

Indiana

The first recorded European visitor to this state was French explorer, Robert Cavelier de la Salle, who established numerous trading posts. England won control of the territory in 1763 following the French and Indian war and left in 1779. Indiana was admitted as a state to the Union in 1816.