and citizens who were anxious to get a last glimpse of the battalion before it left for the second stage of training. The battalion formed the largest contingent that has yet left Hamilton to train for active service, and being wholly representative of this city, and the only corps of its kind in the British Empire the citizens turned out in ish Empire, the citizens turned out in full force to honor them on their departure. The occasion was made more important by the presence of Sir Sam Hughes, minister of militia, who along with Col. Logie, Lieut.-Col. Mewburn, Lieut.-Col. Leonard and Capt. Daly, staff officers, motored up from Niagara to assist in the ceremony. A rousing

More German Artillery Put Out of Action by French.

Germans under the present arrangements, they will soon have to bring up reinforcements in the shape of big guns to counteract the fire from their opponents.
The Germans are nervous about

Lille, for they have concentrated a vast mass of artillery on the Artois sector n an attempt to keep down the fire of he French batteries. Here the battle s more like a duel, with both contestants more evenly matched, but even here the French artillerists frequently have the better of the argument. Souchez and Neuville were the chief points of the heavy cross-firing today. Arras was also bombarded by incen-diary shells, which started fires in several places. These were soon ex-

South of the Avre, a point not often mentioned in the reports of the French war office, the field works of the enemy were severely damaged in a violent bombardment. Bombs and handgrenades were brought into the fight in the region of Quennevieres. On the front extend-ng from the Meuse to the Moselle the German batteries were dominated by a terrific French fire and received a violent pounding, which put many of the guns out of action. A continuous struggle with bombs asd torpedoes was kept up in the forest of Apremont.

Several mines were exploded north of Wisembach, in the Vosges. A number of German ammunition depots were blown up in the Cham-pagne in the course of the night. German parties constructing new earthworks in the Argonne were bom-barded by French guns and only a eeble response was made by the Ger-

Waterman, to object to the changes made by the very large majority in the later stages the suggestion made by the primate, that time was passing, the synod responded by putting the business thru with as much speed as possible, and so far did they get in the process of revising the prayer book that unless unexpected difficulties are encountered the remainder of the book will be gone over at today's sessions.

A storm centre developed at the morning session when a resolution presented by Bishop Roper and Archdeacon Cody was brought in, providing for an addition to the motion made by Provost Macklem. The clause was:

"This procedure is in harmony with ancient usage. The form of the Nicene Creed adopted for use in the liturgy was the form without anathema."

Chancellor Davidson led the attack, and when the supporters of the clause agreed to drop the matter, and the primate made his plea for "speeding up," tactics, the synod got back again

New Word Used.

When the commination service came up for discussion during the afternoon the first clauses were passed without comment. The word "proper" was inserted before "discipline" without a dissenting voice, but when the Bishop of Huron suggested the change from "curse" to "wrath" in the latter part of the service, a storm developed that did not pass over completely until the did not pass over completely until the entire commination service was passed in its entirety after three hours of

In introducing the change made by the prayer book committee, the Bishop of Huron said that what should be avoided was the view which the people had from the service. He said that direct opposition had been met towards the service and that it had been styled the "cursing service" on account of the number of times this Bankers. word was used. It was the misleading interpretation of the people that he wanted to get rid of and the substitution of the words "wrath of God" in place of "curse" seemed the best way out of the difficulty. He said that with the change the de-nouncing of God's anger and judgments of sinners, as set forth in the first lines of the service, were still retained, and that without weakening the service it was without the objectrate was then reluctantly offered. "it antagonism.

Direct opposition was made to the change by Rev. R. B. Waterman of Carp. "We have reached a point of very much more importance than the changing of the words of the rubric," he declared. "We are changing that this rate would not be exceeded. The demand was still for a billion dollars. Within the past week, an American banker said tonight, the commission had been compelled to recommission had been compelled to recommission. he declared. "We are changing the words of the Gospel. This was taken from the beautiful passage in Deuter-onomy." In the words that the committee wanted to remove there was a principle that the very life of a nation depended on, as it laid down the truth that he who sins must certainly perish as a result of his sin. He said that the verses in Deuteronomy should be looked upon as a statement of fact, and not as a denunciation. "The only sin recognized in this country today is that of drunkenness," said Rev. Mr. Waterman. A man's curse is in his France. Quite a few American banksin. It was only three-quarters of a amount of the loan, it was said. Upon this point that century ago that England thought that this point the commission was reported to have been insistent that the sum the visitations of the plague were ed to have been insistent that the sum manifestations of the wrath, instead of should approximate $700,000,000; and understanding that the calamity was the American bankers were said to a consequence of their own disobed- have been equally firm in their reience of the laws of cleanliness." tee had changed it.

Other members of the synod declared that the Gospel was being changed to please a generation that did not understand these things, and it was because of their misunderstanding that they found objection to the service. One conviction was expressed that it was not whether people liked a thing or not, but whether the word of God should be preached faithfully or not.

AD CLUB LISTENED TO WITTY ADDRESS

Words Which Caused Much C. A. Brownell, Advertising Manager of Ford Motor Car Company, Spoke.

Advertising as Greatest Business Forces, Needs Cleaning Up.

He enumerated the points which made advertising one of the greatest business forces of today, but today he declared it was not being used as a business force but as a speculation. Advertising senerally needed to be cleaned up and divested of its barnacles. Publishers ought to realize this for their ewn profit. There had been a time when advertising at best had been a speculation, but now, when the influence of the newspaper had become universal, it carried ads wherever it went, and improved transportation and postal facilities had made it all powerful.

Half is Wasted.

He believed that of the six hundred millions of dollars spent in America yearly for advertising, at least fifty per cent. of it was wasted, simply from lack of analysis. He would "merchandize" newspaper space and sell it just like a stock of boots and shoes. He would make it laden with truth and cleanness. He quoted one of Henry Ford's epigrams: "Don't exaggerate. The facts are bigger." The clever salesman was the man who sold you something that would do you good and not the man who "puts it over."

"A man asked me the other day." he went on, "what is the difference between a Ford motor car and a rattle-snake? I answered, Well, maybe the rattlesnake has more rattles."

He told of the beginning of the Ford car and how people made fun of it and ridiculed it, but the Ford car had lived up to its promises and had won out. At the present time the demand could not be supplied in the United States and for that reason newspaper advertising had been cut off until they could catch up with the orders.

Need Greater for U. S. A.

Thruout the period of negotiations until a day or so ago, it was said on good authority, the commission had dominated the situation, pointing out to American financiers that the need for the establishment of the was greater to loan the United States than to either Great Britain or establishment of the credit on liberal

Earlier in the week the commission and its American conferees came near have been equally firm in their rethe mutual expectation that this point would be adjusted within a few hours, own sins that found them out, and that announcement of the success of negotiations would be issued Wednesday or today.

Week May Elapse.

They failed to agree, apparently, and there was no announcement. Tonight it was said that there might be an announcement within a few days or that possibly a week would elapse before an announcement would be is-

American bankers in sympathy with the commission's desires tonight said there was no friction and in all probability an understanding would be arrived at shortly.

Soft, Curly, Wavy Hair Now Easy to Have (Woman's Realm).

Beautiful, fluffy, natural-looking curls or waves, without the use of the ruinous curling iron, are now possible for every woman. Yes, not only possible, but very easily acquired over night, and with benefit to the life and health of the hair. It is only necessary to apply a little liquid silmerine before retiring, using a clean tooth brush for the purpose, drawing this down the full length of the tresses from root to tip. In the morning the hair will have a most delightful curliness and lustre, without the least suggestion of grease or stickiness, and will be quite controllable, no matter how the hair is done up. As liquid slimerine is procurable at any drug store, and as a few ounces of it will last for months, no woman need put up with that flat, lank, dank appearance of the hair which gives such an unwholesome look of plainness to most faces.
