U. S. A. and of State of New York, 1894.
 Pike, L. O., Constitutional History of the House of Lords, London, 1894.
 Pope, Joseph, Memoirs of Rt. Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, 2 vols., Ottawa, 1894.
 Quebec, Journals Legislative Assembly of, 1867-1894.
 Rogers, F. N. Municipal and other Elections, 17th ed., by S. H. Day, vol. 3, London, 1894.
 Snell, E. T. H., Principles of Equity, 11th ed., by A. Brown, London, 1894.
 Standard Dictionary of the English Language, M-Z, vol. 2, New York, 1895.
 Stephen, Sir J. F., Digest of the Criminal Law, 5th ed., London, 1894.
 Terrill, F. W., Chronology of Canada, Montreal, 1893.
 Williams, J. H., and Yates, W. B., Law of Ejectment, London, 1894.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.

Littell's Living Age, published by Littell & Co, Boston, U.S., brimful as each number is of the latest productions of the ablest foreign (especially British) writers, on subjects of living interest to every intelligent reader, is the ideal magazine for the busy man and woman of to-day. One great advantage of The Living Age is its completeness. Covering the whole range of literature, it not only presents the best thoughts of the best authors, but gives them in full without mutilation or condensation. No other eclectic does this.

Recent issues present all the accustomed variety, but are especially rich in biographical sketches or personal recollections. Two articles appear in the early March issues on Christina Rossetti, the exquisite poetess who has so recently passed away—one by Mrs. Alice Meynell, the other by Arthur Christopher Benson. "Recollections of James Anthony Froude," by the late Mrs. Alexander Ireland; "Count Moltke, Field Marshal," by Sidney Withman; "Oliver Wendell Holmes"; "James Darmesteter," by M. Gaston Paris; "Rubinstein," by H. R. Haweis; "Tennyson at Aldworth," by F. G. Kitton, are papers which will be eagerly read. Other notable and timely articles are: "A Change of Czars"; "The Court of Ferrara in the Fifteenth Century"; "Stony Sinal," by E. N. Buxton; "An Old Society Wit," by Mrs. Andrew Crosse; "Single Chamber Democrats," by R. Wallace, M.P.; and "Recollections of the Chinese War," by Colonel Hill James.

A prospectus with special offers to new subscribers will be sent, on application, by the publishers.