

"EXPERT EVIDENCE" DR. SCOTT'S STOCK COMPOUND

Finds favor with the largest exporters and importers and undoubtedly the best judges in Canada.

READ THIS:

There is no Stock Food or Blood Purifier on the market to-day that gives the universal satisfaction and does all that its proprietor claims for it as Dr. Scott's Dietetic Stock Compound. Knowing the ingredients that it is composed of, I strongly advised the Dalgetty Bros., the largest importers and exporters in Canada, to give Dr. Scott's Compound a trial with their horses on board ship, and to our utmost delight the consignments have landed with their legs in natural condition, free from the swelling and staking that we were continually troubled with, their coats and skin in glossy condition, appetite good, and, in fact, the horses were in shape to show to customers and sell right off the boat, and continued to thrive and gain flesh.

Dietetic Stock Compound strengthens the digestive organs and acts mildly on the excretory organs; in fact, tones up the whole system, enabling the animal to get full benefit of all the nourishment contained in the food. Since using this compound our stables at home and abroad have never been without it.

For debilitated and unthrifty animals we consider it has no equal as a flesh and health producer, and cheerfully recommend its use. Signed,

E. A. BLACKWELL,

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

COWS WITH SORES ON TEATS.

I have a cow, bought for milk, three weeks ago. About six days ago, one of her teats got a skin sore on it, and since all her teats are covered with the same I need not say there is a deal of trouble to milk her. She is in at night, and well cared for. Please let me know if there is any danger in the milk or to the milker, and best way to treat her. The sores are light and scaly, still they sometimes bleed during milking.

Ans.—Provided the eruption is not due to variola there is not any danger to the persons consuming the milk, or to the person milking. We would recommend you to foment the udder, and dress it twice daily with boracic ointment. If the teats are very sore, teat syphons should be used when milking. It would be advisable to give her a full dose of saline purgative medicine.

HORSE WITH SWELLING ON LEGS.

I have a horse, whether idle or working his four legs swell at night, around, under and over the fetlock joint; partly goes away during the day, but latterly the skin is thick and leathery around the fetlocks. I gave him half a dozen packets of Hawthorne's Blood Salts, and a few drams sulphate of potash, but there was no marked improvement. He is in good working condition, and his principal rations are mangels, good hay and oat straw. Kindly advise treatment. I do not think there is any symptom of grease, heat or smell, etc. J. F.

Ans.—The swelling is evidently dependent on some defect of the circulation. We would recommend not to give him mangels. Stable him in a comfortable loose box, and feed him on crushed oats and hay, with an occasional well-steamed bran mash. When unharnessed at night, his legs should be well brushed and then bandaged with woollen bandages. Give the following powder each evening for ten days: salicylate of soda, 2 drs.; powdered Calumba root, 1 dr.; powdered ginger, 1 dr.; powdered liquorice root, 30 grains.

FISTULAR WITHERS

I have a valuable Clydesdale mare with a bad attack of fistular withers. My veterinarian has put two setons through the affected side, and has run off a tremendous amount of matter, but, to all appearance, she is no better, and I am afraid the other side of the wither is going to be affected also. He has given me a bottle of tablets (red in color), one of which I am to dissolve in a pint of warm water, and inject into the wound once a day. He says it is to bring away any diseased bone. Kindly say if you think this treatment right, and if you would not advise that the affected part be laid clean open, and try and get wound healed out from bone. The mare has been bad for three months. A. F.

Ans.—In all cases it is a mistake to dally. Lay the wound clear open on both sides of the withers, if necessary. Setons are ineffectual, as they cannot possibly cure. When the wound is exposed, heal from the bone with dressings of oxide of zinc ointment, in the proportion of one to five of lard. Suggest this treatment, and probably he will agree with you. The chances are, under any circumstances, he knows the case better than you, although the mare may be your own property.

At the Franklin Inn, a literary club of Philadelphia, a group of young novelists were citing similes and metaphors that they liked. Harrison Morris, the poet and art critic, said:

"A simile that appealed to me strangely was one made in the trial of a thief. This thief was a young man of refined appearance, and during his trial it was shown that he had turned to dishonest courses in order to earn the money wherewith to study for a clergyman's degree. The prosecuting attorney said of his strange conduct:

"This young man, becoming a thief in order eventually to become a clergyman, is like the outspan who turns his back upon the place he is steering for."
