

Problem' is being compiled. It will contain, besides the continuation of the Dialogue between the Dreamer and the sage Vasishtha and special contributions received from eminent writers, a symposium of answers to the undermentioned 14-points which friends, interested in search after ultimate truth, are cordially invited to write:

1. Who is it that dreams, who is it that dreams, and who is it that wakes up?

2. If it is one and the same person, what prevents him from knowing, during his dream state, that he it is who, before going to sleep was waking, and is now dreaming and what reminds him on awakening that he it was who was dreaming when asleep?

3. If the personality in each state is different, what becomes of the waking-state personality during dream and what of the dream personality during waking state?

4. If, as many believe, the dream world is external to the dreamer and is real and independent of the waking world, who is its creator and what are the distinctive features of the dream world that will help the dreamer to distinguish it from the waking world during his dream state?

5. Are there any other worlds (astral, mental, spiritual, etc.) besides the two commonly known worlds of dream and waking states, where men after
