

SEVEN YEARS PAIN FROM ACUTE NEURALGIA

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom. It is the surest sign that your blood is weak, watery and impure, and that your nerves are literally starving. Bad blood is the one cause—good, rich, red blood its only cure. There you have the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains, in correct proportions, the very elements needed to make new, rich, red blood. This alone reaches the root of the trouble, soothes the jangled nerves, and drives away the nagging, stabbing pain, and braces up your health in other ways. Mr. M. Brennan, an ex-sergeant of the 2nd Cheshire Regiment, now a resident of Winnipeg, Man., says: "While serving with my regiment in India, on a hill station, I contracted a severe cold which brought on acute neuralgia, at times lasting for three weeks. I was constantly suffering almost every month in the year for over seven years, the pain being sometimes so severe that I wished I was dead. On my return to England I seemed to get no better, though I spent large sums of money for medical advice and medicine. Then I came to Canada, and about a year ago saw the advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a Winnipeg paper. Although I had begun to think my complaint was incurable I told my wife that I intended giving the Pills a fair trial. I was suffering from terrible pains when I began taking the Pills, but before the second box was finished the pain began to disappear, and under a further use of the Pills it disappeared entirely, and I have not had a twinge of it during the past year. Only those who have been afflicted with the terrible pains of neuralgia can tell what a blessing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been to me, and you may be sure I shall constantly recommend them to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THEY SELDOM BATHE.

Three Times is the Limit of Some Russian Peasants.

The average Russian peasant bathes only three times from the cradle to the grave, according to Prof. Simon Baruch. The three momentous occasions which the Russian honors by immersing himself are, the lecturer explained, "when he is born, when he is married and when he is laid in his coffin."

"The non-bathing Russians," he continued, "have their substitute in the sweat bath. A Russian peasant, if he can get one in no other fashion, will sometimes creep into the oven after the bread has been baked. Russia has, however, paid a price for its aversion to water in the tremendous increase of cholera, a dirt disease, from 12,000 cases in 1906 to 210,000 last year."

As a matter of fact, however, the common idea that bathing opens the pores of the skin is not well grounded. What it really does is to keep the delicate muscles under the skin in healthy condition and assist the work of the capillaries, which carry the blood to the surface of the body."

LAKE CHAD DRYING UP.

Lake Chad, in Africa, is drying up in its northern parts. Captain Ith, an explorer, writes in the Geographical Journal: "You understand our country, four years after having made our first map of Lake Chad, to see what was the aspect which this constantly changing lake was likely to present. When we arrived in the vicinity of the lake we learned from the natives that caravans were crossing on dry land the northern portion, which in 1904 we had navigated on board the Benoit Garnier; that the central portion was merely a marsh where no boat could pass; whereas in the southern portion certain channels which had formerly been closed to navigation had become once more navigable."

"I'll never entrust my practice to a beginner again."

"What did the young doctor do?"

"Cured half my patients while I was away."

SOME CLEVER ELEPHANTS

THEY STACK TIMBER AND WORK AS BRICKLAYERS.

These Animals are the Only Ones That Can Stand the Climate of Africa.

Although there has been some attempt to ridicule the objects of a society in Paris called "The Friends of the Elephant," which recently held its first general meeting, there is much evidence to show that the members are quite right in their contention that big-game hunters are exterminating a race of animals which, if caught and properly trained, would prove of the greatest value to man. According to M. Gaston Tournier, the general secretary of the society, 50,000 elephants are killed every year by big-game hunters, irrespective of those killed by natives. There are still some 350,000 elephants in Africa, which, if made to work for their living, would be worth something like $300,000,000. If dead they would only be worth a matter of $25,000,000. "The Friends of the Elephant," therefore, want to put an end to the killing, and to show that wholesale slaughter of the elephant is a colossal mistake. For, as they point out, one domesticated and well-trained elephant can do the work of thirty men. In fact, properly applied one elephant could run a good-sized farm.

AN ELEPHANT FARM.

As recently stated in the journal of the Royal Society of Arts, one of the great obstacles to agricultural development in the equatorial districts of Africa is the difficulty of procuring beasts of burden. Horses have been tried in vain, and oxen soon become useless. That is why the experiment which is being carried on by Commandant Laplune at Api, in the Congo Free State, is being watched with keen interest. The Commandant has started an elephant farm, and now possesses some fifty trained elephants. They are captured quite young, and so far from being intractable, as many people imagine elephants to be, they prove willing and wonderful workers.

They are broken in just like horses. The driver, getting on good terms with the animal, first mounts her in the stable. The next step is to put on some simple harness, by which two baskets may be carried on either side, and these are filled with loads. After this a breast-band is used, and the elephant begins to draw a light tree-trunk, then a little cart, and finally a heavy wagon. In the case of carts and wagons the animals are generally harnessed in pairs, but for ploughing they are driven singly.

OF ASSISTANCE TO HUNTERS.

Furthermore, they are trained to assist the hunters in catching other elephants; and the story is told of a female elephant which had been trained as a decoy—a fact of which its owner was not aware—which disappeared for some days. About a week later she returned, and led the way to a spot where a male elephant was discovered, round whose legs, secured in the most approved fashion to four trees, was the iron chain with which she was usually fastened to her own picket at night-time. Apparently she was resolved to resume her old employment, and had consequently set about carrying on the profession on her own account, thus securing one of the finest elephants that had been taken for many years.

In Eastern countries elephants do wonderful work in the way of dragging and sorting timber and in breaking up obstructions caused by logs and miscellaneous fotsam in streams. Colonel F. T. Pollok says he has often watched the elephants in a timber yard, and the human way in which they will test the weight of a log requires to be seen to be credited. The tusker will lift up one end with his trunk, and, if he deems it within his power to lift the whole, he will shift his trunk gradually until he gets to the exact centre, then by kneeling down he will roll the log on to his tusks and will carry it either to be stacked or to the saw-mill.

ELEPHANTS AS BUILDERS.

In tea estates the elephants are occasionally employed to help in building construction by keeping the masons supplied with blocks of stone, and if the wall be not too high they will not only take the block up, but lay it quite correctly in its proper place. A Ceylon elephant used regularly to lay stones in this way under the orders of an overseer, to whom he used to signal to inspect and "pass" the work done and to give permission for fresh courses to be laid.

On one occasion the elephant placed himself against part of the wall, thus preventing the overseer from examining that part of the job. The latter, however, insisted on the animal moving aside, and the elephant, seeing his ruse had failed, at once began to pull down the wall which he had just built, and which he was quite aware was badly done, at the very spot where he had tried to conceal it from the eye of his master.

A Burmese ship captain also tells a story of a female elephant which while anchored off the coast, he frequent saw come out of the jungle to bathe in the sea, accompanied by her youngster. The little chap used to keep in the shallow water while the mother ventured farther out; but one morning, while his parent was not looking, the youngster got beyond his depth, became frightened, and made a great to-do. The mother pulled him ashore and gave him a good spanking with her trunk. Each succeeding morning the little one was compelled to stand on the bank while the mother first bathed herself and afterwards washed him down with water fetched in her trunk.

The Flies that are now in your kitchen and dining-room were probably feasting on some indescribable nastiness less than an hour ago, and as a single fly often carries many thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body, it is the duty of every housekeeper to assist in exterminating this worst enemy of the human race. Wilson's Fly Pads kill flies in such immense quantities as cannot be approached by any other fly killer.

NECESSARY PRELIMINARY.

"Can't you assume a little more pleasing expression of countenance?" asked the photographer.

"Yes, sir," hesitatingly answered sinner. "Wait a minute and I'll take off those new shoes."

MINNICOGANASHENE.

A hard name to pronounce, called locally "Minnicog." This is a picturesque summer resort on one of the largest islands of the Georgian Bay, only 3 1/2 hours run by the Grand Trunk Railway System from the City of Toronto, Canada, and beautifully situated among the 20,000 islands of that territory. Splendid hotel accommodation, good fishing, fine boating, and no hay fever. Bass, trout, pickerel, and pike abound. For illustrated descriptive matter and all information, write to A. E. DUFE, Union Station, Toronto.

WISE YOUTH.

Johnny had been naughty, and his mother told him that he could choose between a whipping and being shut up in the cellar.

"Who will whip me—you or papa?" queried Johnny.

"Your papa," was the reply.

"Then it's the cellar for mine," rejoined the wise youngster.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women.—The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Their action, while wholly effective, is mild and agreeable. No violent pains or purgings follow their use, as thousands of women who have used them can testify. They are, therefore, strongly recommended to women, who are more prone to disorders of the digestive organs than men.

Mrs. M. Barrett, 656 Avenue St. Montreal, says: "A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors, 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 10 boxes for $4.50. A certain cure for all skin diseases, cuts, burns, etc., and for piles.

ED. 4 ISSUE 31-11

THE GROWTH OF LONDON.

The tendency to crowd into cities, which is so marked in all civilized countries, has a curious illustration in the census of 1911, which shows the tremendous attraction of London as a center of population. The population of Greater London has increased in the last 10 years from 6,581,402 to 7,252,963, or 10.2 per cent. In the meantime, however, the population of the other largest cities in England has in most cases increased by relatively small percentages. Birmingham has grown from 523,179 to 525,960; Bristol from 339,042 to 357,050; Leeds from 428,968 to 445,568; Liverpool from 704,134 to 746,566; Manchester from 644,873 to 714,427, and Sheffield from 409,070 to 454,653. The rate of increase of Manchester and Sheffield alone slightly exceeds that of London, the others falling far behind it. The percentage for Birmingham is only 0.53 per cent. Some of the smaller cities, nevertheless, have increased much more rapidly than the metropolis, Coventry, for instance, having grown from 69,978 to 106,377 or 52.01 per cent., a truly American showing.

JUST CLASSICS.

"Yes, sir, I fully realize that she has been very carefully brought up, and I realize she has had every luxury."

"Can you—"

"No, sir. I admit I cannot fully support her in the style to which she has been accustomed, but I will make a good husband."

"Will you—"

"Yes, sir. I will always work hard to keep her in comparative ease."

"Would you—"

"No, sir, I would not expect any assistance from you."

"Young man, I rather like your style. You don't waste any time."

"Good—"
