

FINK OF THE YEAR—Due to her resemblance to the many finkish characters on campus, we hereby choose this still warm moose-face as the personification of all finks. She was left in The Gateway office, still dripping blood, early last week. The source is unknown, and would probably wish to remain anonymous due to the season and the sex of the animal.

UGH! XAMS

By Branny Shepanovich

The plague is upon us! Administration has posted the tentative final examinations schedule in main spots around campus.

Schedules appear in the rotunda of the Arts Building, in the Engineering Building, the Education Building, the Administration Building, the Math-Physics Building and in the Medical Building.

Of interest to all students will be the fact that this year the final examinations have been consolidated into 10 days rather than 14, as in previous years. As a result, more students may have to write more than one exam in one day. Only in the case of direct conflict will a change in the examinations schedule be considered.

Following the white-paper schedule, a green-paper schedule will be put up. Students having conflicts in their exam programs should notify the Registrar's office as soon as possible.

The green-paper schedule will be up for seven days, and then the final pink draft will be put up. Students must give notice of conflict before the pink schedule goes up.

Places of writing will be posted at a later date.

Seating lists will be posted three or four days before each final.

The outgoing students' council made its final bow on a note that waxed almost poetic. Shifting uneasily in their chairs and grinning sheepishly, the councillors sanctioned the expenditure of another $92—for expenses incurred by the visit of a musician named Stan Kenton.

MLA Against Beds Bodies Hard To Get Walter Had Good Year

by Bill Samis

"This has been a very good year at the University of Alberta," Dr. Walter H. Johns, University president, told The Gateway Monday. "It has been one of the best years with regard to student affairs in my memory," he said.

Two honorary doctoral degrees will be presented at the fall Convocation, Dr. Johns announced Tuesday.

Chief Justice Colin Campbell McLaurin, of the trial division, Alberta Supreme Court, and Ian Nicholson McKinnon, chairman of the national energy board, will receive the doctor of laws degrees.

The Convocation is to be held in the Southern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium, Calgary, on Saturday, November 18. Mr. McLaurin studied law at the University of Alberta, graduating in 1922.

Bodies (deceased) may become harder to obtain if a bill currently before the Alberta Legislature is passed.

The bill, which would amend section 81 (1) of the University Act, was introduced last week by the Hon. E. C. Manning, and received second reading Monday, March 13.

Presently, The University can demand any body (deceased) unclaimed after a reasonable length of time by the family or legal representatives.

The amendment will empower the Public Trustee to demand any body (deceased) and bury same if he can secure the funds to do so.

"The place for a bed is in the bedroom and not racing up and down the province's highways," Harry Strom (Social Credit, Cypress) indicated in the Alberta Legislature, Monday. Bed-pushing could lead to a serious accident, he said. "I do wish the students would stop racing up and down the province with beds when darkness falls," the member stated.

Marc Berzsky and Eli Shtabsky, both law 2, won the Huggill intramural debating championship Wednesday, with capacity crowd looking on in the West Lounge of SUB. They turned back Dave Parsons and John Burns, two first-year arts and science students who won a series of upset victories in advancing to the final. The judges were split 2-1.
