

angels? Well, I want to be a man, Jeanne, as near as possible such a man as he was. And I want to walk beside you, always."

A shift of wind from astern overtook them and the great ensign flapped forward, screening them for a moment where they stood, from the view of the rest of the deck. With a sudden passion of understanding she clasped him close and kissed him.

THE END.