STORY OF A DREAM
Curious Slumber Vision and Its Sequence in Real Life.

A WARNING OR A COINCIDENCE
Whichever of the Theories May Be Selected as the Answer to the Problem, It Was a Singular and Puzzling Psychological Experience.

The following real life experience, which is interesting both as a story and for the psychological problems it involves, is related to the Pathfinder by one of its women readers:
"In a dream one night it seemed that I awoke and found myself lying on a mattress placed on the floor of a room entirely devoid of furniture. In my dream I felt considerable surprise at finding myself in such a situation, and I looked about in dismay and alarm. Upon trying to move I found to my horror that I was weak and sick, and I fell back on the pillow exhausted and much depressed.
"Just then the door of the room opened and a man entered. He was extraordinarily tall and was very dark and thin. Instinctively I felt that he was my doctor. I asked him where I was and what was wrong. Slowly and solemnly he answered:
"'You have smallpox.'
"'At this juncture I awoke, greatly horrified and agitated. All day my dream stood out with frightful vividness in my mind. At length in the hope of relieving myself of some of its unpleasantness I related it to several of my friends. Without exception they earnestly advised me to be vaccinated at once, and I did so.
"'A few days later I was in New York city. As I walked along I noted many fruit vendors with quantities of fine looking white grapes piled up on their carts. The fruit was so tempting that I stopped before one of the carts and asked the young fellow in charge of it to weigh out two pounds for me. As he was waiting on me I saw him cast a furtive glance behind him, then despite my request that he give me my grapes at once, he seized the handle of his cart and with most of his fellow merchants trundled rapidly away.
"'I looked in the opposite direction and saw a man, evidently a city official, who was ordering the few remaining fruit vendors to 'move on.' I was coming in my direction, and as I was somewhat incensed at the summary departure of the vender before he could sell me the grapes I wanted, I decided to wait and give the cause of the trouble a piece of my mind.
"'On looking up to address him I was startled to find myself face to face with the living counterpart of the physician who in my dream had informed me that I had the smallpox. Recovering my self possession as best I could, I said, 'Will you kindly tell me why these fruit men are so persecuted? Instead of idling their time away in saloons or on park benches they try to earn an honest living by selling fruit. I think this is entirely commendable. Why are they not allowed to conduct their business in peace?'
"'All this sounds very well,' replied the man, 'but there is another side to this question. These people are poor and as a matter of economy live very closely, several families sometimes occupying a single room. Not long ago in one of their habitations I saw on a bed one of their women suffering with a contagious disease. Under the bed was a stock of fruit which one of the men took out on the street the following day to sell. At present we are obliged to watch these people very carefully in order to prevent a general spread of this terrible disease, but—and he looked squarely at me—if you do not mind having smallpox I see no reason why you should be prevented from patronizing the fruit vendors all you please.'
"'For several minutes we stood there, and neither of us said a word. Then the dark man walked off in one direction and I in the other. When I had gone a short distance something prompted me to look around. I did so and was startled to see the man of my dreams looking thoughtfully at me. Instantly it flashed over me, 'He has had a dream of me and recognizes me as I did him.'
"'Whether or not such was the case I have never learned, but I do know that so far I have escaped smallpox. Was my dream a warning, I wonder, or was it merely a dream, and was my meeting the tall, dark, thin man nothing more than a coincidence?"

WAR NEWS

No Excuse to Be Without Reliable Up-to-Date News from the Battle Front
Since assuming control of the Reporter, the present editor has been looking for some means of adding to the list of subscribers those who in Athens and surrounding district, do not receive the home paper. There is no reason why the circulation of the Reporter can not be doubled. Subscribers are requested in their interest and ours, to draw the attention of their non-subscriber friends to this exceptional offer.
We have pleasure in announcing an arrangement completed with that great family paper, The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, by which we can offer The Reporter and The Family Herald and Weekly Star for the balance of 1916, or until January 1st, 1917, for the small sum of 75 cents.
The Family Herald and Weekly Star is noted for its reliable war news each week, and is replete with most interesting stories from the battlefield. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is a family paper all Canada is proud of, and when combined with The Reporter, our readers are supplied with all local news and news of the world. In addition to the news, the reader receive in The Family Herald each week a magazine section equivalent to several of the best monthly magazines printed. The Agricultural section is another feature of that great weekly which is keenly appreciated and is alone worth many times the subscription price. We now offer the two papers for only 75 cents until January, 1917. Present readers of The Reporter may have The Family Herald and Weekly Star for the balance of 1916 for only 40 cents.

Three Legged Calf
A noble Ayrshire cow on the farm of Wilbur McArthur, near Martin-town, dropped a three legged calf recently. The calf is still living and is well developed in all particulars except for the shortage of leg supply. On May 8th at less than two weeks old, it weighed 1100 lbs. The calf walks around, runs arounds and kicks up its heels in a truly marvelous fashion in spite of its handicap. The calf which is a male, is much the same as any other except that it has no front shoulder and leg. The right front leg is longer and stronger than normal and is placed in towards the centre of breast. This enables the calf to stand or run around.—Brockville Recorder.

It will be worthy of note to all parties sending papers to England or to the front, that the postal rate has been changed and all papers are now charged at the rate of one cent for every two ounces. The old rate was one cent for every four ounces. Many papers with insufficient postage have been sent to the dead letter office. This can be avoided if parties sending papers overseas will place their addresses on the wrappers so that if the postage is insufficient, the papers can be returned to the mailer for sufficient postage, and thus save delay, or the entire loss of the papers.
