The Contest in Kings.

There is always a spice of uncertainty about the result of a King's County election that gives a peculiar flavor to the contest. There are so many questions—party and personal, past, present and to come—before the electors that it is difficult to foresee the result of an appeal to them on any particular issue. King's County has been regarded by many as opposed to the Common Schools Act, while others claim that the statement is a libel. The election of Dr. Vail and Mr. Crawford to oppose the act, and the more recent triumph of Mr. Nowlan as an avowed repealer, are this is mild. Here is its complimentary notice of the members of the new House of Assembly:

We would willingly do much to get an honest, respectable Government. That, however, is out of the question. The next House of Assembly will not afford material for such a Government, and he is no true friend of the Province who, by ailing any effort to pull down the present rotten fabric will compel the Government to buy more islands, pay more obsolete unfounded claims, purchase more shingling machines and buy more votes and at a higher price than they would otherwise be compelled to do. The Province has had enough of that sort of thing. Let us, if possible, have no more of it. The members of the new Assembly who will talk independence will calk independence in the every Protestant clergyman in America, who desires to reccive it and will pay the postage, a copy of Swedenborg's "True Christian Religion," an octavo volume of over 600 pages.
