FREDERICTON, N.B. OCTOBER 2, 195

A Little More Co-operation
On Thursday evening following the Sophomore court about 150 freshman embarked on the traditional march down town. This 150 freshman embarked on the traditional march down town. This year's parade was marked case in some previous years. The students proceeded in a relatively orderly fashion to the centre of town an

Rink

This was, then, the order of things on Thursday evening. This good spirit and student jubilation is a good thing and should not be discouraged if it is carried out in the fashion it was this fall. The own and that they, as citizens, should take a more lively interest in the college activities.

The parade was marred by one thing-the actions of the City Police. It would not be too harsh to assert that their acivities were little short of stupidity; that their incompetence in handling affairs of this calibre was painfully abvious. It appears that the Police Force is under the impression that traffice right through it. In pursuit of this "Policy", they directed cars through the students from behind at about 20 miles an hour. The result was that several students on different occasions had to jump to avoid being struck hard by the cars. This had several reslits. One was to antagonize the hrong and to make it more compact. It did not succeed in breaking up the parade. If and when the students parade downatown and if they do so this kind of behaviour. Student parades do not as a rule last long. Student parades at 9 on a Thursday evening do not seriously hamper any amount of traffic Student parades do not happen more than two or three times a year. A little more common sense on the part of police of icials would greatly assist relations between students and the itizens of Fredericton

In addition, this sort of "control" could disrup might result in a great deal of trouble in the future.
...Growing Up
It is not without some concern that one views the phenomenal increase of students this year that threatents to advance eurolment at U.N.B. to twice the figure of a few years ago. This means in becoming a large educational institution. In addition, there is no reason to suppose that this increase will slow down in the future It is clear, of course, that more money will be flowing into the university with these new students. But in very few instances does the fee revenue pay for the student while at university and in any case will certainly not cover construction of the new facilities that have become necessary. A cursory glance at the expansion policies of the university for the past decade will reveal that new buildings have been built only when the need for them has become so pressing that a crisis seemed imminent. In this manner the university has grown, bulging out in one place until the new arrivals have been facilitated and then swelling out somewhere else It is somewhat like the man who drove 700 cattle into pens buil for 400 and then only when the cattle threatened to burst out the for 400 and then only when the cattle threatened to burst out the fence, had additional pens built. It should be noted that the presen fence, had additional pens built. It should be noted that the present them, and the additional room afforded by the new chemistry build ing and engineering annex will only partly satisfy. A university should grow in anticipation of its needs and not as a result of them Thus an architect designs a building for a particular reason, and if sufficient foresight prevails, its limitations will not be any future expansion will take place along orderly lines There is sufficient inconvenience now to warrant caution in the future. It is with great satisfaction that we note the reference mad future. It is with great satisfaction that we note the reference made summer. Either we are to embark on a tremendous construction scheme, or more practical perhaps, limit enrolment through highe standards and attempt to furnish current students with adequate facilities. Thus we can progress in steps, making room for a definite increase each time until an enrollment is reached beyon which it would be impracticable to veenture.

STOP and THINK!

It is with regret that we note a letter in a recent issue of the Gleaner Gleaner concerning what is rightly regarded by intelligent peopi as a disgusting phenomenon-racial prejudice. It appears that student was ejected from a home in Fredericton where he had taken a room, BECAUSE OF THE COLOR OF HIS SKIN. We migh a room, BECAUSE OF THE COLOR OF HIS SKIN. We might landlord who ordered him out. The present occupants themselves have now decided to move

Canada's name is synomymous with the concept of Freedom throughout the world today. We enjoy a measure of freedom and constitutional tolerance unparalleled anywhere. Thus, we cannot and should not give exhibitions that will in any way reflect on our the Spanish Inquisition, The Star Chamber and the SS
If a person will stop and think, he will realize -that those very people, who, because of their skin are regarded by some as belonging to a lower species, constitute over half the population of the world; that we can only win the people of Asia to democracy by prac ising that freedom of which we are so proud -that racial prejudice is one of the most repugnant features of um nature.

The cure is education; international education. We have the acilities for this education in the United Nations. They should be thus promote good will and tolerence in a divided world.

For Another Year

Freshman week is over for another year. Judging by the record number of freshmen this year, it was the sophomores who were rethe spohbomore class, ably headed by Hhil Hooper are to be congratulated, By the way, there was another freshman class larger than the current one, but if recollection serves correctly, they were not initiated. It appears that the freshmen, veterans in 1945, took a rther dim view of the practise but invited the sophomore to come down to Alexander College and "do their stuff". Needless to say the sophs, outnumbered about ten to one, didn't comply.
The one criticism of the frosh activities this year stems from the freshman. Some students feel that they had not enough spirit Perhaps, in were not too "spirited".

The traditional sophomore cuort was held Thursday night in the Boxing Room. Apart from a few roars from the frosh everything was carried out smoothly and professionaly. Several students were brought up before the tribunal and received their sentences. Those two re-accuring attornies, the sentences. Those two re-accuring attornies, the Hon. James E of abetting justice . . . All upperclassmen escaped

Now that these days are over, the frosh can settle down to Art Connoisseurs I was much pleased with your ridicule of those shallow critics, whose judgment, though often right as far as it goes, yet reaches only to inferior beauties, reaches only to inferior beauties, unable to comprehend and who, unable to comprehend and from thence determine the merit of extensive works. There is another kind of critic still worse, who judges by narrow rules, and those often too false, and which, though they should be true, and founded on nature, will lead him but a very little way towards the just estimation f genius; for whatever part of of genius; for whatever part of an art can be executed or criticized by rules, that part is no onger the work of genius, which mplies excellence out of the reach of rules. For my own part, I profess myself an Idler, and love to give my judgment, such as it is, from my immediate per as it is, from my immediate perceptions, without much fatigue of thinking: and I am of fainion, that if a man has not these perceptions right, it will be vain for him to endeavor to supply their place by rules, which may enable him to talk more learnedly, but not to distinguish more acutely. Another reason that has lessened my affection for the study of criticism is, that critics, as far as I have observed, debar as far as I have observed, deba themselves from receiving any themselves from receiving an pleasure from the polite arts, at the same time that they profes to love and admire them: fo these rules, being almost upper most, give them such a pro pensity to criticize, that, instea of giving up the reins of the hands, their frigid minds are hands, their frigid minds are emperformance be according to th rules of art

DEBATING

Many times in the course istory, great questions have bee debate. The debates of Dema henes in ancient Athens played vital and often decisive role in the politics of success. The fanous debate between Martin Lather and John Eck at Leipzig (Continued on Page 3)
