utmost to assassinate the principle of public ownership. Mayor Urquhart was elected mayor of Toronto as the candicate of public ownership. He was reelected by acclamation on the strength of assurances that he was in civic politics for the unselfish advancement of public ownership.

Either Mayor Urquhart's friendship for public ownership was very weak or his party zeal was very strong. The fact is that he did not hesitate to make war on public ownership from the office to which he had been elected as a friend of public ownership. In this man advo cates of public ownership in Toronto are asked to again declare their confidence What reason have we to expect that Mayor Urquhart, who has proved himself unfaithful in the large question of public ownership, will prove himself more faithful in lesser questions of public ownership. He is without convictions on public ownership, in which case he has grossly deceived, the people of he has grossly deceived the people of Toronto, or he is so imbued with party zeal that his friendship for public ownership is not proof against party calls. In either case Thomas Urquhart is an undesirable man for the mayor's chair. He has placed before the city a scheme for expropriating the Toronto Street Railway. A word from Sir William Mulock to the effect that Liberal party's interests would not be served by the expropriation of the Toronto Street Railway would turn Mayor Urquhart away from the project just as he was turned away from public ownership by the call of his leaders in the late federal elections.

Mayor Urquhart cannot, even with The Telegram's assistance, ride two horses at once. He cannot persuade the people of Toronto that a man who open-

Lord Howard
DeWalden, probably the richest young man in England, has gone to East Africa on a hunting expedition for big game. He has purchased a large tritrory near Lake Victoria Nyanza, where he intends to establish a farm for breeding zebras. His estate, which consists entrely opposite to property in London, is worth over $1.
