POSTSCRIPT.

CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, FOREST.:
At the anniversary services in connection with the Forest Congregational Church, both the afternoon and evening services were largely attended, and the discourses were able, interesting and instructive. The public service on Monday evening was well attended, and the speeches, music, &c., furnished a pleasant evening's entertainment. Rev. R. Hay, of Watford, was the first speaker. He congratulated the congregation on the large increase in membership, their beautiful church, and the excellent future which lies before them. He thought that the Watford and Forest circuits were too large now and that another man should be secured, and this could be easily accomplished if the people were only educated to give one-tenth of their income to the church. He had been teaching his people that it was their duty to do this. Rev. L. McFayden, of Edinburgh, Scotland, was the next speaker; he said that he did not know of a town in Scotland that had so many churches in it as Forest has, and thought that this ought to be an exceptionally good place; he exhorted the people to greater work, and thought that each church should be self-sustaining, and that pastors should not be expected to be as bishops, over three or four congregations. Rev. Mr. Harris was glad to meet with old friends again, and launched out into the subject of contributing one-tenth of a persons living to the cause of Christ. Rev. Mr. Black, of Sarnia, spoke encouragingly of the prospects of the congregation, urging united effort.
