WOLVERTON IS LIKELY TO COME EAST AGAIN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—Harry Wolverton, who managed the New York Americans in 1912, is likely to be seen in the east again next season. Information to this effect was in circulation at National League headquarters here today. Two clubs in the International League, where he has been managing since 1913, are known to be after him. One is believed to be Richmond, which was one of the owners of the Sacramento Club in the Pacific Coast League last year.

OSLER WINS SENIOR BASKETBALL PLAYGROUND LEAGUE.

The McCormick Garretts went down to defeat before the fast Oiler Seniors last night before a big crowd, in a game that was replete with thrilling plays. These two teams had yet to meet with defeat, and when the McCormick Garretts started the game the excitement was intense, and while the Oiler team had the game well in hand at all times they were hard pressed in the last few minutes, but were equal to the test, and at the final whistle the score read Oiler 25, McCormick 19. The line-up of the winning team: Mackie, Kelly, Ham, Smith, Williamson, Matson, Kirby.

In the second game, a Senior "B" fixture, Oiler were again on top, having no trouble defeating Moss Park 23-21. In scoring foul shots it would be hard to find a better man than Findley of Moss Park.

TOWNS READY FOR NEW GERMAN RAID

English East Coast Settlements Watch for Reappearance of Warships.

ON ALERT FOR SPIES

Civilians Ordered to Stay Indoors Should Bombardment Recur.

Canadian Press Despatch.

WEST HARTLEPOOL, Eng., Dec. 29.—English east coast towns are on the alert since the German raid upon Scarborough, Whitby and the Hartlepool.

Every preparation is being made for the reappearance of German ships, if not the landing of German troops.

The mayors of the Hartlepool and the other towns have organized a volunteer constabulary, and are making an effort to hold the public in check. Preparations have been made that civilians must stay indoors should the bombardment recur and obey the orders of the constables. Nearly all civilians, however, are carrying arms, and they announce they will look after themselves. Travel by automobiles at night is hazardous, as excited guards stop all motor cars, frequently with a flourish of guns and revolvers.

Many of the families living near the coast have moved back into the interior. The large number of women and children killed during the recent bombardment especially has attracted attention to the German raid.

Spies Out Wires.

Before the raid all telegraphic and telephonic connection with the harbor is said to have been cut off suddenly. In fact the two Hartlepool are both said to have been cut off entirely from the outside world for a time before the shells wrecked many poles and completed the supposed work of some spy.

The military authorities have taken over all wires, and communication with the coast towns is very difficult.

The spy fear has now become so acute all along the coast that even civilians, provided with credentials above disputes, are subjected to arrest by the civil officials.

While the fog assisted the Germans in slipping near the coast without being observed it also hindered their marksmanship seriously until they were abreast the peninsula, a position they were unable to maintain very long because of the fire from shore guns, which seems to have been accurate while the cruisers presented their sides to the shore batteries. Two of the invading cruisers were struck by shots, which inflicted injuries that could be seen from shore.

Scarborough had no artillery to reply to the guns of the German cruisers, so that not a shot was fired in retaliation. There were no field guns there, nor had there been any attempt to make fortifications, to resist shell fire.

A home guard organization is forming in Yorkshire among civilians whose duties or age stand in the way of enlistment in the army. Its object is to repel invasion. But the question arises whether the Germans would shoot armed civilians who might be captured, for the home guards wear civilian clothes and have no distinguishing mark other than a badge.
