

- 28; on the conflict between belligerent and neutral interests, 42-3; on the unlawfulness of trade in contraband, 44; on the responsibility of the neutral state, 45-6; as to extent of prohibitions to sale on neutral territory, 53-4; on contraband articles, 111; on immunity of articles carried for the use of the neutral vessel, 136; on the confiscation of contraband, 222; on the liability of the vessel and the innocent part of the cargo, 232.
- German prize law, 15; merchant ships sold to Russia in 1904, 59; attitude towards contraband trade of subjects, 71, 74, 77; protest against manufacture of munitions in the United States during war of 1914-15, 83; rules as to conditional contraband, 99-100, 185; contraband lists in war of 1914-15, 182; assumption of control of food-stuffs, 100, 187; 'blockade' of British Isles, 189; rules as to liability of vessel, 246.
- Gessner on the responsibility of the neutral state, 74; on the doctrine of continuous voyage, 163; on the confiscation of the non-contraband part of the cargo, 243.
- Goods shipped before and in ignorance of the war, 229; rules of the Declaration of London, 230.
- Great Britain, policy of as to sale of warships in 1863, 58; attitude towards contraband trade of subjects, 70, 73, 77, 78; nature of Government's powers to prevent export of articles useful in war, 72; application of doctrine of continuous voyage during the Boer war, 160; contraband Proclamations, 179-82; Orders in Council adopting the Declaration of London, 17, 183.
- Greece and Rome, contraband in ancient, 20-2.
- Greece, attitude of, towards contraband trade of subjects, 71.
- Gröning, Pufendorf's letter to, as to belligerent interference with neutral trade, 68, 195.
- Grotius, quotations of, from classical writers, 24; on belligerent interference with neutral trade, 44-5; does not discuss responsibility of neutral state, 47; only speaks of transport by sea, 54; on articles of contraband, 111; on conditional contraband, 112; on the confiscation of contraband, 222; does not discuss the liability of the vessel, 232.
- Hague Conference of 1899, 15.
- Hague Conference of 1907, 15; discussion of contraband at, 16, 164; proposal to abolish contraband, 102-4; discussion of doctrine of continuous voyage, 161; discussion of destruction of neutral prizes, 207.
- Hall, W. E., on the international status of the neutral trader, 90-1; on the doctrine of continuous voyage, 157, 163.
- Hanse towns, policy of, as belligerents and neutrals, 31, 37; Elizabeth's dispute with, 36-8.
- Harcourt, Sir W. Vernon, see Historiens.
- Hautefeuille on the responsibility of the neutral state, 74; on the practice of breaking bulk, 210; on the confiscation of the non-contraband part of the cargo, 243.
- Hefter on conditional contraband, 127; on the practice of pre-emption, 228; on the confiscation of the non-contraband part of the cargo, 243.
- Heineccius on the responsibility of the neutral state, 68; on conditional contraband, 114; on the confiscation of contraband, 223; on the liability of the vessel, 235-6.
- Higgins, A. Pearce, on the international status of the neutral trader, 91.
- Historiens (Sir W. Vernon Harcourt) on the insurance of con-