FEBUARY 11, 1906 JESUS CALLING FISHERMEN.-Luke

Commentary .- I. Jesus teaching the people (vs. 1-3). I. The people pressed—Leaving Nazareth our Lord went to Capernaum and perhaps abode in the house of Peter. The power of his preaching drew crowds, which pressed upon Him as He walked along the white beach which forms the margin of Lake Gen-nesaret. To hear—There was a good prospect for a glorious revival of religion. There were times in the life of our Lord when thousands were anxious to hear Him, for the common people heard Him gladly. Lake of Gennesaret—The most sacred sheet of water which this earth contains .- Stanley. Called also the Sea of Galilee, the Sea of Tiberias, and in of Galilee, the Sea of Tiberias, and in the Old Testament the Sea of Chinne-roth (Josh, xii. 3). It is a clear lake about twelve miles long and five broad, with the Jordan River flowing through it. Its fish were valuable. "In Christ's time it was covered with a fleet of 4,000 vessels, from fishing boats to ships of war."—Cam. Bib. This was the region of the early lebors of our Lord. of the early labors of our Lord.

2. Two ships—fishing boats. They must have been small. This is clear from the accounts given of them. A few men could handle one, and a single large draught of fish endangered them. Standing by— Anchored, or drawn up upon the beach. The fishermen—Peter, Andrew, James and John. Washing their rets—They had spent the night in fruitless effort and now they were cleaning the filth of the sca from the threads of the nets and mending any defective or broken parts. 3. One of the ships— The ship of James and John appeared to be at some distance away; this one belonged to Simon Peter and to his brother Andrew. See Mark i. 16. Prayed him -Asked him. Jesus in a familiar manwas a small bay or cove, and that when and there in the home, and the girl had he was in the boat the people on the shore stood round him in the form of an "Catch men" (v. 10). The sevenfold amphitheatre. No doubt the lake was still so that his voice was undisturbed.

If the draught of fishes (vs. 4-7). 4. Launch out—Christ forgot His own weariness and only seemed to remember the disappointment of His followers in toiling all night in vain. This verse has often been used to illustrate the fact that Christ would have us leave the shore of selfishness, worldliness and sin and fluness. For a draught—Let down your nets for the taking of fish.

Master—This is the first time that the word here translated master is used in the New Testament, and it is used only by Luke. The other evangelists call Him Rabbi or Lord.—Barnes. This is not the word usually rendered master, but is a title of revent. Vate how few light in the latter country at the more to us than a theory or doctrine. To be able to say with a happy by Luke. The other evangelists call Him Rabbi or Lord.—Barnes. This is not the word usually rendered master, but is a will at teach, our salvation must be no doubt of word usually rendered master, but is a will at the control of t was that they would catch anything. The night was the best time for catching certain kinds of fish and if they had caught nothing then they could not expect to catch any in the daytime. This is no doubt reported by Luke to cause the miracle to appear all the more striking. At thy word—No doubt Peter was weary and somewhat discouraged, but he had faith enough in Christ to lead Him to go at the direction of His Divine Master.

6. Their net brake—"Their nets were breaking."—R. V. There was such a multitude of fishes that a snap in some weak times results from lack of furnishing. To give those were to be His ambassars to the world a specimen of the success they expect."—Henry.

III. The disciples astonished (vs. 8, 9). 8. Simon Peter-IIis full name is here given, for this is the turning point in his life.—Riddle. Simon is destined to his life.—Riddle. Simon is destined to become Peter, a rock. "Feter' expresses the possibilities Jesus saw in the nature of Simon." Saw—It seems that it was not till Peter saw the boats beginning to sink that he realized the greatness of the miracle. Fell down—The common posture of a suppliant. Juman heart and know its secret sins. In his hasty agony as an impure man, and not for any special crime or sin, he almost sinfully prays, not that his soul might be purified to endure the glance of the great Searcher, but that the Searcher would withdraw His eye and leave him, alas! in sin.—Whedon. The exclamation of Peter was wrung from exclamation of Peter was wrung from a heart touched with a sense of humility, and his words did not express his thoughts.—Ferrar. 11. Ships to land—They drew them up on the beach for a final abandonment. Forsook all—Although it was not much which they had to seave, yet it was all they had, even all their living. The sacrifice was a willing one and showed their love for Christ and a readiness to down His as really as though they had. their love for Christ and a readiness to obey His as really as though they had left palaces or fields of gold. These disciples had before received a call, but they were permitted to remain in charge of their business; now they received a "full apostolic summons," and accordingly forsook all worldly employment and gave themselves fully to the service of Christ. Followed Him—"They returned again to their occupation as fishermen after the crucifixion and were again called to abandon it and devote again called to abandon it and devote themselves by a second miraculous draught of fishes and by the direct pre-cept of Jesus. PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS. "Launch oue into the deep" (v. 4). The possibilities of grace are symbolized by the sea. The Christian is compassed by divine care as the ship is compassed by the sea. God's love is an ocean broad and deep, n which we are invited to live God would not have us shallow, coast-bound Christians. The land squalls of worldly ambition, the treacherous rocks of sensuality and worldly pleasures, the unsuspected sand bars of fraud and dishonesty, are close to the coast. Keep away from the danger of shipwreck. Cut loose from everything. Put out from the shore. Where you are, life will be failure, and labor unsatisfactory. the shore line. Lose yourself in God's love. Let him be to you "a place of broad rivers and streams" (Isa. xxxiii. 21). Launch away out, and be carried away by the current of his love.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

SISTER DIES SUDDENLY: BROTHER SWALLOWS POISON.

A Port Arthur despatch: Yesterday morning when Archibald Cameron en-tered his wife's room at the King Edward Hotel, which they owned and conducted, he found her breathing her last. Doctors called in pronounced death due o heart failure.

This sudden death turned into a double tragedy, when this morning a brother of Mrs. Cameron, Andrew Arthur, who lived at the New Ontario Hotel, was found dead. An investigation is being held to ascertain the cause of death, which, it is thought, is a case of suicide. Early this morning Mr. Arthur entered the bar and remarking to the barkeeper that now his sister was dead he had lost the only true friend he had, and that he would soon be lying by her side, asked for a glass, securing which he ascended the stairs to his room, where he later was found dead. It is supposed he took some form of poison. The father of the dead man, Mr. Thos.
