Canadian Rugby Final Decide d Before Great Crowd in the Drizzling Rain on Muddy Field at Varsity-Play Fairly Even Until the Half-Time Whistle Blew.

University of Toronto won the final game for the championship of the Canadian Rugby Football Union from Tosonto Argonauts, 16 to 3, Saturday on the University Stadium, and deserved the victory by about that much. Play was fairly even the first half and then the Big Four champions "blew." Argos had a margin the first period when they led by a rouge, one point to nothing. Varsity were on the defensive these fifteen minutes, except a couple of moments when they lost the bai ion fumbles. The university lads began to show their wares the second session, and when they worked up to the enemy line promptly romped over for a try. It was a nicely conceived run thru the centre by Snyder, where they had made a hole as big as a barn door and the Argo backs were out looking in vain for an end run.

The students kept up the good work till the interval when they led, 6 to 1. After the rest Argos came right back, scored a rouge and a moment later were 30 yards from the line with the fans looking for at least a field goal to bring the score up within one of Varsity's, but a harmless onside kick yielded the easiest kind of relief and that was the last, heard of the Argos the rest of this mild and muddy drizzling December afternoon. Their best was a rouge kicked from long range the final period when the Rah-Rah boys had boosted their total to 16.

Varsity secured their second try in the third session after Munro, who otherwise played a great game, failed to handle a and the follow up and fall on it for an earned from the fourth, Mackenzie making the final plunge across. Argos used all their subs, changing frequently, while Varsity made only one change. The day was mild, the ground wet and almost sloppy. The stadium was filled to capacity by a crowd that thoroly enjoyed a great game, played in the friendliest spirit, but none-theless vigonous. Argos won the toss and faced the north with the advantage of a breeze that was scarcely perceptible and hardly helped the booting at all, Munro did most of it for Argos, and Snyder had very little on him, if any. The catching of the backs on both sides was great, considering the day.

VARSITY AND ARGOS DIVIDE BIG GATE AND ENJOY THEMSELVES

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 5.-Tiger interme-Had the day been fine, the gate on Saturday would have likely exceeded the McGill game. The attendance was about the McGill game. The advance sale was $6000 and the total money almost double that sum, which, after the smail expenses, is divided between Argos and Vars.ty. The ticket sale and crowd were perfectly handled by Billy Foulds and Hugh Galof the Canadian Union, as was the game by Referee Ben Simpson and his aides. Varsity's Fifth Rugby Championship of Canada

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 5.—Tiger intermediates handed Torontos a great surprise here on Saturday when the intermediate champions defeated the seniors by a score of 15 to 3 in a game that left the Torontos no excuses. The victory was fairly won, and on the day's play the Bengals showed that they were the visitor's masters in almost every department. Sam Manson was again the shining light on the Hamilton team, and his work outshore that of eliter DeGruchy or Connacher. The latter booted just as far as Manson, but his kicks were not as well placed as those of the Hamilton star, who used good judgment in his booting and allowed his wings to get under every punt. But it was not alone in puniting that Manson excelled. His craftiness had the visitors at sea on more than one occasion. He broke away for several long runs by fake kicks and passes. It was the real test for Manson, and he came thru with flying colors. Hamilton's winning points were scored in the last period, in which they easily outclassed the visitors. When the last quarter started the visitors were leading by one point, the score being 3 to 2, no points being scored in the third period. Manson and Connacher were engaging in a punting duel when Morthington fumbled and Cuzner grabbed the ball, making a run of thirty yards for the try that put Tigers in front. Manson converted. Torontos tried to break thru the Tiger line, but failed to make any impression, and lost the ball on the third down. Manson booted to the dead line for another point, and shortly after Torontos tried an onside kick, which Carey caught and kicked. He followed up the kick and fell on the loose ball for another ry, which Manson converted, making the score 15 to 3 in Tigers' favor. The field was muddy and the going uncertain as a result, but as both teams had played many games in the mud this season, the Toronto line was expected to rip the Bengals to pieces, but the teams were evenly matched in that respect. the Classic champion around the ring, landed a right to the jaw that put him out.

135-pound class—For two rounds Walter Newton had the time of his life trying to get to McBride, the long, lean St. Charles boxer, McBride jabbed Newton with that long left and occasionally hooked a right over, but tired badly in the second, and decided that he had enough and failed to respond for the third. Elderton of the Classics made a marathon of his bout against Graham, and after keeping out of harm's way for one round took no more chances, and declined to go any further.

The final between Newton and Graham was a hummer. Graham had a slight lead in the first two, but in the third round Newton wore his man down by persistent boring in tactics, and won with a good lead.

115-pound class—Murray (Riversides) made short work of Ryan (Classics), who took the count in less than two minutes' boxing. Hemmings (Broadway) and Partridge (Austin A. C.), however, made up for it by putting up a great battle. Partridge is the older boxer, and for the first two rounds gave Hemmings an neat boxing lesson, but in the final session the Broadway boy bored in continually and managed to catch the judges' eye. In the final, Hemmings came on very tired and took a beating gamely from Murray.

158-pound class—Richmond and Paynter had a merry battle, with Richmond always the best, while Black stopped Minister of Classics in about a minute. Black also made short work of Richmond in the final. A couple of jolts in the jaw made the Riversides boy decidedly unsteady on his pins, and the referee stopped the bout.

Cooper, with the team play of Ramsay, Pedlar and Elliott (the Y. players), kept well in t... lead.

Several of the old Central Y. guard were on the Dunlop line-up, including Bob Hunter and Jim Rankin. The team lacked condition. Final score—49-27.

Juvenile—The opening game in the evening between Simpson Avenue juveniles and Broadview, saw two fast teams pitted against one another, and the crowd witnessed a nne orand of basketball, with the ball-handling of the Y. players being the best seen this season. Mercer of the Y. team was the star in shooting, getting away from his cneck and shooting perfectly. Rankin, at centre, played a fine game, with the rest of the boys playing fine combination. Jones and Britton were high scorers for Simpson, with their team mates checking back hard all the way.

Intermediate—The intermediate game proved the best and fastest game this season, with both teams playing a good brand of ball, and checking back all thru the contest. The score was never more visitors. A sad mishap forced McMuriay and Aldred, one of each team, to retire just a few minutes after play started, when they had a head-on collision, both cutting the flesh above the eye, but both were O.K. after the game. Harry Kerr handled the games in good style.

of the season, losing out in the overtime period.

Senior—The five o'clock fature between Dunlop A.C. and broadview seniors was the first of the season for the new club, and tho the game was played on the Y. floor, it was sunlop's game.

The rubberites put up a good argument, especially in the last half, when they switched the defence to the forward line, but the exceptionally good shooting of Cooper, with the team play of Ramsay, Pedlar and Elliott (the Y. players), kept well in t.— lead.
