PROBE ADJOURNED TO EXAMINE BOOKS

Onto firm to supply pork products to the British Government. Taking the contracts with the Agar Company, Mr. Waldron quoted a clause which stated that a shingling machine, which was part of the equipment, was to be the property of the Davies firm, which would remove it when the slaughterhouse closed down. Asked for an explanation for writing off amounts for this machinery, Mr. Fox stated that the object of the company in reserving the right to move out the machine was not that it should be of value to the company but that it was the only machine of its kind in Chicago and it was desirable that the company should not lose it.

"Is there any other machinery?" asked Mr. Waldron. The manner of reply did not satisfy the counsel and the witness called Chairman Henderson to the stand. "What was your theory?" "My theory was that we could only prosecute this business during the period of the war," Mr. Waldron stated. "What were you in England?" "In January and February, 1916," Mr. Waldron replied in connection with the Chicago business. "No, sir, I never thought of that." "Did any great volume of business follow your trip?" "No, not directly." "You were there on business?" "Yes." "What did you improve your business?" "Yes." "Was the $20,000 for the equipment of the Chicago slaughter house actually paid?" "Yes." "To what account was it charged?" "Chicago."

Second Contract. "When you made the second contract, did you know that the reason for the increase?" Mr. Waldron asked. "We saw our opportunity," Mr. Waldron replied.

"We saw our opportunity," Mr. Waldron stated when you made the contracts to supply the war office?" questioned Mr. Bain. "No, sir; we had it in operation for years."

"You have a certain price for American bacon and Canadian bacon?" "Yes, we buy the hogs in the United States, have them killed in Chicago, cut off the heads and feet, send the pork to our factory in Toronto and then ship it to Britain as American bacon."

"Does the post curing add to the weight of the bacon?" the chairman queried. "But you say the object of the post curing is not to cure the purpose?" "No, the primary purpose." "The gain in weight would be to your advantage, at that time it would?" "But I have not been able to grasp what the real object of the post curing is."

"If the pork accumulates it is treated in the same manner as pickled pork." "Do you ever give instructions to your officials to send post curing as well as regular curing in the shipments to the British Government?" "I cannot say as to that."

"What, I would suggest that you find that out. It is very important." Fred Molson, insurance broker, stated that the Davies firm carried $1,055,000 insurance on five new buildings. Of this amount $585,000 was on buildings and the remainder on the contents.

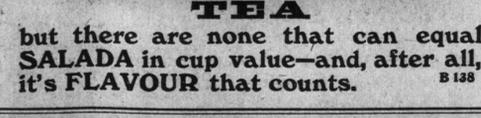

Firm Protected. Re-examined by Mr. Bain, the witness stated that the Speed-Thompson Company did not furnish the Davies firm with information as to what the war office would require for periods of from six weeks to two months. The information was never for more than four weeks, and it was not sent by anyone but the agents. At first his firm did not know the prices, but the quantities grew to such an extent that it had to know the cost. Under the terms of the contract the firm was protected on the cost and it received the market price of the time in London.

"That is, you couldn't lose?" "That is it." "As the business grew did the supplies accumulate in your cellars?" "No, I must object to that interference that we accumulated great quantities." "But you required a greater stock on hand," qualified the chairman. "Oh, yes."

IT CAN'T BE DONE You can't brush or wash out dandruff. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to use Dodds' Kidney Pills. Destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arsenic; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone. It is not a cure, but a relief. It will not only destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have, but it will give you fine, soft, wavy hair. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffier, lustreous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arsenic at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

There are Teas that are cheaper in cash cost than but there are none that can equal SALADA in cup value—and, after all, it's FLAVOUR that counts.

Canadian couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Trace, residents of Laurel, Montana, who have traveled five thousand one hundred and fifty miles in their car since the end of June. They passed thru Toronto en route to Elmvale, Ontario, their old home town.

ELMVALE COUPLE ON RECORD TRIP

Pass Thru City on Last Lap of Five-Thousand Mile Journey. Had Fine Weather Automobile Carries Folding Beds and Other Camping Equipment.

Five thousand one hundred and fifty miles by automobile since the end of June, thru eleven states in the United States and four provinces in Canada was the record set to the World by A. L. Trace of Laurel, Montana, who pulled into Toronto yesterday morning in company with his wife, not to mention a stray-haired collie which, unobtrusively occupied the running board on one side of the car to counterbalance the folding beds and other camping paraphernalia on the other side.

Submitting with the best of grace to the quizzing of the reporters and the interested bystanders, Mr. Trace explained that he and his better half had started out for the purpose of seeing the country and also various relatives and friends in the Canadian northwest.

With this end in view the travelers long ascending prices and long declining prices were high there you would then turn them to the home market?" Mr. Waldron asked.

"The William Davies Company stayed in the English market at a loss when many other packers dropped out. Consequently we established a connection."

"In making statements to the British Government what did you include?" "How was the cost estimated?" "The regular clearing sheet." "Did you include an estimate of profits?" "No."

Mr. Brodie wanted to know if he had the records of the cost supplied to the British Government and the market prices of the same day, and Mr. Fox replied that it was usually figured on a rough piece of paper.

Made Honestly. "I suppose it was as high as you could make it?" asked Mr. Henderson. "No, it was made honestly."

"Oh, it didn't mean that. Would this have a tendency to increase prices?" Mr. Henderson asked. "Under the English market?" "Would it not be necessary to lay price in a store to meet the market?" "I don't conceive the operations of the company as you do."

"That is not an answer," said Mr. Waldron. "The people know the prices went up," said Mr. Henderson, "and as a result of a price quoted to sell at a certain date in advance of delivery, the buying might not be as careful as otherwise because you were assured of cost price. Is that not right?" "That is a matter of opinion."

"You were protected as to price and naturally would be allowed to let the price rise. That would be a contributing factor in the rise of bacon?" "Yes."

"That being the case, the more you bought before a certain date the more profit you would stand to make?" "Yes; but let me make this statement. You are a victim of circumstances in this business. Some weeks you are swamped with hogs and in other weeks very few come in."

"Circumstances tended to increase your prices in the period under investigation?" "That is so."

System of Inventories. The witness produced a statement of the system of inventories in use in the William Davies firm, giving a description of the method employed in treating dried and fresh meats, dairy produce in Canada and Britain. He said that in part the goods realized more than they were inventoried at.

"During the period with which we are concerned have you found it necessary to reduce your inventory at the end of one of the fiscal years?" the chairman asked.

"My memory will not serve me and I am afraid I cannot answer." "We must get that information. Do you think you can get it?" "I am not trying to evade anything."

"I know, but we want to get this information in Toronto. It will have a lot of trouble. We are bound to get it. We adjourned yesterday, for the accountants were at a loss to get the unit of costs and profits because they were not sure of the multiplicity of developments. Now you have a general statement which appears to me to destroy the value of the carefully prepared statement. I would suggest that you weight your statement here. While I do not wish to make insinuations, it does seem remarkable that a man of your business calibre could not recollect if market conditions were such at the end of the past few years as would justify you in setting aside an amount for the purpose we are discussing."

"I have many things to remember. I will consult the secretary-treasurer." "Now will you take this statement and make it specifically accurate?" "This statement is correct."

Mr. Tilley said he considered it very unfair to the witness to infer that his statements were not perfectly frank. The witness explained that the inventory was based on the market prices at the end of the fiscal year, and that this year it had been based on the same basis as in other years.
