"SECRETS REVEALED" How Neal Cures DRINK HABIT In Three Days

When it was first publicly announced three years ago that Doctor B. E. Neal had originated a treatment that removed the cause and overcame all the effects of excessive use of liquor in three days, physicians and laymen alike declared "It can't be done." In the face of opposition, skepticism and incredulity, the wonderful merits and remarkable results of the Neal treatment have been demonstrated in over 20,000 cases and proved in sixty splendid institutions established in principal cities in Canada and foreign countries.

The "secrets" of the Neal Three-day treatment have been "revealed" to all the thousands of physicians and all others who have investigated. The explanation is simple. Constant or excessive drinking causes the system to become saturated, with the poison of alcohol. No man can or will stop drinking until this poison is eliminated. The Neal treatment easily and quickly eliminates this poison, removes the cause and overcomes all the effects of excessive indulgence.

DIVISION ON HOME RULE BILL TONIGHT

Balfour, Instead of Law, Leads Opposition

PREMIER IN DEFENCE

Wm. O'Brien Suggests Conference to Bring Agreement—Labor Men For Home Rule—Whips Get All Into Line for Tonight

London, Jan. 15.—The Home Rule bill started on its final stage in the house of commons today and the occasion was marked by two speeches seldom excelled in the house, by the prime minister, Herbert H. Asquith, and Arthur J. Balfour, the former leader of the opposition, who have no equals as parliamentarians.

Other speakers representing all parties, followed, and the debate finally was adjourned until tomorrow, when a division will be taken. The bitterness which bills of this nature aroused in the past was largely absent in the discussion today, but with the harder hitting on the program for tomorrow, this may not be continued.

When the orders of the day were called and Mr. Balfour, at the request of the opposition leader, Andrew Bonar Law, moved the rejection of the measure, the house was crowded to its capacity and every seat in the galleries was occupied by interested listeners.

Mr. Balfour, who has been absent from parliament for some weeks, while not so fluent as the prime minister, delivered one of those telling speeches for which he is famous, and which rouses his supporters to the height of enthusiasm and commands the respect of his opponents.

He dealt with the bill in a general way and particularly laid stress on the case of Ulster, the present condition of which he likened to that of the American colonies before the revolution. He charged the government with showing a dangerous want of appreciation of that section. Pointing his finger at the government bench, Mr. Balfour concluded:

"If blood be spilled, which God forbid, the real assents will be those who have never had the courage to face the situation."

Premier Asquith defended the bill from every standpoint. He pleaded with the house to forget the past and give Ireland what its people demanded. He laid stress on the safeguards introduced in the bill to prevent Protestants from being oppressed by the majority and repeated the government's offer to insert any other reasonable safeguards, if only the opposition would consent to do so.

The premier recalled that Mr. Balfour had made the same gloomy prediction, as he did at the time when the Liberals gave self-government to South Africa.

The Unionist and Liberal continued the debate until after dinner, when T. P. O'Connor gave the bill his blessing in behalf of the Nationalists.

"No one would say," continued Mr. Balfour, "that the Roman Catholics will persecute in the old style or deliberately persecute the minority at all. But all that reconciles the minority in the north of Ireland to live under the control of the majority, who for generations religion and politics have been mixed up and under the control of the majority who have complete control of education and patronage? Ulstermen will be in the Irish parliament to be taxed, not to tax."

In rising to reply, the prime minister said: "The sentiment, traditions and now and then of the Nationalists which have made the Irish question what it now is, have not been taken into consideration by the old style or deliberately persecute the minority at all. But all that reconciles the minority in the north of Ireland to live under the control of the majority, who for generations religion and politics have been mixed up and under the control of the majority who have complete control of education and patronage? Ulstermen will be in the Irish parliament to be taxed, not to tax."

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful—And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangerous surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.
Paw Paw, Mich.: "Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has restored the health of thousands of suffering women. Why don't you try it?

The Right Honorable Louis Samuel, postmaster general, who had charge of the financial provisions of the bill defended them at length.

The Right Honorable James Henry

Campbell, serving as leader of the Unionists, in the absence of Sir Edward Carson, who, although he fought the bill close by, was unable to be present at the final stage on account of his wife's illness, repeated Ulster's objection to home rule, and declared that the bill would produce a generation of intercaste strife and permanent disaster to the progress of the country.
