METHODISTS EXTOLLED BY PREMIER M'BRIDE

No Better Citizens of B. C., He Says—A General Supt. May Be Appointed for West.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 16.—(Special.)—The feature of the proceedings at the Methodist General Conference to-day was the provincial address of welcome delivered to the delegates by Premier McBride. British Columbia, he said, took it as a great compliment that its capital was selected for the meeting place of such a body of representative men. In his travels thru the province he was constantly brought into touch with Methodists. They were good, clean, decent and straight-living citizens, and he believed that the same characteristics prevailed in the church thruout the Dominion.

As an educational factor, they were proving of immense influence. Wherever Methodists were found, there also were found good Canadians. In touching words he alluded to the loss Canada had sustained in the death of Dr. Potts and Dr. Sutherland.

The work of the general conference went far beyond the consideration of the mere tenets of Methodism. In the larger and nobler sense it was working for the good of Canada. He had read the address of the general superintendent, which he could not failto see spoke of a larger, better and nobler citizenship. That was the idea which governments, as well as churches, should seek to establish.

Before concluding his address, the premier paid a high tribute to the Rev. Dr. Chown. He had been brought in contact with this divine a great deal in his work. He had found him an active, affable, energetic, and, above all, a manly man.

In replying to the premier, the Rev. Dr. Carman said that, somehow, he was a man of whom they had all heard. They could tell the premier that the Methodist Church would stand for clean and honorable citizenship under the government of his majesty.

The major part of the day was occupied with private committee work, and the reception of deputations from the Women's Missionary Society, the Ministerial Association of Victoria, the City of Victoria, and the address of Premier McBride. A committee composed of deputations of the various conferences was appointed to consider the question of appointing two general superintendents, one to act in the west. This committee will report back. On resolution of N. W. Rowell, K.C., Toronto, a committee was appointed to consider the question of raising the salaries of the general superintendent to $5000 a year, and of the general conference secretaries and editors to $2000 a year, with a furnished house allowance of $700.

Many memorials were referred to different committees, one important one dealing with the higher criticism, going over to the educational committee for private consideration. This will be reported back.

The conference adjourned half an hour earlier than usual to attend the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new Y.M.C.A. building for Victoria by Premier McBride.

THE NEW ALLAN LINERS

Hitch Has Occurred in Acceptance of Plans

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Andrew Allan announced to-day that the new Allan Line mail steamers, for which tenders had been called this year, would not be launched in the spring of 1912.

The tenders had been opened in England by Hugh A. Allan, president of the company. He had found them unsatisfactory, and owing to that fact no contract had yet been let.

The new liners, which are to be of 22 knots capacity and larger than any vessels in the Canadian trade, will undoubtedly be in readiness to enable the Allan Line to continue their mail contract with the government.

It is hardly probable that the government will renew the contract with the Allan Line on their present tonnage.

MEN WAND MORE THAN COMPANY OFFERED

sident Mackenzie's offer of a cent an hour increase in wages over the present scale was not along the lines of the general manager's attitude. The references of Judge Barron within the last few days to the respect for "the public interest," displayed by Mr. Mackenzie; and the generous conduct of the employes in making certain concessions, are in contrast to the lack of mention of Mr. Fleming's part in trying to assist in reaching a settlement.

President Mackenzie, following the afternoon conference, is quoted as saying that he didn't think there would be a strike, adding, "in fact, I never thought there would be, and the men don't think so, either," when seen last night at his residence, the president was decidedly non-committal.

"All the reporters have been in to see me," he said, "and they're all in the same position. It wasn't a regular meeting this afternoon; they just called me up and came to see men. I have no statement to make."

The reporter mentioned that Judge Barron had praised Mr. Mackenzie's attitude in putting the public first. "I always put the public first," was the only comment.

Mr. Fleming was much more ready to explain the position. "I'm sorry you have had such a long walk for nothing," he said, "but to make any statement wouldn't be playing fair to the others. We have mutually agreed that the judge shall be the spokesman, and he will do all the talking.

"It will only be a matter of a day or two now. I haven't felt at all worried right from the begining, tho other people seem to have been anxious."

Men Rejected Offer.

The committee, who interviewed Mr. Mackenzie, consisted of Jos. Gibbons, W. D. Robbins and W. F. Thompson, and to Mr. Mackenzie they explained how his offer to the new men of 20 cents an hour for the first year, and a cent an hour raise for each of the next four years was out of the question. A new man coming on after the agreement had been signed, therefore, would only get 22 cents in his third year, which is lower than he would get under the old agreement—at present a man gets 22 cents in his second year. The present three year man would get 24½ cents, and the same rate five years from now. A new man coming on would get 24 cents in his fifth year against 24½ cents of the man who had put in at least eight years. Mr. Mackenzie, the committee thought, saw that it was not quite a fair proposition.

"After our talk with him to-day," said one of them, "I think he may take a more lenient view."

It was believed last night by some of the employes that they would be finally granted a cent an hour increase over Mr. Mackenzie's offer.

"Such an award," said one party, who was yesterday in rather close touch with affairs, "I think will be accepted by both parties."

Whatever the award may be, it will not be accepted by the committee of the men. It has first to be submitted to the men themselves, and they will decide as to whether it is to be accepted. "If the award is given out early enough to-morrow," said Joseph Gibbons, "there may be a meeting of the men to-morrow night, but if it is late, the meeting will not likely be held till Thursday night."

The exhibition authorities have for some time been anxiously awaiting the result of negotiations, and when the situation began to look so serious both George H. Gooderham, president of the Canadian National Exposition, and Dr. Orr, manager, got busy to see if some pressure could not be brought to bear whereby the strike could be averted. It is understood that if there was no possible chance of an amicable settlement they would endeavor to have the award postponed till after the exhibition. When seen by The World Mr. Gooderham said that he was quite certain that there was not going to be a strike and he was not worrying any more about it.

"Judge Barron's assurance to-day when I saw him satisfied me, and I did not go any farther," he said.

"Did you speak to Mr. Mackenzie about it?"

"No, I did not. I was assured of no trouble and in my capacity as president of the exhibition I do not think Judge Barron would say what he did if he was not quite confident himself."

Mr. Gooderham went on to explain that if there was a strike the exhibition authorities were prepared not only to hire every automobile in town, but to have a full boat service from the city to the foot of Dufferin-street.

"The trouble, if a strike was declared," said Mr. Gooderham, "will be that the people from the country might not come to the exhibition."

MOIR ACROSS THE LINE AUTHORITIES NOW SURE

Auto in Which He Got Away Traced to Buffalo—Taggart Thought to Be Nearer Home.

HAMILTON, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Beyond the practical certainty that the escaped "Gunner" Moir is across the border, while there is a report that Taggart, who escaped with him from Hamilton Asylum, where both were incarcerated as insane murderers, there is no clue to their whereabouts. The automobile in which they made their escape from the asylum grounds has been traced as far as Buffalo, and the police of New York State have been called upon to use every effort to round up the fugitives. The authorities have positive proof that the car passed over the International Bridge. They traced it thru Niagara Falls, N. Y., and lost track of it at Buffalo.

That Moir had both inside and outside assistance there is no longer any doubt. Recently a man who was supposed to have been in collusion with him and with his London friends was discharged. Two guards who left the employ of the institution had their keys with them for several days. While since his previous attempt at escape Moir had no chance to communicate his plans to outsiders, it would be easy for him to do so thru Taggart, who was allowed to send and receive letters without any attempt at censoring.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 16.—(Special.) — Wife-murderer Taggart, who escaped with Gunner Moir from Hamilton asylum, is believed to be still in the Niagara district. A man, believed to be Taggart, was seen near Merriton early to-day and Chief Mains of the Ontario Police, was this afternoon notified that a stranger, about fifty years old, had offered to sell his hat to a laborer near Merriton for a dime. The man told the police he saw the asylum name inscribed on the strange man's coat.

COBOURG'S HORSE SHOW OFF TO SPLENDID START

Great List of Entries and Several Distinguished Visitors—Results of the Judging.

COBOURG, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Happy Cobourg! The lovely little town "on old Ontario's strand" held high holiday to-day and will for the rest of the week during the horse show, which has attracted an unusual number of visitors and combined with perfect weather and every other favorable condition already stands as a record in the history of local achievements. The new show grounds are not surpassed in Ontario for situation and natural beauty, and the crowded grand stands, gay with fashionable costumes, and the brilliant colors in the ring of smart equipages, huntsmen in scarlet and beribboned and silken coated beauties from the stable did not need in their sylvan setting to invite comparison with any indoor horse show in the world.

Two noble beeches overhang the principal grandstand, and the refreshing shade beneath their heavy foliage was the most delightful canopy, while the gleams of green and blue from the lake off to the left of the grounds had a pleasant suggestion of coolness which did not obtrude itself, altho the easterly breeze kept the temperature on good behavior.

Many guests had motored over from different parts of the country, some from Toronto, and the usual tally of American visitors who love to spend their summers at Cobourg contributed largely to the box assembly. The morning trains brought crowds from all along the line, and Toronto sent a fair delegation. The band of the 48th Highlanders marched thru the town before the opening of the show and stirred a gallant enthusiasm.

Fine Lot of Horses.

The horses were, of course, of more interest than any mere human creatures, and to do them justice they were as fine a lot as are to be seen in comparison for their numbers at any of the big central shows. It must be highly encouraging to those interested in horse breeding to see such results and to know that the efforts that are being made at Cobourg are earnestly as anywhere, are bearing splendid fruit. This is the sixth year of the Cobourg show, and the second in the new grounds acquired at a considerable cost two years ago. The management, under John D. Hayden, president; E. W. Hargraft, treasurer, and J. H. Davidson, secretary, are not so much to be congratulated for their success, for they have their satisfaction in it, but are rather to be set up as models to be emulated in other parts of the province, where no similar effort has yet been inaugurated.

The excellent arrangements, the flawless way in which the program was carried out, the neatness of the ring and the other necessary arrangements, evidenced in the printing of the program and the excellent feeling prevailed in every quarter, all speak one verdict. The honorary president has had much to do with the general success and W. J. Crossen is almost synonymous with Cobourg. The executive committee, J. B. McColl, M.P., G. F. Jones, E. M. Hawley, F. M. Field, Alex. Pratt and the directors as a body have all evidently put brains and energy into the good cause.

Notable Visitors.

Among the notable visitors were Hon. Clifford Sifton, whose fine yacht is lying in the harbor; Hon. J. R. Stratton, who rivals Mr. Sifton in the number of his entries; Aemilius Jarvis, who rode his own exhibits over the jumps in sportsman like style; Dr. W. A. Young, whose devotion is not exercised by proxy, either, and Hon. Robert Beith. The local exhibits were equal to any, and among these Mrs. Dorland Smith had some very pretty drivers. The special prizes for local or district competition were worthily won, and the winners had no reason to fear outside rivalry. As was to be expected, the agricultural and draught animals were very fine, and no better brood mares and foals are to be found.

Undoubtedly the most excitement attended the red coat race, which was thru the ring and round the half-mile course three times, a very neat little steeplechase. There were half a dozen entries, all in scarlet, and five of them got off to a good start. Eric Skead's Passi Flora was left and lost half a dozen lengths, which she never made up. It was a neck and neck finish, with a length or so to spare against the others. First place was won by Mr. Sifton's Uncle Toby, the owner's son up. He had been in third place until the last quarter, when he drove ahead and finished in rattling style.

A Close Decision.

One of the close decisions was in class seven, for second place, when, after considerable meditation, Dr. Young's My Humming Bird was sandwiched between two of Mr. Stratton's fine mares.

Three beautiful animals turned out in the high-stepper stallion class.

Nine entries all turned up in the jumper class, three of them Mr. Jarvis'; five of Mr. Sifton's, and Mrs. Wilmot's mare, Perfect Lady. The jumping was hardly as good as the showing in other classes, but Confidence worked perfectly.

The ponies were dainty little beauties, and Mrs. Wilmot's Bathgate Swell was particularly good.
