WOMEN WANT FANCY SHOES, PRICES HIGH; PLENTY OF LEATHER

Manufacturers Say All Could Have Cheap Shoes If Styles Were Plainer

"If women would only go back to reasonable plain shoes again we could all have cheap shoes."

"Women make the price of leather Men don't."

"Everybody from the dealer in hides to the retailer of finished shoes is being led on at top prices by women. And it's going right on until the women cry 'whoa.' We can't stop till they do."

Thus a tanner, a shoe manufacturer and a shoe-wholesaler place the blame for the high cost of footwear on the women. And they are all right, said Hoover led women to wear things on their feet for use instead of ornament the price of shoes would remain stationary or possibly go higher. Said he:

"The market is glutted with leather. Shoe factories are running at forty or fifty per cent. capacity. In Lynn, Mass., the greatest shoe manufacturing centre in the world, thirty-two factories have been closed light for more than four months. Retailers are placing few orders for new stock. Everything is at a standstill, and yet the price of shoes remains uncomfortably high, and here and there it is going up."

A large leather manufacturer questioned today denied that leather was being hoarded for high price. "We have all got thirty or forty per cent more leather than we had a year ago, and we want. We can't sell it. There isn't one of us that wouldn't be glad to sell it we could."

"Raw material hasn't decreased; buying hasn't. Even this man laid the blame on women when asked why such a situation existed. "Oh, the women won't decide what they are going to wear. Manufacturers can't find out whether they are going to wear short skirts and high shoes or long skirts and low ones. And they won't go ahead until they know."

An official of one firm manufacturing about 75,000 pairs of shoes a day declared that there was little tendency toward a drop in prices and said that his company is booking orders as far ahead as April 15th at present figures. There was a break in prices of certain kinds of kid, but in no other leathers, he said.

"The embargo on black kid has forced a break in that market and we are getting it at one-half what we had to pay a month ago. But that is temporary. The tanners will stop making black kid until the supply on hand is bought up."

"Do Women Wear Black Kid." "Besides women won't wear black kid. Even the washerwoman when she goes to get a pair of shoes won't buy plain black ones. She buys a pair of fancy ones, a little out of style at a sale."

Tan calf, such as is used in women's shoes and boots this manufacturer said, is costing as high as sixty-eight cents a square foot. It takes four square feet to make the uppers of a pair of high shoes, so that with the exorbitant price of leather material there is nearly $3 worth of raw material in a calf shoe before the sole is on. That plus the leather and other things, makes a shoe that must sell at a high price.

"Oh, it's a style game now. Eighty five per cent of the increase in the cost of shoes is due to the fact for fancy glazed shoes. We used to be able to manufacture several lines of staple shoes and be sure that we were going to get rid of them. Now we can't make any staple lines of shoes at all."

"If a new line does not sell heavily in ten days we get panicky, unload at anything we can get, and try to make up the loss on the next line."

This manufacturer lamented the craze of the last two years for fancy shoes, but general and the passion for glazed kid in particular. "Well, who leads the women on to

Algoma and an Author

Sault Ste. Marie.

If an author can be said to be the product of any particular district—and why not, just as much as a variety of flower, or fruit, or grain?—Alan Sullivan, the distinguished Canadian poet and novelist, should be most properly identified with Algoma, that curiously shaped county of Ontario, which stretches from the cities and settlements of the shores of Lake Huron and Lake Superior, up through the 2,900 square miles of the Missisquoi Forest Reserve, to the great furling terraces three hundred and sixty miles north, where it is bounded by the Albany River, the chief tributary of James Bay. The southern shores of this county were colonized some thirty years ago at the instance of C. P. R. agents, by hardy pioneers from the older counties of Kincardine and Bruce, and the city of Sault Ste. Marie has its roots in the remoter past, as it was a trading post for the furtraders of Montreal into the far West. Alan Sullivan, whose father was Bishop of the Algoma Diocese, was at one time engineer of the work of construction and ballasting the Algoma branch of the C. P. R. between Sudbury and the Sault Ste. Marie, and uses the local color in several of his short stories. "The Inner Door" he takes an interest in the more rapid growth of a distinctive Canadian literature.

Alan Sullivan, the hunters, the mail carriers, the Indian agents, and the trappers have provided rich material for Alan Sullivan's stories, some of the best of which have been collected in the volume called "The Passing of Owl-But." More recently he has enlarged his field, and in his latest volume "The Inner Door" he takes an interest in the more rapid growth of a distinctive Canadian literature. Loid at Rest

MRS. S. BURKE. Rev. David Alexander conducted a quiet funeral service yesterday at 12 o'clock in the home of her son, Thomas, Erie avenue, before his deceased mother, the late Mrs. Selma Burke, was carried to her last resting place at Hartford Cemetery, where many of her kindred and friends are buried. Rev. Mr. Near of Hartford conducted a beautiful service in the Baptist Church, and was assisted by Rev. D. Alexander at the church and grave. Only five weeks ago old Mrs. Burke moved into the beautiful home of her son, expecting to spend the evening of her days there in the bosom of her family and friends, but God willed it otherwise. She however, did not fear death. She lived her life in the fear and love of God and died in peace. Her two sisters, Mrs. Hartley, of this city, and Mrs. Swift, of Hartford, feel keenly her passing. Her sons, Mr. H. E. Thomas, of Hamilton, and Mr. R. J. Thomas, of this city, and her daughter, Mrs. C. Wilcox, of 182 Murray street, who have lost a noble and faithful mother, have the sincere sympathy of a wide circle of friends. A large gathering of people at Hartford assembled at the church out there to pay their last respects to one universally respected.
