

and many others join me in the thanksgiving. But unto her I would emphatically say in closing, "Thou shalt remember what God has so clearly shown thee, that the true way to strengthen, and extend the cause in the city is to plant Baptist churches, as many as possible, in the destitute localities, and sustain them until they can sustain themselves.